In 1859, this was the University of Toronto . . .

Bitter public controversy could not dampen the enthusiasm of its first eager students, nor could fire destroy its soul. Questioning, learning, ever aspiring to new heights in the quest for knowledge, the young men and women of University College established a firm basis for our university's traditions of dedication and excellence.

More than a hundred years have passed. In a century, the fiercely grinning stone faces by the chapter house have watched the university grow to fill six city blocks and spill over the edges. For over 115,000 graduates, University College remains the centre of the campus, symbol of the inspiration and challenge that is the University of Toronto, yesterday and today.

The President's Message

A number of years ago I wrote an essay for a university publication on student opinion at Varsity over the years. I based my study on an examination of the files of The Varsity and on the various literary magazines that had appeared from time to time. Immediately it became evident that the world revealed by these publications was not a world cut off and isolated from society, but one which was influenced by, and sometimes critical of, contemporary currents of opinion. The essay rapidly resolved itself into an exercise in the analysis of tastes and attitudes. This was a salutary exercise, for it emphasized the continuing relevance of what is said and done by undergraduates to the events and attitudes of the day. I suspect that when somebody looks at the student activities of today, he will find that they are even more relevant than in the past to the issues and debates that confront us. We should bear this in mind when we read the inevitable editorials, both in and outside the University, complaining about the lethargy and the apathy of undergraduates in the face of world-shattering problems. It is good that such editorials are written, because they are based upon an assumption that a university society should be even more sensitive than other societies to these problems. But they should not blind us to the fact that the undergraduate society, particularly at this University, is a vital and lively one.

What, you will say, has happened during the last three or four years to justify my high regard for the undergraduate community? I might add, parenthetically, that these last four years have a particular significance for me, since, like most of you, I joined the University in my present capacity four years ago, and have in a real sense been accompanying you on your progress toward graduation. The development that I find most impressive is the emphasis during the last four years on original student dramatic productions of a high order. I am thinking of three which I happened to see and enjoy: the first was "Katy Cruel," a folk opera that evoked a genuine atmosphere and had charming music; the second was a play, "Root Out of Dry Ground," a terribly candid, if somewhat portentous, look at ourselves, in a situation and a setting that shouted out its familiarity; the third was "Agamemnon," in many respects the most impressive of the three, a re-working of the Greek legend done with sustained seriousness and with poetic intensity, both in the words and the music. What impressed me about these three productions was not only their intrinsic excellence, but the fact that, in varying degrees, they carried conviction to the audience and invited delighted participation. This is a rarity in the Canadian theatre, for we are inherently suspicious of the familiar and embarrassed before the analysis of our own problems. It may be that the strongest movement in the theatre today will develop in the universities. Certainly what has been going on here is far more important than the slick formula Broadway comedies with which we are drenched, or even than the clear, competent productions of classics and semi-classics in our various professional theatres.

With this interest in original dramatic production has gone a considerable literary and journalistic activity. The Varsity, for instance, has published this year a Weekend Review which has consistently maintained a good level in political and social comment and in literary discussion and debate. One might add to this the conferences that have been devoted to discussions of the arts.

Apparently this campus interest in the arts is general on this continent; in a recent article in Daedalus, Mr. Kenneth Keniston examines this phenomenon with the usual clinical detachment of the sociologist, and discovers in it a sort of negative indication of a decline in political involvement. "The student has a feeling of public powerlessness," and so turns back on the private "and immediate aspects of life. All but the extraordinarily honest or the extraordinarily masochistic," he writes, "prefer to release their tensions in other ways than in political activity." Now I have difficulty in seeing these slightly sinister implications in the spectacle of this artistic renaissance. Mr. Keniston suffers from a tendency deeply imbedded in our utilitarian civilization, to see art as a harmless and insignificant activity removed from the basic issues of life. There can be no separation between art and politics, viewed in its broadest and most philosophical way. I prefer to see in the growth of artistic activity on this campus a strong indication of a mature and vital undergraduate community.

Creating . . .

Within the protective cloisters a small group of students strive for literary achievement, while close by over coffee acute minds examine new philosophies and search for the ideal social framework.

Questioning . . .

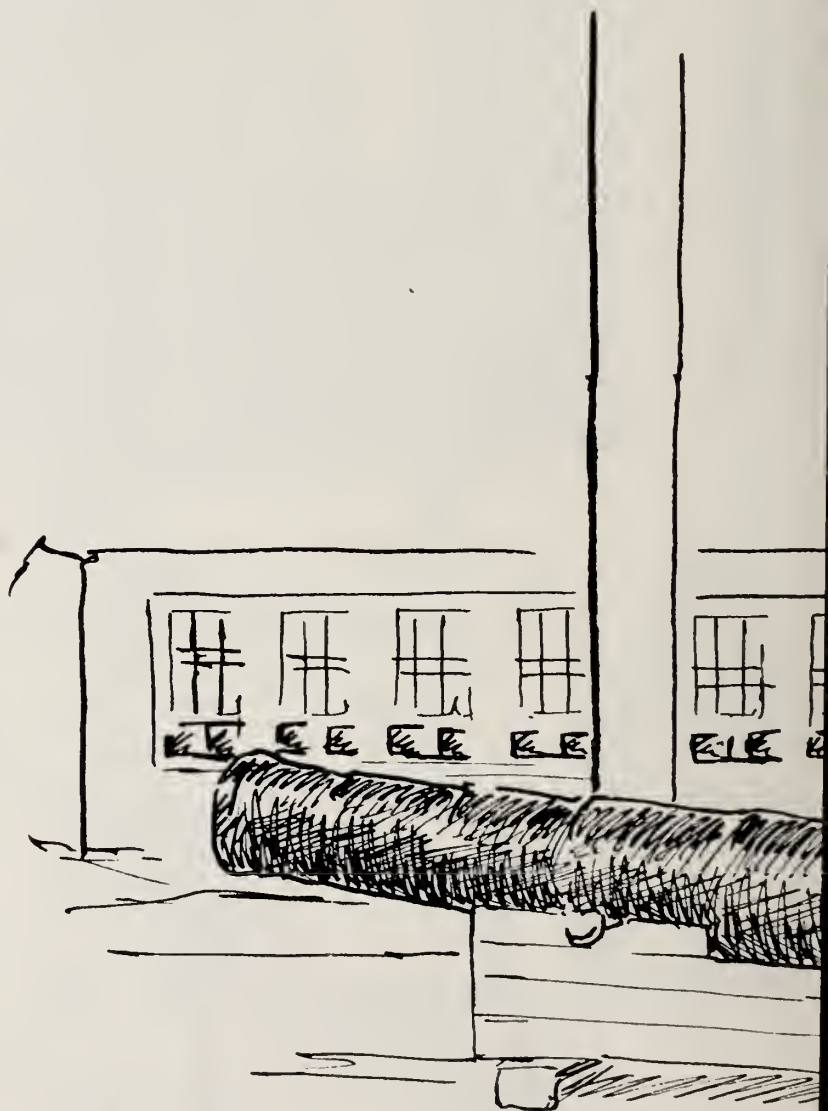

Beneath a memorial to those who died defending freedom of speech, student orators dare their fellows to search the foundations of their own beliefs, to examine prejudice under the light of rational discussion, to test the orthodox against honest doubt.

President's Message

The graduating class of 1962 can look back on four years of special significance in the history of the University of Toronto. Entering the University in the year which saw Dr. C. T. Bissell inaugurated as President, we have spent these years constantly aware of the challenge which "bigness" presents to a university. We have witnessed the rapid expansion of the physical facilities of the University, the Galbraith Building and Sidney Smith Hall being the most prominent features of the new landscape. The unity of the University has been emphasized, however, by the mushrooming of the Faculties of Law and Music in the centre of the campus. Additions to the four existing Arts Colleges and the imaginative proposal for residence colleges on the west campus have helped to strengthen our belief that it is possible to counter the evils of bigness by further exploiting the concept of federation — a concept which has served to distinguish our University as it has our country.

In its rapid expansion there has been apprehension that the University will lose its unity of spirit as well as its physical unity. Although it may seem paradoxical, I believe that as the University expands it is growing closer together. This is true because the trademark of Varsity is best expressed in the phrase "unity in diversity," and in the expansion programme students are becoming more conscious than ever before of the uniqueness of the federated university. Thus as we become more conscious of our diversity, we become more conscious of our University.

Student government in our federated University faced many problems — problems quite unlike those faced by our sister universities in Canada. It is the purpose of the Students' Administrative Council to provide a comprehensive programme of activities of interest to students in all fields of study, activities which will bring together students from all faculties and colleges of the University. It is my sincere hope that this year the Students' Administrative Council has to some extent met the unique challenge of student government within a federated structure. I believe that we were justified in initiating such projects as the Freshman Orientation Programme, The Student Conference on Creative Writing in Canada, Agamemnon, The Varsity Weekend Review, the Student Charter Flight and the Winter Carnival, for each of these was undertaken in the interest of the student body of the entire University. It will remain to future Councils to improve upon these projects and to expand them.

The University of Toronto has become a large community. Although there are many who are critical of the large university, we have in our four years, come to realize that the advantages which a large community can offer far outweigh the appeal of the smaller college. For if there is a practical end to university, surely it is that of training good members for society; in the words of Cardinal Newman, "its art is the art of social life and its end is fitness for the world." On a large campus, crisscrossed by the major arteries of a rapidly growing city, we have not been far removed from the society for which we are preparing.

In closing I would like to emphasize that those of us who graduate in 1962 are not leaving the University of Toronto — in one sense we are only joining it now, for in convocation we are admitted into that great University of Toronto family, now numbering some 80,000. It is a renowned family and one whose members have made outstanding contributions to mankind. In many respects the task before our graduating class is greater than any which preceded it, for the world which we now serve has never before demanded so much of its leaders and of its citizenry. Our greatest hopes spring from the knowledge that we have been well prepared to meet the challenge before us.

ABSENT: E. A. Macdonald (Secretary-Treasurer), Professor P. W. Fox (Staff Adviser), Larry Bradeur (Arch., Art Comm.), David Griner (Victoria, Varsity Co-Editor), Lavina Lickley (Meds, Women's Athletic Rep.), Marilee Brawn (Nursing, Inter-Faculty Comm.).

A university-wide consciousness was Council's main theme this year, achieved despite the vast geographical and educational diversity of this campus. New ideas and projects have been adopted and instituted to promote this unity, undertakings which have generated excitement and enthusiasm in Council and among the entire student body. Outstanding highlights in a busy year were S.A.C. sponsorship of the Student Conference on Creative Writing in Canada, a charter flight to Europe, the first Harvard exchange, and U. of T.'s first, overwhelmingly successful Winter Carnival.

Marc Somerville, S.A.C. President, has contributed a wise, dynamic leadership, winning respect not only on this campus, but in universities across Canada for his ability as administrator and originator of student government policies.

The Blue and White Society, chaired by Terry Kearns, has had an extremely successful year. Outstanding highlights were two innovations, the Freshman Welcome and the Winter Carnival, both organized and directed by Charles Snelling, the latter with Co-Chairman Chris Snyder. Over 3,000 freshmen were introduced to the University at the "Welcome" in September and more than 7,000 students participated in the Carnival in February, which boasted a full and varied three-day programme.

The U.T.D.U. has instituted a new policy of concentrating on debates within Canada, rather than emphasizing debates in the United States. Dick Jones (Chairman) and Judy Caldecott organized a vigorous Model Parliament.

Under the leadership of Patrick Gray, with Lavina Lickley as elected member, the Education Committee organized the provocative and well-attended Buckley-Lewis debate, followed later in the year by lectures on African and Eskimo Affairs.

Ned Bellamy, as Chairman of the University Committee, worked tirelessly with David Sinclair, Co-Chairman, to submit a thorough and thoughtful report on a proposal for a Student Union.

Ned also chaired the special Scholarship Committee which investigated the whole question of student aid. After careful deliberation the Committee approved of participation in student aid in principle and moved to allocate $1,500 annually to a university in the needy areas of Africa, Asia or South America. The Canadian Overseas Volunteers Committee on campus, under Ozzie Schmidt as Regional Secretary, has been designated as the co-ordinating body for Canadian University Service Overseas for this year.

Nancy Hogarth's Music Committee, with Bill Russell as its active elected member, has also had a busy, expansive year. New uniforms and instruments helped give the Blue and White Band a new impetus and appeal. The Orchestra and Chorus held three concerts, two of them jointly, performing to full houses appreciative of the well-rehearsed programmes of considerable quality. Noon-Hour Concerts were continued. One of the highlights of the Winter Carnival was the Folk Singing Concert sponsored by this Committee.

S.A.C.

Larry Brodeur, Art Committee Chairman, designed a new notice board for the S.A.C. Office.

John Hayes, harassed A.V.R. Chairman, and his able assistant, Ben Veldhoen, deserve applause for this year's exciting venture into music-drama — Agamemnon. The new liaison established by John with the U.T.D.C. has helped create a wide scope for future all-campus productions.

Hard-working but little publicized were Don Milne, Jeanne Hurst, Emmet Lyons and Larry Smith of the Finance Commission. Don, especially, handled with dexterity the enormous problem of keeping Council activities on a sound financial basis.

Student Services, under Claire Shoemaker, with Nellie Andrew and Cathy Higgins, got the campus to bleed liberally and worked in close co-operation with the University Settlement House.

The Publications Commission, under Gordon Bragg's guidance, ably assisted by Audrey Gertsman and John Hayes, was responsible for a Freshman Handbook completely up-dated by editor Charles Snelling and distributed to 4,000 freshmen. The Commission also published a new and valuable supplement to the Varsity each Friday, saw the Varsity go up 15% in circulation and win the Southam Trophy along with U.B.C. It produced a new and even bigger Nensis and a bigger, better and more appropriately timed Jargon.

Steve Borins, this year's Speaker, with a rare combination of firmness and humour, helped the Council through an amazing volume of business with dispatch and aplomb. Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Murrill were, of course, indispensable and Arden Spence a faithful attendant at all commission and major committee meetings. President Bissell's representatives on the Council were Professor G. R. Slemmon and Professor P. W. Fox. Professor Slemmon, especially, was an indefatigable participant in Council activities.

One of the bigger segments of Council is the National Affairs Commission, composed of Gary Ashby (Commissioner), Renate Tannenzapf (NFCUS Chairman), Judy Ransom (WUS Chairman) and Allen Beech (Weekends Chairman). The Weekends Committee continued the enjoyable and valuable Tar Heel and Carabin exchanges and initiated a most successful exchange with Harvard.

Who put the mousetrap in this cup?

Fun at Caledon.

N.F.C.U.S. started the year's full programme with its National Congress in Kingston in September. This Congress showed an interesting revision in attitude vis-a-vis Latin America. It decided to present briefs on bilingualism and tax-sharing to the Government on National Student Day. In the summer NFCUS will be host to the International Student Conference at Laval. The Toronto NFCUS Committee organized and administered a Student Conference on Creative Writing in Canada. Representatives from the thirty-eight NFCUS member universities were invited to participate.

The WUS Committee ran a record SHARE campaign, held a successful Treasure Van sale, and again co-operated with the WUS National Committee in choosing four Toronto delegates to participate in the WUS Summer Seminar to be held this year in Poland.

It was a heavy year for conferences in National Affairs. Delegates were sent to the Sir George Williams' conference on "The Causes of War," to the Laval "Congres des Affaires Canadiennes," to the Manitoba Conference on Commonwealth Affairs, to the McGill Conference on World Affairs, to the SCONA conference in Texas, to the NFCUS national seminar in Ottawa, to the Third NATO seminar at Assumption, to the Canadian Conference on Education in Montreal and to the Toronto Conference on Creative Writing.

Once upon a time.

University of Toronto Dinner

Initiated in 1958 by the Students' Administrative Council, the University of Toronto Dinner pays tribute each year to the leading members of the graduating class nominated by their fellow students as candidates for the University Honour Award. The Banquet, attended by over one hundred and fifty exceptional graduates, is held in recognition of their outstanding qualities of character and their notable contribution to some phase of undergraduate life academic achievement, administrative work, journalism, dramatics, debating, music or athletics.

The Honour Award

The HONOUR AWARD of the Students' Administrative Council is granted to those students in their graduating year who have contributed most notably to the undergraduate life of the University as a whole. The recipients are determined by an Honour Awards Committee on the basis of nominations received from the individual colleges and faculties. Honour Award Keys and Certificates were presented this year by President Bissell at the Fourth Annual University of Toronto Banquet.

The Saga of the Blue and White

For Blue and White members, a unique year indeed,
Another great "first", and with Terry to lead,
The reps from each college and faculty too,
Have much to be proud of in year '62.

Orientation way back in the fall
Was designed with great care to help newcomers all,
Discover activities now offered here,
To newly fledged members of the Freshman Year.

To each football game we went, despite the weather,
Well clad and proud in a Blue and White sweater.
The T-dances after were given for those Who, hoping for victory, must dance away woes.

The Blue and White dances each Saturday night
Helped end football weekends in a manner just right.
Dancing in Hart House to orchestras four
In the Great Hall, the "Quad", or the second floor.

When football season is over and past,
The Blue and White plans for December come fast,
And with it, new ideas for the Christmas Tree,
Where students wish others a holiday spree.

Returning after Christmas with unusual vigour,
The Blue and White met to discuss things much bigger.
Our year of firsts was not nearly through;
The plans for our Carnival gave plenty to do.

I'm selling tickets

I love you too

Hello!

As courageous co-chairmen, Charlie and Chris
So guided ideas that none went amiss.
And starting from scratch, with high hopes and nerve,
Towards second of February we did swerve.

Our obstacles greater than anyone dared,
We drove ever onwards and no work was spared;
Phoning and writing and hoping for snow,
The great Winter Carnival promised good show.

As the time grew closer and enthusiasm ran high,
We decided to give some snow-shoeing a try.
From Elgin Mills in the middle of night,
We trundled to Hart House each looking a sight.

Bags under the eyes and our feet mighty sore,
Each promising that he would snow-shoe no more,
We claimed a world's record of seventeen miles,
Only the Blue and White finished with smiles.

The Carnival's over, but thoughts linger on;
Such unique pleasures are not really gone.
Though our year of "firsts" is now almost passed,
Our memories and laughter are things that will last.

Assistant Conductor: David Rasevear.

The University of Toronto Chorus, in its three concert presentations, has gained the praise of many music critics for its pure tone, its impeccable diction, its balance, and its ability to blend its voices. The Chorus' main emphasis is on unaccompanied singing and subdued voices, and all numbers are sacred works. Conductor Walter Barnes strives for a pure tone, different from trained voice tone. In the Intervarsity Choral Festival in Guelph, with O.A.C., McMaster and Western Universities participating, the U. of T. group was lauded for its unique type of choralism.

Besides the festival, the Chorus gave two Toronto concerts with the U. of T. orchestra, one in December and one as part of the Winter Carnival weekend. The Christmas concert included light Christmas music and carols from sixteenth century to modern works, and two selections with the orchestra from Handel's Messiah. At the Winter Carnival the chorus sang sacred numbers ranging from sixteenth century English composers to Healey Willan and Stravinsky. The Chorus plans a larger schedule next year, and will initiate a weekend tour of several Ontario centres.

University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra

The University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra is an organization which exists on campus as a recreational activity for students who, having studied an instrument, wish to participate in ensemble playing. The orchestra performs publicly a number of times during the academic year.

During the past season the symphony was reorganized by Milton Barnes, graduate conductor of the Vienna Academy of Music. With a group of about forty people, they performed at the Christmas concert in Hart House and again at the Winter Carnival. Upon the invitation of Mr. Paul Berg, musical director of Waterloo University, they concluded the year's activity with an out-of-town concert at Waterloo University. The orchestra has been invited to return next season.

Several quotes from local critiques on the concerts of last year run as follows:

"A happy blend of youthful zest and disciplined artistry distinguished the performance of the University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra in their Christmas concert at Hart House last night" . . . Frank Haworth, Globe and Mail.

"There were many heartfelt climaxes, poignantly articulated dramatic outbursts, suave tempo changes and honest attempts to do justice to the melodic beauty of both scores"

. . . Udo Kasemets, Toronto Star

"Those who may have been expecting rather amateurish performances were agreeably surprised at the skill displayed by this well-balanced, 38-piece group under Milton Barnes. There was a bite and incisiveness to the orchestra's playing which together with good balance and a wide dynamic range enhanced the readings" . . . W. S. Pitcher, Kitchener-Waterloo Record

For the coming 1962-63 season the Symphony will offer four concerts on campus as well as an out-of-town trip. Works to be performed are from the standard orchestral literature and will range from the Baroque to the Modern.

The rehearsals take place at the Howard Ferguson Hall, in the Sir Daniel Wilson Residence. Sectional Rehearsals: on Tuesday. Winds and Brass from 6-7.30 p.m.; Strings from 7.30-9.00 on Thursday. Rehearsals will begin early in September.

The National Affairs Commission

The National Affairs Commission, which has just completed its second year, is composed of the S.A.C. President (Marc Somerville, Vic.), the S.A.C. Vice-President (Anne Williams, Vic.), the W.U.S. Committee Chairman (Judy Ransom, Trin.), the N.F.C.U.S. Committee Chairman (Renate Tannenzapf, Pharm.), the Weekends Committee Chairman (Allen Beech, Emm.), and the National Affairs Commissioner (Gary Ashby, Meds.).

This year two important new undertakings formed part of the commission's programme. The First Creative Writers' Conference was held on our campus, from February 22-25, under the guidance of Peter Dembski and Vince Kelly and their hard-working committees. An exchange with Harvard University was undertaken, as well as our two previously existing weekend exchanges, Carabin, (Universite de Montreal), and Tarheel (University of North Carolina).

As well as co-ordinating the activities of the W.U.S. Committee, the N.F.C.U.S. Committee and the Weekend Exchange Committee, the National Affairs Commission is also responsible for the University's representation at national and international student conferences and seminars.

This year we sent delegates to the McGill Conference on World Affairs, the Sir George Williams Conference on International Affairs, the Student Conference on National Affairs at Texas A. & M. College, the Manitoba Conference on Commonwealth Affairs, and Le Congres Des Affaires Canadiennes at Laval.

It is regrettable that more students are not aware of the unique opportunities that these conferences offer, and in this regard the conference at Laval University deserves special mention. This, the first of its kind in Canada, had for its topic "The Canadian Experiment — Success or Failure."

BACK ROW: A. Beech, M. Somerville.

FRONT: J. Ransom, G. Ashby, A. Williams.

ABSENT: R. Tannenzapf.

In conclusion, it is significant that in all the activities of this commission there has been a deliberate emphasis placed on the importance of better understanding and increased co-operation between English-speaking and French-speaking students in Canada.

Since true understanding is impossible without a sound knowledge of both languages of our native land, it is hoped that all Canadian university students will realize that this language barrier is one of our country's most crucial problems, and one which English-Canadians have been most delinquent in attempting to overcome.

For a solution the National Affairs Commission looks hopefully to the students — and to the future.

N.F.C.U.S. National Seminar

Eight delegates from the University of Toronto attended the four-year-old National Federation of Canadian University Students Seminar, held in the first week of September at McMaster University. The comprehensive programme included seven eminent speakers from Canada, the United States and England, four panels whose members were authorities on the various topics under discussion, side-trips to Stratford, to Niagara Falls or Toronto, and several parties and banquets.

The general title of the Seminar was "The Individual and Society." The agenda was arranged so that there was time for a question period from the floor after the speeches. Small group discussions, organized and spontaneous, were held at night and over many cups of coffee. The seminar began with a general discussion of the fundamental relations and problems of the individual in modern society, then narrowed down to more specific consideration of modern social and political ideologies, freedom and authority, the economics of affluence and poverty, the effects of technology, culture and conformity, religion, the churches and morality, education as the responsibility of society and of the individual, and the social, economic, cultural, political and military implications of the Soviet challenge.

The McMaster planning committee outdid themselves in providing for the 136 delegates from across Canada all the comfort and enjoyment possible. The trains were met and bus transportation provided; the students were housed in the new McMaster residences; the cafeteria provided good meals each day; faculty advisers and speakers spent as much extra time as they could answering an infinite number of questions. The programme was planned in order to give the delegates an adequate amount of time to themselves, which was much appreciated during the hot spell. The speakers and panelists took their tasks seriously and provided a most enjoyable week of intellectual stimulation.

STUDENT CONFERENCE ON CREATIVE WRITING
IN CANADA, FEBRUARY 22, 23, 24

1. To provide writers of student newspapers and magazines from Universities across Canada an opportunity to exchange ideas.
2. To enable all these students to meet and hear people who now are the nucleus of Canadian writing . . . Northrop Frye, Yves Theriault, Robertson Davies, Marsh Jeanneret, Robert Fulford and several others.
3. To present the practical aspects of writing by publishers on topics such as how to go about having work published, and what type of material is wanted.

HIGH SCHOOL VISITATION PROGRAMME

Queen's University received the National Congress mandate to organize this novel project, particularly for Ontario. Thus, in May, teams of a professor and one senior student will visit schools within a certain radius of Toronto in order to drum up some interest in higher education. York University and Ryerson will be joining us in this venture and so the appeal is not for Varsity alone.

N.F.C.U.S. IDENTIFICATION CARDS

1. Next fall during registration a system will be initiated so that every student will have a N.F.C.U.S. card.
2. Lists of stores and services within the city which will honour a card by a 10-15% discount have been compiled.
3. Plans are being made for the N.F.C.U.S. cards to replace A.T.L. cards at University functions as they have on many other campi, to make students more aware of their part in the Canadian academic community. We hope, too, that there may be a recognized usage of these Identification cards on campi other than one's own, particularly on exchange and football weekends.

SEMINARS

1. "Unity in NATO" at Assumption University in February, to which one Canadian student and two students from NATO countries were sent.
2. Regional N.F.C.U.S. Congress for Ontario at the University of Western Ontario in January. The Presidents of S.A.C., Chairmen of the local committees, and several other delegates from each of the eight universities gathered for a stimulating and productive weekend.
3. The National Seminar at McMaster University from September 1-8 with the topic "The Individual and Society."
4. National N.F.C.U.S. Congress at Queen's University, September 28-October 3, at which U. of T. was ably represented.

GENERAL

1. Literary contests: the winning entries here are sent on to the National contest for big prizes.
2. The travel department makes available literature for Canadian students who wish to travel, study or work overseas. An International Student Identity Card is available from the secretary in Ottawa; it is most valuable for discounts in other countries!
3. The N.F.C.U.S. Life Plan is available to students at low cost.

W.U.S. Summer Seminar

Canada and Canadian universities are, by their geographic positions, isolated from the rest of the world. Many students in Canada feel a deep sense of remoteness from both national and international issues. They are unaware of the problems of their country in the world context and therefore tend to become apathetic and indifferent. Yet today the vast changes taking place in countries that were once distant lands have a significance to Canadians as real as the changes at home. This demands a more positive and active approach on the part of Canadians. Mankind's destiny will not be determined by geographical barriers or an unrealistic posture of self-sufficiency.

Since 1948, World University Service of Canada has attempted to meet the need for responsible and informed thinking about international issues. By means of a programme of seminars, held annually in different parts of the world, W.U.S.C. has provided a carefully selected group of students and professors with the opportunity of exchanging views within an international context.

The basic aims of the programme are:

1. To bring Canadian students and professors into informal and intellectual contact with their colleagues in other countries.
2. To provide them with an insight and understanding of the peoples, problems and attitudes of other nations.
3. To confront them with values, cultures and customs different from their own.
4. To interpret Canada to the people of the area visited.

These international seminars have been held in Germany, Ghana, Japan, Yugoslavia, the West Indies, India, France and Israel.

Last summer the seminar was held in Sweden, and the University of Toronto was represented by Symon Zysman (U.C.), Arlene Glickman (U.C.), George Baird (Arch.), and Gary Ashby (Meds.).

A valuable innovation of the seminar in Sweden was a study project for each individual student. The projects ranged from juvenile delinquency to Swedish neutrality, but each one was related to the main theme of the seminar: "The Role of the Individual and the State."

This summer the seminar will be held in Poland, and in following years it will take place in such widely varying sites as Southeast Asia, North Africa and South America.

World University Service

World University Service is an international university organization concerned with creating an atmosphere for learning and for international co-operation within the academic community. It is dedicated to the ideal of a university community transcending all barriers of race, nationality, and creed. W.U.S. of Canada has 31 local committees at colleges and universities across the country, each one carrying out a threefold programme — material aid to students and faculties in needy universities; education programmes; scholarship and study programmes.

The U. of T. committee of W.U.S., under Chairman Judy Ransom and Vice-Chairman Bruce Stavert, has experienced a most active year in organizing this programme. Ideas and inspiration were provided at the W.U.S.C. National Assembly at Carleton University, Ottawa, which the Chairman and Secretary, Diane Bushell, plus faculty member, Professor Hoeniger, attended during Thanksgiving weekend.

September was a busy month for Judy Ryerson, who organized the reception of the Canada Council and Commonwealth Scholars. The liaison with F.R.O.S. was continued through the year by Dave Scroggie and Dawn Magwood.

Much of the time and effort of the college representatives was spent in raising funds to implement W.U.S. "self-help" projects in underdeveloped countries. This year, the SHARE campaign under the experienced chairmanship of John Nicholls raised over $6,000.00 from staff and students for the International Programme of Action. In addition, the Treasure Van sale of international handicrafts brought in nearly $4,000.00, thanks to the devoted work of Betty Lou Taylor and her committee.

A U. of T. pilot project, in the expert hands of Sammy Johnston, has been the collection of drugs and scientific journals as "gifts-in-kind." Our success will indicate to the National Committee whether such a project should be carried out all across Canada.

enjoyed an entertaining and informative weekend through the planning of Peter McGaw, Barb Thompson and Art Rowe. Discussion on "Imperialism and its Enemies" was varied with saunas, square-dancing and sumptuous meals. A Sunday trip into the country arranged by Dale Hayes offered another opportunity for informal discussion between Canadian and foreign students.

Last year's delegates to the Summer Seminar in Sweden, Gary Ashby, George Baird, Arlene Glickman and Sy Zysman, were in great demand as speakers both on and off campus. The selection of delegates for the 1962 Seminar has been under the direction of George Baird. Vincent Kelly, Judy Ransom and Arthur Pape will be representing the University of Toronto in Poland.

At the end of term a series of lectures were presented for prospective European travellers. Judy Ryerson produced some excellent speakers and a vast fund of information. The Committee is much indebted to Professors Hoeniger, Rathe and Whitely for their guidance and help in all our W.U.S. activities. This year we have succeeded in making W.U.S. a truly staff-student organization.

The year ended in a gay fashion with a cocktail party to thank all those whose enthusiasm and hard work have contributed to a highly successful W.U.S. year.

This year has seen a substantial change in the form of the University of Toronto Debating Union. As a result of the report of a committee established by last year's Union, a constitutional amendment was passed this fall which considerably streamlined the organization and will in the future allow the Union to be more effective in the expansion of its activities that must follow from the continued growth of the University. The change really amounts to dividing the Union in two parts: a representative body, and a separate executive committee; the first to "advise and consent" policy implemented by the second. Hence we can see that some of the cumbersome administrative nature of the old Union has been removed without sacrificing any of its representative or liaison function. It is anticipated that as the wholesale reconstruction of the Union and its many activities continues there will be further necessary changes.

Despite the inevitable confusion that accompanies change, this year has not been an inactive one. Activity was slow in getting underway in the fall, since the old Constitution had been scrapped by last year's Union and a new draft had to undergo several rewritings before it received acceptance. The debating team's activities were delayed even further while it was established that the Union has the power to co-opt members to the team. As a result the team was not finally formed until Christmastime. However, since most of their activity is in the spring, this did not seriously hamper their programme.

This year has seen some improvement in the inter-faculty debating field, largely due to the initiative of individual Union representatives. The individual colleges and faculties have indicated that they do not wish to debate in some kind of cross-campus debating league with a rigid schedule. It is therefore apparent that the Union can best fulfill its responsibilities in this field by actively encouraging the interested groups by means of an interfaculty co-ordinator and the provision of judges and speakers. This will have to be developed by next year's Union.

Debating Union

The University of Toronto Debating Team has been very active this year. It should be noted that the University of Toronto is now providing full support to the Inter-University Debating League. This year's President of the IUDL is a member of the Union, David Higgins (III Vic). Under his leadership the IUDL has had one of its most successful years and has finally shown itself to be a valuable institution.

In January the campus politicians once again took over Queen's Park for one of the most successful Model Parliaments in recent history. Under the direction of Judy Caldecott (OCE), this year's Model Parliament was very well organized and saw high standard of debate set and maintained. For the second year in a row, the Liberals formed a government and brought down a programme of legislation on Economics, Foreign Policy and Defence. As a result of considerable constructive criticism a committee has been set up to look into possible changes in the format of Model Parliament.

This has been in every sense of the word a year of transition for the University of Toronto Debates Union. The Union has survived the changes remarkably well. It can now be said that a basis has been established upon which future Unions will be best able to fulfill the purpose of the Union, which is "to maintain and promote active Forensic Arts both on the campus and with the students of other universities."

Presented by the S.A.C.

This year the S.A.C. departed from the usual A.V.R. tradition to present a serious music-drama. Set in the ancient Homeric world, the power of the text was greatly heightened by a continuous and integrated musical accompaniment. This bold experiment was hailed by the critics as an impressive and exciting production of professional standards.

Canadian Overseas Volunteers

Ceylon: A village Sunday market.

A life of toil for the children.

Take inspiration from a book, add two energetic founders, and mix with an enthusiastic group of graduating students. That's how Canadian Overseas Volunteers has been successfully established on the University of Toronto campus.

The book, To Plow With Hope, was written by Canadian external aid specialist, Dr. D. K. Faris. Youthful volunteers, he thought, could inject the human touch of friendship and understanding that is lacking in many technical aid programmes. The founders? Keith Spicer, at that time in U. of T.'s graduate school, and lawyer F. C. Stinson, Conservative M.P. for York Centre. The enthusiastic students? Fifteen of them, representing the provinces from New Brunswick to British Columbia, are now working in India, Ceylon and Sarawak.

The idea has already spread to Laval, which has sent one volunteer and hopes to send more this summer.

At U. of T. this year, under the guidance of Ozzie Schmidt (S.G.S.) and a staff advisory committee headed by Prof. Keyfitz, a second group of eager students has been training to fill about twenty positions in Asia.

Beginning in November, nine two-hour orientation sessions for prospective volunteers are held on Saturday mornings in Hart House. Each meeting involves a lecture and discussion of Asian history and culture, and of problems volunteers might encounter.

Applicants then appear before the selection board in late February. After considering the "motives, specialized knowledge or capacities, intellectual maturity, emotional stability, and physical health" of the candidates, the committee must determine which of the group will become Canadian Overseas Volunteers.

After exams, every volunteer undergoes intensive training, including practice in the appropriate Asian language. It is a keen and well-oriented contingent which leaves for Asia in August.

Volunteers contract to serve for at least one year in rural areas. They receive a living allowance only from the host country. In Canada, Mr. Stinson directs fund-raising to gather $2,000 per volunteer, which covers transportation costs, a contingency fund, and a small re-establishment grant. The volunteers themselves collect much of the money, by speaking to businessmen, service clubs and friends.

Interested? Adaptable? If you are a graduating (or graduated!) student, C.O.V. is interested in you. Volunteers now in the field include two public health nurses (Silvia Silvertown and Grethe Dahl), a bank manager's assistant (6T1 commerce and finance graduate Bill McWhinney), seven teachers (PHE graduate Sally Bambridge, arts graduates Elizabeth Carruthers, Dick Hamilton, Anne Jones, Steve Woollcombe, and Helen Wooldridge, and engineer Clendon Wooldridge), a doctor (Huguette Leger, from Laval) and two with backgrounds from engineering (John Andrews and Edward Enkin), to political science and economics (Dale Posgate), to agriculture (John Wilcox) who are all working on rural development projects.

The life of a volunteer can best be summed up in the words of C.O.V. Sally Bambridge, writing from India:

"The lot of a Canadian Overseas Volunteer can be uncomfortable, shocking, and maddening; yet at the same time, be delightful, rewarding, and fascinating.

"Here, life cannot be dull. In India, there are things to be learned, and things to be done."

University Settlement

WHAT IS THE UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT?

A downtown centre for families and individuals living in central Toronto, and for others interested in its aims and activities.

Founded by Sir Robert Falconer and faculty members of the University of Toronto, the Settlement has served residents of "The Grange" for more than fifty years.

It is the aim of University Settlement to provide a friendly place for neighbours to meet, for people of many backgrounds to get to know and understand one another, for children and adults to learn new skills and develop talent. Through a neighbourhood centre, people are encouraged to band together to develop community life.

VOLUNTEER STAFF

Teamwork is the word to describe the way staff and volunteers complement each other in the work of the Settlement. Students are our best source of volunteers, especially for after-school activities. They may help children learn the skills of cooking, sewing, swimming, drama, crafts, etc., or guide a small club in planning and carrying out a variety of activities designed "to widen their horizons" and increase their satisfactions and social skills in working and playing together. Another important service is teaching English to immigrants. Besides the satisfaction of helping others (staff work along with the volunteers and share their experience and give support and guidance to the work), volunteers find these experiences in working with people helpful in preparing for careers in teaching, social work, etc.

CAMPERSHIPS FOR CAMP BOULDERWOOD— A CONTINUING STUDENT PROJECT

For many years University Settlement has operated a resident camp as an integral part of its programme. The camp is located on Gull Lake at Gravenhurst and is planned to accommodate 72 children at a time. The majority of the campers come from the Settlement neighbourhood and are made up of boys and girls who are active in Settlement programme throughout the winter season. Each year many campers are helped to attend camp through the donations received from University Groups.

Torontonensis

Staff

Editor-in-Chief

MARG FISHER, in her second year as Editor-in-Chief, has succeeded in drawing together an interesting and original yearbook. Upon her shoulders have rested the responsibility for enlisting and training an editorial staff and for overseeing all phases of the book's production. From early in September, when the initial meetings of the staff were held, to late in May, when the final page proofs were sent to the printer, she has worked many long and sometimes trying hours. Marg is rightfully proud of the fact that Torontonensis is designed and printed entirely in Canada.

Assistant Editor

FRANK EDMONDS, a former Editor of the yearbook at Collège Militaire Royal, was Assistant Editor of the 1962 Torontonensis. Frank planned the artwork for this year's book and was responsible for training the section editors and for co-ordinating their work. In recognition of his significant contribution, Frank, a second-year engineer, has been awarded the Torontonensis Pin. The many hours he has spent in becoming familiar with the details of producing this year's 'Nensis have well qualified him for the position of Editor in 1963.

Graduate Editor

GWEN CAMPBELL held the most arduous and most thankless task on the Torontonensis. As Graduate Editor she organized a large staff and undertook to prepare for the press the biographies and photographs of the whole graduating class. She assumed complete responsibility for every facet of this large section of the book, thus taking a great deal of work from the editor's shoulders. Gwen has been awarded the Torontonensis Pin for her organizational ability, her sense of responsibility, and her many months of hard work.

The Torontonensis Pin

The Torontonensis Pin is awarded each year to the members of the yearbook staff who have made an outstanding contribution to its production, and have worked throughout the year in all phases of the book's preparation, giving willingly of their time and energy, and exhibiting initiative, enthusiasm and reliability. This year Gwen Campbell, Graduate Editor, and Frank Edmonds, Assistant Editor, have been awarded this pin in recognition of their valuable contribution.

Graduate
Section

Always cheerful and enthusiastic, ANN MACPHERSON was a positive asset to this year's Torontonensis staff. In addition to working many hours on the Graduate Section, Ann played a strategic role in instituting the Friday afternoon sessions in the Arbour Room.

FAY SOBEL worked quietly and efficiently on this year's Graduate Section. Throughout the year she assisted in all phases of work in this section, correcting biography cards and galley proofs, and pasting grad pictures. In her first year at U.C., Fay will next year assume the duties of Graduate Editor.

Graduate and Copy Staff

NANCY TITLE (left) in second year U.C. and LINDA VINNELS in third year Vic have worked tirelessly throughout the year, proofreading hundreds of biography cards, pasting, phoning long lists of delinquent graduates, and generally assisting the Graduate Editor.

MARGUERITE JENNINGS (above) brought her talent for rewriting and correcting copy to the 'Nensis. As Assistant Copy Editor, she corrected articles and biog. cards and read the graduate galley proofs. INGRID KEYLWERTH (above left) and JACKIE STUART (left) were diligent and dependable workers, both in the graduate section and in proofreading and rewriting.

LINDA ZENER in first year U.C. helped in correcting biography cards and in typing articles and name forms.

AL DENOV, a man of many talents, did his utmost to make the office run smoothly. His main contribution was in organizing space contracts and cheering up the grad workers.

Copy Editor

BEV HANAGAN, graduating this year from Victoria, competently performed her duties as Copy Editor. She trained and organized proofreaders and typists, and prepared all written material for the press.

BARB CHILDS worked diligently to prepare copy for the press — proofreading and typing a great deal of the original material.

Torontonensis Section Editors

JENNIFER MOORE, graduating this year from U.C., has been a 'Nensis section editor for three years. She handled the organization and layout of the large S.A.C.-Hart House section with the same skill and precision she has shown in past years.

HARRY FREEDMAN edited the large Men's Athletics section, proving himself an able organizer and a capable and imaginative layout editor. Harry's initiative and enthusiasm have been of great value to the 'Nensis throughout the year.

SYLVIA CARTER undertook the difficult task of organizing the University College section. Beginning to work early in the school year, she managed to represent all facets of U.C. life in an interesting and appealing manner.

DEBBI FRASER, enthusiastic and hard-working, organized and laid out the large section for Victoria College, making each page fresh and interesting. Her work on the Graduate Section and in other phases of the book's production was much appreciated.

LEO GOLDSMITH survived the many pitfalls encountered in organizing the Saint Michael's section, and, working efficiently, managed to achieve a layout which was both dignified and appealing.

ALF DAVIS was undoubtedly the most efficient of the 'Nensis section editors; he had Trinity's photographs and articles collected, laid out and off to the printer very early in the year. His capable and businesslike manner made him a valuable member of the layout staff.

CATHY MACDONALD, in second year Architecture, brought her talents to bear on the Engineering Section. Hard work and an artistic eye for layout have made her section an interesting representation of Skule.

VILIU KANEP, having proven her skill in athletics throughout her three years in P.H.E., this year turned to putting sports on paper. She organized the Intercollegiate Women's Athletics section and produced an excellent layout.

SANDY NOBLE, co-editor of the Organizations section, undertook the frustrating task of contacting all campus clubs, urging them to meet deadlines, collecting their material and finally co-ordinating pictures and articles into a pleasing section.

SHEILA COWAN, co-editing the large section of All-campus Organizations, cheerfully ploughed through the painful job of phoning, organizing and reorganizing the material of university clubs, and laid out her pages skillfully.

JULIE ANN BUNYARD, BONNIE BROWN and ANNE RICHTER, taking charge of the Faculties section, worked hard to produce for each faculty a section accurately representative in content and imaginative in layout.

DONNA GRAY helped edit the Victoria section, digging up pictures of Residence Life and laying out Women's Athletics.

CELIA SIEGERMAN organized the Meds-P.O. I. section and edited it in an attractive manner.

PAULA SOLWAY, a latecomer to the staff, proved herself valuable in the layout and paste-up of the Medical pages.

BRONDELL BOBKIN brought the feminine touch to Men's Athletics, aiding in the organization of the section and in layout.

Co-Editor Dave Griner (right) is caught in one of his rare happy moments, as he beholds a page proof from The Varsity Weekend Review. Editorial Assistant (also Book Editor) Marg Daly is not quite so ecstatic about it, because she will have to proofread it. If you look carefully, you can see Sports Editor Rick Kollins tucked in the left of the picture, chortling fit to kill at Marg's plight.

Assistant News Editor Dave Creighton ponders over how to rewrite a rookie's story without seeming to be mean.

The Varsity

AS any Varsity staffer can tell you, nothing is more damaging to the ego than seeing the students in Sidney Smith Hall pick up their copies of the paper, thumb through them quickly and casually, and toss them aside again. Few give a thought to the work that went into producing those columns of type, headlines, pictures and ads, and arranging them all on the page. So here is the inside track on what happens on a publication night.

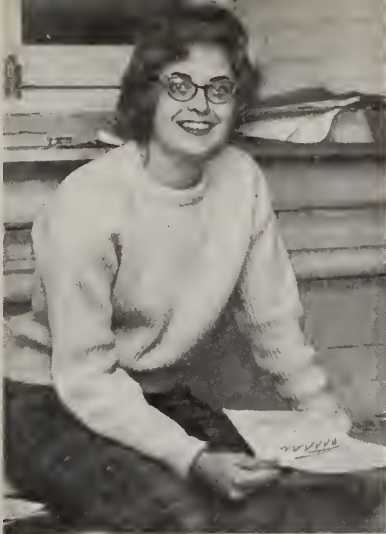

At about 5 p.m. the ads are brought down from the S.A.C. office. Peter Jull, Features Editor, looks at them and groans, "Oh my God, no ads on page 5. Well, let's turn on the filler machine." Then Marg Daly, Editorial Assistant and girl-of-all-work, bawls Jull out for messing up her intricate system of filing letters to the editor.

Associate Sports Editor Tim Phillips sweeps grandly down the stairs, throwing out insults at the aforementioned pair, who unite against him, and begins to type one of his stirring soccer stories.

Dave Creighton, Assistant News Editor, comes in, looks at the news book, says, "Hmm, there's no news tonight," smiles, and heads for the Arbor Room.

But presently things really begin to roll, as Co-Editor Dave Griner comes in, smiling and rubbing his hands as he contemplates the blank layout sheets of the Weekend Review. Soon he is storming about the office, looking for any or all of the stapler, the paste, the ruler, or the review staff, and terrorizing the first-year news staff until Marg retrieves the offending article and hands it to him with a few soothing words.

Co-Editor Bill Musgrove then enters, ceremoniously removes his gloves, scarf, coat, etc., and yells, "Anyone got an idea for an editorial?" Nobody ever does, so he closets himself up and bangs out some informed and stimulating opinion.

CUP Editor Carolyn Purden always manages to smile, even at the worst of times. The black line over her column means Frank's cut it again.

Co-Editor Bill Musgrove (left) smiles tolerantly at Features Editor Peter S. Jull, who is explaining how he actually had several features which he could have run, but the letters to the editor were so clever he just had to fill up the whole spread with them.

"Marg dear, what in &%$£ did you do with that £$&%* stapler, *£&$ you!" yells Griner, just as News Editor Frank Marzari comes rolling in to unleash his newshounds. He plunges into his evening duties, which consist mainly of assigning some unwilling creature to do "Here and Now," telling the rookie reporters the same things over and over because they never sink in, and periodically cajoling Marg into "fixing up this story — it's just a short one; oh, come on, that's the girl."

At this time a four-way fight usually develops, as Peter Jull comments on the resemblance between Sports Editor Rick Kollins and a dancing bear he once saw at the circus. Phillips immediately springs to Rick's defence, thus irritating Marg into tossing in her two cents worth on Jull's side. The sports section, the features section, and the book page are ridiculed in obscene terms, until Griner bellows the offending parties down.

All the while telephones are ringing as students inquire whether it is too late to submit "Here and Now" notices. The advent of a CUCNDer provides a break in the routine as everybody sneers at his accusations that The Varsity is a spreader of lies, a Nazi plot, an abomination, and a warmonger.

Noel Bates, sometime Varsity reporter and stringer for the Toronto Star, bounces in to pass on the latest questionable jokes he has picked up in the City Room of that paper. He loses his audience when the pizzas arrive and everyone munches, quarrels about who should pay the 25-cent delivery charge, and tries to talk Creighton into "nipping over to the Arbor Room to buy us all coffees."

Above: Art Silver struggled with the job of News Editor until November; resigned to become a reviewer for the supplement. Below: Publicity Editor Barb Amiel, who will team up with Art to edit the more literary Jargon. Wow!

A fearless female reporter comes sneaking in, explaining with a giggle that she couldn't get the story because the room was full of boys and she was afraid to go in. This is the signal for Jull and Marg to hoot with laughter. Marzari to shriek "Mama mia!" and cross himself, and Griner to slam the em-ruler down on the layout table menacingly, till the miserable offender scurries out and has to be cajoled into returning by poor Creighton, who had wanted to cover the story himself in the first place.

Ralph Thomas then strides in with a review for the supplement, which Griner scans, saying, "Hmm. you didn't like it, eh?" This is a signal for Ralph to launch into a diatribe on the rotten director, producer, cast, scenery, and script, which is ended only when Griner pushes him aside with the words, "If you don't mind, I'm trying to lay out the music page."

Jull trips lightly over with one of his phony and supposedly funny news stories, such as "U. of T. students were in for a big surprise yesterday when they witnessed the second coming of Christ in Room 6, University College." He ends up being the only one laughing at it. By now it is almost impossible to breathe in the smoke-filled den, and staffers begin to sneak out before Marzari can nail them to do another story. The noise has faded and the more faithful of the reporters, such as Ralph Mondul, are bogged down in the second pages of their ponderous offerings, struggling to be finished by midnight, when copy runner Mickey Houston takes the third and last batch of material up to Daisons Press.

Certain activities, naturally, cannot be chronologized because they go on all the time, such as chain smoking, hoarding copy pencils, sneering at the other sections of the paper, perfecting one's image, and feeling hurt that the campus does not appreciate one's efforts.

Perhaps this brief will lead you, Dear Reader, to love, and maybe even read, The Varsity.

The Anita Freedman Award

THE Anita Freedman Award is the highest honour that can be bestowed upon a member of The Varsity staff. In the past it has been generally awarded for excellence in creative writing, but an examination of the qualifications reveals that it is actually to be awarded for "creative journalism."

During the past year, The Varsity carried out a great experiment — The Varsity Weekend Review. Appearing every Friday, the Review carried articles of political, philosophical, and generally topical import, as well as reviews and features on books, art, architecture, music, drama and films. Campus editors across Canada were most impressed, many making plans to imitate the innovation. Professional journalists sat up and took notice. The Review has been a great success.

Last year David Griner, then Managing Editor of The Varsity, conceived the idea of the Weekend Review. He researched the economic and editorial needs of such a venture. During the summer he talked to leading English newspapermen and studied the weekend supplements of the London papers. When he returned to university as Co-

Editor of The Varsity in September, he put his idea into practice.

He spent long hours perfecting the layout of the Review. He fretted about missing articles, and missing editors and writers. He worked tirelessly, constantly, and usually calmly to make the Weekend Review, and make it good. He had difficulties as a technician and practical man, who had to depend on a by-and-large artistic staff. But he won! The Weekend Review is a unique project in Canadian publishing, both amateur and professional, and one which has already caused nationwide stirrings.

As the man who had to see that deadlines were met, that space was filled, and that The Varsity was produced faithfully night after night, Dave has not always been the most popular member of the staff. Nobody, however, denies his constancy and his administrative ability, nor does anyone deny that he himself was the force which kept The Varsity running smoothly despite in-group difficulties and crises.

The 1961-1962 Anita Freedman Award has been won by David Griner, and it has probably never been won by any staffer in The Varsity's 81 years of existence with better justification.

Varsity Pin Winners

Varsity pins, in recognition of outstanding contribution to The Varsity (and worth their weight in gold to anybody who gets one) were awarded this year to five staffers, with one special award:

MARG DALY, serving her second stretch on The Varsity, was acknowledged even by Dave Griner as having earned her pin a hundredfold. As Book Editor, she turned out a consistently excellent and highly acclaimed book page in the Weekend Review; as Editorial Assistant she looked after the more mundane tasks of office administration; as a writer of news, features, and reviews she maintained an astounding standard of competence, clarity, and enjoyability; as a philosopher of journalism she fought a tireless battle against any esoteric fads and facets of creeping meatballism threatening to engulf the paper; as a living symbol of The Varsity, she acquired the respect and affection of all.

RICK KOLLINS, as Sports Editor during his second year on the paper, produced what was undoubtedly the most consistently excellent section in this year's Southam Trophy-winning Varsity. His coverage and organization were complete and accurate, not only in major campus sports but even in the more minor ones such as harrier, badminton, and wrestling. Singlehandedly he produced a complete up-to-date scoreboard of league and individual player standings for each major sport, the only one to be found in a Canadian university newspaper. And as a columnist he maintained an excellent standard of commentary journalism in his "—30—" columns all year.

FRANK MARZARI, also a second-year man on The Varsity, brought a vast quantity of professional newspaper experience to his position as News Editor. Taking over the paper's biggest trouble spot with virtually no trained staff and an unusually small rookie crop, he organized an efficient and capable department, giving campus activities their most complete and colourful coverage in many years and initiating interpretive and analytical news writing for more important events. Frank's work and talent earned him the position of Co-Editor for next year, as well as his richly-deserved Varsity pin.

CAROLYN PURDEN, after three years' faithful work on The Varsity, was awarded the coveted Varsity pin for her work as Canadian University Press Editor this year. She handled stories pouring in from universities across Canada and around the world, and, in the middle of the year, began writing a CUP column for each issue. Graduating this spring, she'll enter the field of public relations, where we are confident she will do an outstanding job.

PAUL ROBINSON, lauded and talented campus composer and conductor, moved up from his last year's spot as a music critic to head the expanded department this year, as Music Editor of the Weekend Review, where under his own name and the pseudonym David S. Bundler, he wrote virtually all the music reviews. He was promoted later to Assistant Review Editor, and in helping supervise the drama and film sections, he applied the same wry determination as to his own reviews.

JOHN IANNUZZI helped shatter precedent this year, by receiving a Varsity pin though not a student, as the man into whose hands the paper is tossed after it leaves the editorial and advertising offices. Foreman of Daisons Press, Johnny has the task of composing the paper, often from illegible instructions and miscounted copy. His success in these emergencies, and his design of The Varsity's ads, played no little part in the winning of the Southam Trophy.

HART HOUSE

WARDEN'S MESSAGE

Seldom in human history has there been greater questioning about the aims, purposes and techniques of education than at present.

At no time in history has the rate of change been faster than during the last half century; and we know that this rate is constantly being accelerated. It is estimated that the sum total of human knowledge is doubling every eight or ten years. The effects of this on the common life of all humanity are incalculable.

One thing, however, is certain. Increasingly the world will demand trained leaders, specialists in every field of human activity — and it is a primary task of the university to train such specialists. But with every increase in specialization there is a co-ordinate decrease in communication. The old ideal of the liberally educated man, a person who could be called cultured in the very best sense of the word, is more and more impossible of achievement.

But in a world of explosive change, human communication — an awareness of the history, the culture, the mores of other people — becomes increasingly important.

It seems to me vital that any university worthy of the name should recognize that it must turn out young men and young women who are highly competent in their own areas of study and interest. At the same time, however, universities must recognize the evolving nature of the world in which we live and the absolute necessity of developing and maintaining adequate communication with all members of the human race, those who travel with us on the same planet.

It is my hope that in the manifold activities of Hart House, in our common life together, with representatives of over sixty nations on this campus, we may glimpse these dual purposes and that each graduating class will go out from this University with knowledge and conviction that will "transmit this world not only not less but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

The Hart House Glee Club is one of the oldest organizations in Hart House. During its 28-year history, the Club has had only three directors. For the last four years, under the excellent musical directorship of Rowland Pack, a well-known Toronto musician, the Club has maintained and extended its musical reputation. In addition to the Tri-University Concert, the Club sings for other organizations, both on and off campus. More recent concerts have been before the Empire Club, the Toronto Board of Trade, and the Builders Exchange in Hamilton. An annual Christmas broadcast on the C.B.C. has spread its reputation coast to coast.

The Hart House Orchestra Associates, under the direction of an executive of University of Toronto students, the guidance of the Warden of Hart House, and the aid of the conductor of the Hart House Orchestra, seek to encourage a greater appreciation of good music on campus through a close association with Canada's finest chamber orchestra. The Hart House Orchestra is an entirely professional group formed by Boyd Neel in 1954. Rapid and continued success has assured it a position of eminence throughout the world.

Each academic year, the Associates' executive organizes a series of concerts by the Hart House Orchestra in the Great Hall of Hart House. The concerts are held on Sunday evenings; admission is on a membership subscription basis. Students, male and female, are offered subscriptions at a very nominal cost. Since these sales alone could not possibly support the concerts, sustaining and patron memberships are offered to the general public. But the Associates do not view the participation of the general public only as a necessity; rather they view it as a unique opportunity of making the university a cultural nucleus for the entire metropolitan area.

Continuance of the Hart House Orchestra series year after year fulfills an important role in the cultural life of the University itself. Indeed, there is no other university whose students are regularly treated to a professional orchestra playing in their midst. The fact that the 1961-62 season of the Hart House Orchestra was an unprecedented success from the point of view of student support testifies to the popularity of the concerts among the student body.

The organizational efficiency and, to a large degree, the artistic merit of the concerts depend upon the devoted efforts of a close-knit executive, and it is in this body that student support is most needed. All students interested in participating in the work of the Associates' executive are invited to contact the Associates through the Undergraduate Office or the Warden's Office, Hart House.

This year was Hart House Theatre's sixteenth season as an all-undergraduate theatre under the direction of Robert Gill. Four productions were presented, with casts chosen from all colleges and faculties on the campus. The October production was George Bernard Shaw's comedy Too True to be Good. The second production, in November, was Root Out of Dry Ground, an original play of Canadian Jewish life by Howard Adelman, a student of the University. Duel of Angels, a controversial drama of good and evil by Jean Giraudoux, translated by Christopher Fry, was presented in January. The final production, in February, was John Ford's seldom-produced Elizabethan melodrama, 'Tis Pity She's A Whore. Each play ran for seven performances and over one hundred students participated during the season.

Hart House Theatre has proved itself a valuable part of the life of the University. Besides giving students an opportunity to act and take part in the technical operation of stage production, it also provides an opportunity for both the undergraduates of the University and the Toronto public to see plays of high quality and interest.

In addition to the Hart House Theatre series, productions of various kinds were presented by fifteen active groups on the campus.

University of Toronto Drama Committee

The U.T.D.C. consists of representatives from the drama clubs at Victoria, Trinity, U.C., St. Michael's, O.C.E., and Nursing, as well as from faculties interested in forming such clubs. The aim of the committee is to foster a greater spirit of co-operation among those active in theatre on campus.

U.T.D.C. this year received a grant from the S.A.C. to assist it in its work. With this in mind, its members have formed a committee to assist the A.V.R. chairman and to select suitable material for the A.V.R.

To give actors and directors an opportunity to gain experience, the annual University Drama Festival was held on January 6. Three original plays by University of Toronto students were presented at that time: Wrestlers in Exile by Sam Azjenstat (Trinity), Mailee by Randy Howard (Victoria), and After This Our Exile by Matthew Corrigan (St. Michael's). In addition, O.C.E. presented a Canadian play, Robertson Davies' Eros at Breakfast. The Festival was adjudicated by Mr. Leonard Crainford, who helped greatly with his fair and perceptive comments.

It is hoped next year to expand this festival to two nights and to encourage participation from the other faculties and colleges. The committee would like to present the original plays which are the winners at the campus-wide play-writing contest sponsored by the U.T.D.C. this year.

For the first time, the University of Toronto was represented in the Canadian Inter-Varsity Drama Festival. The play produced by Trinity was sent to Montreal, where it was presented on February 21.

In addition to these activities, the U.T.D.C., with the co-operation of other drama clubs, provided ushers for Mr. Gill's Hart House productions. It also took charge of the campus sales campaign for the new and exciting Civic Square Theatre. Finally, it selected the winner of the Dale Award, the graduating student who has made the most outstanding contribution to theatre at U. of T.

The U.T.D.C. has had a successful year under the capable leadership of Janet Archibald, Chairman, and the continued interest and support of Mr. Robert Gill. To him and to the staff at Hart House Theatre, the U.T.D.C. extends its sincere and deepest thanks for their assistance.

The College has enjoyed an active and challenging session this year. With the leadership of the Residence Council, meeting monthly with the Dean, the committees have each increased their programmes of activity and added much to College life. The Residence Council includes the three House Presidents and two other elected members of each house. The President this year, Derek Davidson, was ably assisted by Art Birk as Secretary-Treasurer.

The Devonshire Society, chaired by Jerry Burke, continues its programme of buffet dinners and discussion, to which eminent figures are invited as guests of the Dean and Residence Council. This year guests included: Mr. Kenneth Tupper, former Dean of the Faculty of Engineering and an alumnus of Devonshire, who led a discussion on University Education; Professor C. E. Hendry, Director of the School of Social Work, who described his impressions on his visit to China; Professor Kenneth McNaught, Department of History, who introduced some challenging and thought-provoking views on Canada's international role; and The Honourable Roland Michener, Speaker of the House of Commons, and the Honourable Donald Fleming, Minister of Finance and an alumnus of Devonshire, who led wide-ranging discussions on government policies. The Devonshire Society this year sponsored a debate on the subject: "Engineers are better Gentlemen than Medsmen." What was intended as an evening of comedy turned into a heated and serious discussion on life and its values — to the delight of all present, including hecklers.

The Art Committee sponsored an evening with Mr. W. Withrow, Director of the Toronto Art Gallery. Selections of Modern Art from the Picture Loan Society decked the Common Room walls. Members' reactions to the exhibit ranged from disgust to delight — a tribute to the unerring taste of the Art Committee. The First Annual Devonshire House Art Contest received a dubious, but, in the end, successful response and promises to be the first in a long series.

The Team

The program of the Library Committee has expanded. Miss J. J. MacPherson, noted Canadian poetess, was the guest of the Library Committee, the Dean, and the Residence Council, on a memorable evening on which she read from "slim volumes" of excellent Canadian poetry. The Library is now staffed by voluntary librarians, who perform an excellent job of keeping the books in wide circulation. The Library Committee continues also its difficult but rewarding task of choosing the books to be added to the Devonshire shelves. Needless to say, the Library is one of the most fundamentally successful additions to the life of the Residence.

The House Committee unobtrusively continues in its planning for renovations and new projects to improve the facilities of the Residence.

The Music Committee continues to purchase records to be added to the growing collection of classical, jazz and contemporary music.

The athletic programme at Devonshire is brisk but informal. Interhouse hockey games in the small hours of the morning in Varsity Arena occasionally were caught with the hostile fire of a professional tussle, but invariably enhanced the healthy spirit of interhouse rivalry. The same spirit was evident in the basketball and table-tennis competitions.

Social life has been the traditional round of gay parties such as the Nuclear Bomb and Sicilian Smash in North House, the annual Chicken Party of South House, and the East House Toga Party. The outstanding success for the whole College was the Annual Devonshire Christmas Party held this year in the Hart House Great Hall. Devonshire was decorated in the spirit of Christmas. Many guests, former Dons and Alumni, made a point of attending the dance, returning with the members to the Common Rooms at Devonshire for carol singing and the arrival of Santa Claus. This year's party was very ably arranged by Rick Sloan.

On a memorable Sunday in the fall, a truckload of stalwart residents drove north and returned with a large prize of firewood and Christmas trees donated by the Deans of Engineering and of Devonshire House for the party.

The Dean, Dons, and Residence Council of Sir Daniel Wilson Residence paid a visit in the New Year, exchanging stories and comparing notes on the respective Houses, to the mutual enjoyment and instruction of all.

In summary, it has been a lively and enthusiastic year at Devonshire House. The residents, as always, included graduate and undergraduate students in all Faculties and from many countries, including Pakistan, Nigeria, Kenya, South Africa, West Indies, the United Kingdom, and the United States. This resulted in an exchange of ideas, and a mutual self-education in the customs, values and traditions of other countries and peoples.

Unique Residence

Why unique? Partly because living in the co-op is living democracy. Each member has a vote in conducting the business of the organization of which he is part-owner, thus making possible the cheapest accommodation on campus and fulfilling the democratic principles of the co-operative movement.

Here there is no restriction on the basis of race, creed, politics — or even course of study. The result: a highly unlikely mélange of international students with Canadian students, artsmen with skulemen, and students of virtually all the professional faculties. All this is in addition to representation from O.C.E., Art College, Ryerson and Osgoode Hall. The miracle is that such a disparity of people, interests, and ideas should ever be a unified whole.

That is where the other part of the co-op's unique character enters. The miracle is an incomparably youthful spirit, stimulated rather than overwhelmed by diversity, and tempered with the greater maturity of the graduate students. This unique spirit pervades every aspect of the co-op life and activity: "hashing" over plans for a new residence; scrubbing floors and fixing leaky faucets; planning and executing annual house shows; and, naturally, staunchly supporting the programme of the social committee.

For twenty-five years, members of the Campus Co-op have lived the lesson of co-operation, responsibility and maturity, and have enjoyed doing it. This — is what is unique!

University of Toronto

Squadron

R.C.A.F.

The University of Toronto Squadron is composed of Flight Cadets and Officers in the R.C.A.F. who are furthering their education at the University. While attending school, students, both male and female, hold the rank of Flight Cadet and upon graduation are promoted to Pilot Officer or Flying Officer. The Squadron meets each Thursday evening at the Drill Hall, 119 St. George Street, to hear lectures on Air Force progress, military history, current affairs, and to see films supporting these topics.

Each summer the Cadets are stationed at Air Force bases across Canada and in Europe, where they learn an Air Force trade associated with their university course. The first six weeks of their first summer are spent at Reserve Officers' School, where the cadets are orientated to Air Force routine and history. Subject material includes military drill, public speaking, history, nuclear defence, service law, and leadership. In the following summers, cadets receive instruction in a particular field of operations such as Telecommunications, Armament, Aeronautical Engineering or Aircrew Training. Perhaps more important than the actual knowledge obtained is the general background the cadets receive in Air Force life and an appreciation of what a service career entails. Upon graduation they are granted a commission as a Regular or Reserve Officer in the R.C.A.F. Should the cadet wish to re-enter civilian life, he does so richer in character and broader in scope as a result of his Air Force training in personnel management and leadership.

The Squadron also has an active social calendar to supplement the training programme. There are informal gatherings within the Squadron as well as joint Air Force-Navy-Army parties. The social year reaches a climax at the annual Tri-Service Military Ball held early in February at Hart House. Here, members of the different military units get to know one another better and share in the finest formal dance on the campus. The final formal affair, the Mess Dinner, is held at Station Downsview in March to bring the year to a close.

The International Students' Council is a unique campus organization which serves as a co-ordinator of the various ethnic, language and international clubs on campus. Operating under the principle of unity in diversity and mutual appreciation of our respective cultural and ethnic backgrounds, the Council seeks to create a bridge of understanding between the activities of its member clubs. Perhaps the best-known function of the I.S.C. is the presentation in early February of the International Students' Festival. Started four years ago, the Festival is an artistic expression embodying the ideals of the Council; it takes the form of an international classical, folk dance and song performance with programmes contributed by participating member clubs. The 1962 Festival marked a change from the customary venue of Hart House to the more ample accommodations of the Ontario College of Education Auditorium. This change was dictated by the growing popularity and prestige of the Festival. Fourteen clubs were represented at this year's offering, with debut performances by the Greek and African Clubs. Co-jointly with the Festival is held an exhibition of arts and crafts which vividly illustrates the cultural diversity of the member clubs.

In addition to its "international" functions, the Council works in close co-operation with other interested campus groups such as S.A.C., S.C.M. and F.R.O.S.

West Indian Students' Association

Steel Drum Band.

Apart from its obvious status as the rallying point of West Indian students at the University of Toronto, the West Indian Students' Association actively strives to interpret the West Indian way of life and culture to the people of Canada and to promote better understanding between the people of Canada and the West Indies. Its membership is open to all students of the University of Toronto, and its diverse activities are all designed to achieve, inter alia, the aims aforesaid.

Some, however, may question the adequacy of these reasons as justification for the existence of the West Indian Students' Association and may seek a profounder raison d'être. To these, we answer, citing, mutatis mutandi, the words spoken by a distinguished West Indian in another context:

"We are the authentic voice of West Indian aims, ambitions, and aspirations; we are a living protest against colonialism and all its works and a living symbol of our announcement to the world, that notwithstanding our slave past, we too want a place in the sun, we too belong to the new aspirations of the twentieth century."

Friendly Relations with Overseas Students

The door is always open.

There is a miniature International Centre on the University campus known as FROS, at 45 Willcocks Street, WA. 3-7698. There are offices and common rooms, and a permanent staff on duty from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The House is also open evenings and weekends during the early weeks of term, and all overseas students are welcome to come to meet other students from overseas and Canada, and join in activities both in the House and with friends outside. A student committee and staff plan noon-hour talks, discussions, music hours, Open Houses, monthly dance parties, Sunday coffee hours with city friends, weekend trips, excursions, and Saturday Country Nights where overseas students introduce Canadians to their culture and their food.

Register at FROS early, so that you can be kept in touch with activities and plans. FROS is not a club; it is a Centre with a warm and friendly atmosphere, where people from Canada and the four corners of the world come together.

1961-62 was another active and successful year for the U.S.C. At the monthly general meetings, a balance was struck between cultural and social activities. In addition to the meetings, many of the students were members of the Students' Club Choir, which met regularly every week from October to February. In January the Choir participated in a concert organized by the Ukrainian Students' Club of Western University in London, Ont., and in February held a concert of its own in Toronto.

February 9 and 10, the Club participated in the International Students' Festival at O.C.E. The Club's exhibit consisted of regional Ukrainian costumes and a quartet of girls sang at the variety show.

The biggest social event of this year was the Annual Graduation Banquet and Ball, held at the Lord Simcoe Hotel. A less formal dance was held in November, in addition to a wiener roast earlier in the fall term.

The Club was able to assist several students in completing their education with loans from the Club Loan Fund.

The membership of the Club is representative of the whole campus, having members from all faculties.

BLAIR FRASER

The U.N. Club entered the fourth year of its history under the "New Frontier" leadership of Malcolm Martini. Not only did membership rise to one hundred and ten, but revolutionary innovations, such as the Friday discussion series, were not slow in coming. Overseas students presented these noon-hour talks, each on his own field of knowledge. Not only were such problems as those of South Africa and Kerala examined, but speakers dared to investigate even the United States and its Right Wing movement. A closer look at other national cultures was provided by folk-song programmes.

The main meetings continued as before, providing debate on weighty international issues, such as the Berlin question, birth control, the future of Castroism in Latin America, and the national development of China and India. As speakers, professors were the staple, spiced with everyone from magazine editors to campus political leaders.

Omnivox was equally good this year under another name, U.N. Club Review, and expanded to five pages. Points of view were freely aired on disarmament and N.A.T.O.; not forgetting such international movements as French-Canadian Separatism and American Conservatism.

The club has connections with the outer world through the Student United Nations Association in Canada. At the Regional Conference at Ottawa in December, five Toronto students took part in discussion of the peace-keeping effectiveness of the United Nations, after hearing prominent opinions. Also, sponsored by SUNAC was the annual University Model United Nations, in Montreal. Eight members of the club made up the delegations of Norway and Japan, and, in co-operation with hundreds of students from Canadian and American universities, took a crack at the world issues faced by the General Assembly and its Councils.

Still another important connection with the world outside was the trip to U.N. Headquarters in early November. It is by now a tradition of the Club that forty members, before the first snow, shall set out by bus for the source of all wise counsels in the buildings at New York. We saw the appointment of Acting Secretary-General U Thant, and, outside international territory, engaged in many interesting New York activities.

Closer to home, a winter weekend seminar at Caledon occupied the energies of twenty-five students in various useful pursuits. As often happens at Club meetings, a typical, polite discussion of "The Implications of U.N. Actions in the Congo" soon raced through many other spheres of world politics, setting at loggerheads a pro-Nehru Indian student and a home-grown Conservative, with an assorted chorus of liberal voices.

Past President Bill Ede leads a continuing effort to set up an International Students United Nations assembly, as a new spur to world understanding.

In the United States, where they do everything on a bigger scale, a support-the-U.N. movement claims good success for the world organization, and asks every informed citizen to become its ambassador. We know that the United Nations is not always right, or even united, but students here are becoming informed. They know more about the troubles and the sources of strength of other peoples, about their hopes and irrational antipathies, and perhaps some of our own. We hope that "graduates of the club" will be ambassadors of sanity in world politics.

The Ball

Polish Students' Club

Led fearlessly onward by its dynamic president, Andy Zdanowicz, the P.S.C. scored again. Moving its annual ball into the big league, Columbus Hall, the P.S.C. spent more money and made more money than memory can recall. And a wonderful night it was!

The summer was filled with the usual trivia, such as parties, a wiener roast, swimming, horseback riding, Stratford, and the like.

The Freshman Party was a big shock because the freshmen outnumbered the old members.

The Club's most admirable advance, shared by an affiliate club (Graduates), was the birth of the Piwnica (literally a cellar or cave) Club. The cellar of the residence was completely renovated by students, new arrivals from Poland, and professional people. At its first dance there were three hundred people in attendance, while the rest had to be shut out because of fire regulations. The P.S.C. is particularly happy since it at last has a permanent place to keep its records.

Polish students are invited to join the happy clique and to enjoy the intellectual companionship of the Polish Students' Club's notable members.

"Les Graduates"

Chinese Overseas Students' Association

"China Night '61"

Founded in 1956, the Toronto C.O.S.A. has now a membership of over 140 Chinese students, most of whom came from Hong Kong and Formosa. By means of social and cultural activities, the Association strives for the promotion and preservation of Chinese culture and the maintenance of friendship and welfare among Chinese students on campus. In addition, the Association endeavours to seek a better understanding between its members and those of other student bodies by active participation in events sponsored by the I.S.C. and the F.R.O.S.

1961-62 was a prosperous year for the C.O.S.A. The annual "China Night" informal dance was a great success, with an assemblage of over 200 guests of different nationalities, who were all enchanted by the Chinese art songs, folk dance and bamboo flute solo performed that night. The Association held a big celebration for the Chinese New Year's Eve, on February 4; the Chinese dinner, the movie and slides on China, and the traditional Chinese New Year setting, all served to create for these overseas students an atmosphere of their homeland. Other functions of the Association included the Christmas Dancing Party, the outing trip to Pickering College in Newmarket, the display of Chinese musical instruments at the I.S.C. Festival, and the Graduation Banquet held in honour of the Chinese graduates of 1962. But the greatest achievement of the Association during the year would be attributed to the publication of the C.O.S.A.'s first Yearbook.

The group started off the year with the combined Forestry-House Ec. initiation held at the Caledon Farm. The fun included supper, a sing-song around a campfire, and a dance in the new hall.

An attractive fall decor added to the enjoyment at the Freshie Tea, where the new students met other prospective home economists as well as the staff. Students and dietetic internes were guests at the annual Christmas Party which was made more enjoyable by a sing-song and lots of "goodies."

Festivities of the winter term included the Household Economics Formal, which was this year held at the Rosedale Golf and Country Club on January 18. Parties held before and after the dance added much to the evening.

A dessert and coffee party preceded "Speakers' Night" on March 7. Several speakers from various fields related to the course gave interesting and informative talks on their work. These were undoubtedly helpful for students still undecided about the future.

Mathematics and Physics Society

The purpose of the Mathematics and Physics Society is to give the student a broader perspective in mathematics and physics, and an awareness of current developments.

In pursuit of this aim, the Society has sponsored a wide variety of tours and talks by outstanding researchers. Among the most popular of these were tours of the Data Processing Centre of the Ontario Hydro, and of the research facilities of the Institute of Aerophysics.

In the opening meeting a resumé of current projects in physics at U. of T. was presented by three research professors. A thought-provoking lecture by Dr. H. C. Johns on "Molecular Biology" provided the members, and the visiting Biology Club, with a greater appreciation of the harmony in modern scientific thought.

One of the executive's goals this year has been to increase participation in the Club to the level enjoyed by the Society in the past. Talks presented by the undergraduates have been an integral part of this effort. The honorary president, Dr. D. B. de Lury, has encouraged these meetings, which were a popular part of the Society's programme in his undergraduate days.

The kind co-operation of the Departments of Mathematics and Physics has been invaluable in the organization of the year's activities.

The Chemical Club continued its programme of varied activities throughout the 1961-62 academic year, with the usual Field Trip, Banquet and guest speakers.

This year's Field Trip was to Dow Chemical of Canada and Imperial Oil Ltd. in Sarnia, Ontario, on November 2 and 3. The party was taken on a rapid bus tour of the Dow plant facilities and then spent the remainder of the morning on a detailed tour of Dow's Research and Control Laboratories. Following a very enjoyable complimentary lunch, the group visited Imperial Oil's Research Division. The party returned to Toronto the following day after enjoying the amenities of motel life (see photo above).

The annual Graduate-Undergraduate football game saw the Grads gain a 12-0 revenge for last year's crushing defeat.

Regular club meetings included a variety of guest speakers, among whom were Dr. W. G. Schneider and Dr. M. Kates of the National Research Council, and Dr. Casey of the Defense Research Board. Meetings of a less technical nature were given by speakers from Corning's Glass and Procter and Gamble. Dr. McLeod of Polymer Corporation gave a lecture on "Synthetic Rubbers," which ended on a hilarious note with the audience doing "serious research" on bouncing rubber balls.

The year's schedule was rounded out by the Annual Banquet, which saw the Undergrads strike back at the Staff and Demonstrators, and the Graduates retaliate, during the traditional "skits" on the idiosyncrasies of life in the Chemistry Department.

The school year 1961-62 has been one of the more successful years for the Biology Club. Its objective has been to present, to all interested, a series of lectures covering some of the more dynamic fields of biological research. Emphasis has been centred on research presently carried on at the University of Toronto and affiliate institutions such as the Ontario Cancer Institute. The Club's objectives have, for the large part, been realized and interested students have been brought into contact with various fields of biology which might otherwise have been obscure. The speakers, who ranged from ecologists to anatomists, are listed below:

Dr. J. B. Falls: "The Language of Birds (Territorialism)"
Dr. A. A. Axelrad: "Recent Findings in Virus Lukemia"

Christian Science Organization

The Christian Science Organization was founded at the University in 1938 in accordance with the Manual of The Mother Church, located in Boston, Mass. The objects of the organization are to unite students of Christian Science "in closer bonds of Christian fellowship" and to "afford those so desiring, opportunity to learn more about Christian Science as taught through the Bible and the textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy." These functions are performed through informal testimonial meetings held weekly in Hart House and a free lecture given by a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church.

Study Groups

Gamma Delta, the Lutheran Student Club on campus, provides study of the Bible with Christian fellowship. Bimonthly meetings include devotions, recreation and educational topics. Some of the topics discussed this year were labour-management relations, the Reformation, the Jewish faith, the Christian attitude toward nuclear war, psychology work, and missionary work in India. Guest speakers who are authorities on these subjects led the discussions.

Besides the regular meetings, special social events were planned. The Waterloo Lutheran Students' Movement joined the Toronto group in a country hayride and wiener roast. While the bonfire crackled and the wieners sizzled, everyone sang favourite oldtime songs. Ghosts, clowns, pirates, Indian princesses, tramps — all were bewitched at the Halloween Party. Even the witches, jack-o'-lanterns and skeletons, which decorated the recreation room, were wide-eyed as pranks were played and spells were cast. Santa Claus was the guest of honour at the Christmas Party. Along with Mr. Claus, the gifts, girls, goodies, guys and games made the Yuletide party a smashing success.

The modern chapel at 610 Spadina Avenue is the home of the Lutheran Student Club. All are welcome to participate in the programme.

Varsity Christian Fellowship

Throughout the year the V.C.F. has maintained its standards of activity and study; it has tried to achieve a greater unity in the thought and practice of Christian students in the University and to transform Christianity into the living reality that it should be.

Bible Studies were held weekly in the various schools and colleges; the book under scrutiny this year was Paul's Letter to the Romans, which provided a clearer understanding of the problems in the early church and many practical pointers for daily living now.

In the fall the first big event of the year was a weekend Conference at Cline Lodge, where V.C.F. members gathered for study, discussion and, of course, a good time. The weekend following was spent in Ottawa by the Overseas Students' Committee which escorted a number of Overseas students from the University on a whirlwind tour of the national capital. Since then, this Committee continued to provide opportunities for Overseas students on campus to meet with Canadians by holding supper parties, skating parties and stimulating discussion groups.

December saw a campus Carol-Sing, and, during the holidays, the Urbana Missionary Conference in Illinois, where students from all over the world gathered to discuss the problems of missions in the 20th century. Thirty V.C.F. members attended from Toronto.

With January came a skating party at Varsity Arena; February saw another weekend Conference and a series of lectures entitled "The Fact of Christ." The five lectures were both intellectually stimulating and thought-provoking to students concerned with the spiritual problems of life. The activities of the year ended in March with the traditional banquet, held in honour of the graduating members.

The V.C.F. is an interdenominational group and would like to urge students who have accepted Christianity, or those who are still seeking a true and living faith, to come with a spirit of honest inquiry to the studies and discussions. The members believe that Christianity alone can answer the problems of today, and only in its way of life can we find peace and joy.

B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation

The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at the University of Toronto is part of a national organization devoted to cultural, religious and counselling service among Jewish students at Canadian and American universities. It is represented on more than 200 camps.

The Hillel Foundation seeks to weld the Jewish student body into a true community conscious of its religious and cultural heritage. It promotes inter-religious understanding and is vitally interested in inter-group relations.

The highlights of the 1961-62 season were lectures given by Professor Horace Kallen, New School of Social Research; Dr. Maurice Freidman, Sarah Lawrence College; Dr. Ira Eisenstein, Editor of The Reconstructionist; Dr. Julius Kravetz, Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion; Mr. Milton Himmelfarb; and Ambassador Yaacov Herzog. Dr. Eliezer Berkovits, Professor of Jewish Philosophy, Hebrew Theological College, Chicago, addressed the Hillel Foundation on Sunday, January 21, and on Monday, January 22, he lectured at Knox College on the subject "A Jewish Critique of Martin Buber's Philosophy," and also at St. Michael's College on "A Knowledge of God According to Maimonides."

Rabbi Aaron M. Kamerling, Director of Hillel, conducted classes on "Exponents of Jewish Thought" throughout the year. Members of the faculty who addressed Hillel were Dr. Emil Fackenheim, Dr. David Savan, Dr. G. R. Williams, Dr. John A. Irving, Dr. R. J. Williams, Mr. Nathan Cohen, Mr. Julius Hayman, Rabbi Walter Wurzbarger and Rabbi Stuart E. Rosenberg also spoke to the group.

The Hillel Area Institute was held at Queen's University. Twenty-six students from Toronto were delegates to the Institute.

The Humanist Movement

The Humanist Movement is the only basically non-theistic religious group on campus, and as such it is primarily concerned with providing a positive alternative to religions based on revelation.

Since its foundation in 1959 by a group of interested students, the Humanist Movement has continually expanded the scope of its activities, in order to provide students with an opportunity to deepen and expand their thought and experience through discussion and study, fellowship and service. Central to this programme of expansion have been the formation of a Unitarian Committee last year and a Buddhist Committee this year.

The Humanist position may perhaps be best understood by a consideration of the two basic aspects of it. First of all, it calls for a rational approach to life; an approach guided by knowledge gained through research and the free use of reason. Secondly, Humanism demands a truly ethical commitment from man, a commitment to a way of life which is inspired by love.

In order to challenge students to consider seriously this approach to life, the Humanist Movement has attempted to provide a varied and interesting programme on campus. During the fall term it sponsored a series of seven meetings, consisting of two panel discussions on Humanism, a debate, and four lectures on modern philosophers. Other activities included weekly study groups, Sunday evening discussion groups, social events, and a Humanist weekend at Caledon. These activities continued throughout the winter term, being in fact augmented by the weekly discussion groups of the Buddhist Committee, Thursday Noon Hour Meditations, and Wednesday Morning Worship Services offered by the Unitarian Committee.

The Humanist Movement sponsored lectures on modern philosophers.

Weekend at Caledon.

Members of the Humanist Movement believe that the answers offered by dogmatic faiths, involving as they do a renunciation of reason in favour of a blind leap of faith, are simply unacceptable. The expanding advance of science and the natural mode of explanation involved therein have destroyed the very foundations of much traditional religion, so that today it is forced to oscillate between untenable truth claims and a faith that is merely subjective. Humanism calls for a renunciation of all such irrational modes of thought, demanding instead that man commit himself to a way of life that is both rational and responsible.

New Democratic Party Club

The New Democratic Party Club on campus welcomes students of all years and faculties who are interested in political matters. Discussion meetings are held throughout the year. Students of all shades of belief and disbelief are invited to participate. To be sure, the Club is a left-wing organization — we admit that with no shame in our voices. However, we are happy to number among our members, students at both ends of the political spectrum, from the radical left to those who simply feel that the two traditional parties do not provide any alternative.

Won't you join us once a week as we prepare our platform for Model Parliament, debate with university professors, or listen to one of our guest speakers? Freshmen and second-year students are particularly welcome. The student of today who shows no interest in critical world and domestic affairs is indicating both apathy and irresponsibility. Come and join the club that is truly interested in reform.

Progressive Conservative Club

The year began with a vigorous drive for new members, starting on the Freshman Weekend. The Club also had an exhibit booth at the freshman reception at Varsity Arena. A considerable growth in membership made the Progressive Conservative the largest political organization on the campus and the only one to produce its own magazine, The Conservative Viewpoint.

In October a seminar programme dealt with a variety of topics such as defence and social justice. Over 200 students attended these sessions, and the resulting resolutions made up part of the Model Parliament platform. Guest speakers for the year included the Honourable George Hees, speaking on the European Common Market, Premier John Robarts (then Minister of Education) on education and modern conservatism, and the Honourable Howard Green on "Canada's Position in the World Today."

The annual Caledon Conference had as guest speakers: Grant Campbell, Douglas Morton and Frank McGee. This conference was most successful and is serving as a model for other university clubs across the country.

Dave Conklin, a third-year student in Political Science and Economics, was elected Parliamentary Leader on November 4. His efforts, and those of the other members of the Club, particularly Dick Clippingdale (President), resulted in a great increase in votes for the Progressive Conservatives on election day. The Liberals' previously sizeable majority of nearly 500 was reduced to 82 out of a total of 3,357 votes cast.

The Opposition in action — Model Parliament.

Liberal Club

1961-62 was another banner year for the U. of T. Liberal Club. For the second consecutive year, the Liberals were victorious at the Model Parliament election. A combination of dynamic leadership from Gerry Godsoe, efficient and original organization, and a progressive social democratic platform were prime considerations in the Liberal victory. A policy stressing no nuclear weapons for Canada, drastic measures to alleviate unemployment, and application for membership in the Common Market, received the support of U. of T. students. Lester B. Pearson's spontaneous and friendly tour of the coffee shops appealed to students. Soap-box orations, phone calls, demonstrations, debates and speeches, all assisted in winning Liberal support.

In Parliament, Prime Minister Gerry Godsoe's appeal for a high standard of debate was followed in the speeches from government and opposition. The Liberal platform's promises were enacted in resolutions, orders-in-council, and government announcements.

Several club activities gave the 110 members an opportunity to develop political skills and to study problems facing Canada at this juncture. For the policy-minded, four committees held meetings at which informed club members presented reports on crucial topics such as the Welfare State, the Common Market and a new nuclear policy. To supplement committee meetings, the Liberal Club brought such eminent figures as Paul Martin and Paul Hellyer to address students on political issues. The first discussion weekend at Roche's Point featured Ian Wahn and Marvin Gelber in labour and foreign affairs panels.

At OULF and CULF conventions, U. of T. delegates distinguished themselves in debates and discussions during the formal proceedings and in revelry at the informal parties. U. of T. Liberals were honoured when Ed Roberts (I Law) was elected President of CULF for 1962.

Members devoted to organization found ample scope for their abilities in helping at by-elections, canvasses and Young Liberal activities. The executive was composed of President Tom Torrance (IV U.C.), Model Parliamentary Leader Gerry Godsoe (III U.C.), Vice-Presidents Archie Campbell (II Trinity) and John Cowan (II U.C.), Secretary Pat Halliwell (III Vic.) and Treasurer Ian Waddell (II Vic.).

Work

"La Zia di Carla"

An evening of Italian popular music, held in October, triggered the activities of the U. of T. Italian Club. This was followed by what proved to be the highlight of the year: the Italian production of the well-known "Charley's Aunt," La zia di Carlo, a three-act comedy performed for two consecutive nights at the Hart House Theatre. The proceeds of the play were placed in a scholarship fund which the Italian Club established last year.

Needless to say, the Christmas Party, at which the traditional Santa Claus was present, provided an enjoyable evening of entertainment; and at the Film Night programme in January members had an opportunity to see excellent documentaries on Italian cities.

Dr. Vinci from the Conservatory, with a group of singers, presented many arias from well-known Italian operas at the February meeting; and in March a joint meeting with the U. of T. Spanish Club closed the activities of the Italian Club.

Weekly, Italian-speaking enthusiasts meet with members of the Italian Department at a nearby restaurant and carry out a pleasant and informal conversazione. The purpose of the Italian Club is to foster the Italian culture and language.

Political Economy Club

After spending several years in limbo, the Political Economy Club was revived early last fall. The staff, and in particular Professor W. T. Easterbrook, gave invaluable support and advice from the outset; a room was made available for the purposes of the Club in Sidney Smith Hall. (Rumours that this was a front for a Right-Wing Sports Car Club are entirely unfounded and malicious.) The main purpose of the Club was, and is, to encourage meetings and discussions with members of the staff and, incidentally, to enable the latter to meet each other. The establishment of the Club was received with wild enthusiasm characteristic of political economists, and the mass attendance at the first general meeting was a good illustration.

Nevertheless, a dinner meeting was arranged to discuss the Common Market. The P.E.C. played host in the Faculty Club to twenty-odd staff members and students. Except for a highly enlightening analysis by Dean Macdonald, the discussion tended to be rather superficial, and was enlivened by an argument between Professor Hartle and Fred Stinson, M.P., on whether a lifetime pension ought to be granted to Nova Scotia coal miners. For some obscure reason we (and all other undergraduate groups) were discouraged from returning to the Faculty Club, and the following meeting was held in Hart House. The topic for discussion was "Foreign Aid," and at the end of the evening hardly an angle was left undebated. The highlight was perhaps Professor Triantis' suggestion that to let India go to the Communists would do the latter more harm than good. The third, and last, meeting of the year was held to discuss the present role of the United Nations, with Mr. J. W. Holmes, diplomat and head of the C.I.I.A., as distinguished guest.

Outing Club

—on top of the world.

Is there
room at the top?

The University of Toronto Outing Club is probably the most dynamic, interesting, efficient, and diversified organization on the campus. Just consider some statistics. The Club was founded in 1957 and had then a membership of about twenty. Now, only five years later, the membership has risen to over one hundred. At the beginning there were about half a dozen organized trips during the school year, whereas at present the Club offers about three trips a month and now carries on its programme throughout the summer. In addition to this, new activities have been added to the programme and its range has been greatly increased. The Club started with nothing but ingenuity and vigorous leadership. Today it is in an excellent financial position and possesses a considerable amount of equipment which can be used by any member at any time.

The main activities of the Club are canoeing, rock-climbing and skiing; but skating, hiking, square dancing, spelunking and even bicycle trips are also on the agenda. One of the highlights of last season was a fifty-mile canoe trip on the lakes of Algonquin Park, taken by forty-three members. Excellent weather conditions and efficient organization helped to make it one of the Club's best endeavours. Climbing excursions as far away as Bruce Peninsula and as close as Mount Nemo (near Milton) kept the daring climbers happy. A winter mountaineering expedition in the Adirondacks witnessed hiking, skiing, and even some ice climbing with ice axe and crampons. Skiing attracts a large number of people and several weekends were reserved for this sport. The main event was the annual weekend in Shawbridge, near Saint Sauveur, where the Club used the McGill Outing Club's cabin.

The Outing Club knows the predicament of every student — finances. Special attention is given to this. The economy of group activities and efficient organization cannot be underestimated. On the above-mentioned canoe trip, for instance, total costs for the weekend came to $9.00 per person. The ski weekend to the Laurentians cost about $20.00 per person. Similarly attractive are costs for other activities; this makes it possible for every person to participate in the Club.

Finally one comes to what prima facie seems, a "by-product" of these exploits, namely the variety of students one meets in the Club; nearly every course on the campus is represented. This is actually one of our greatest assets for, as H. Newman put it: "When a multitude of young men, keen, open-hearted, sympathetic and observant, come together and freely mix with each other, they are sure to learn from one another; the conversation of all is a series of lectures to each, and they gain for themselves new ideas and views, fresh matter for thought, and distinct principles for judging and acting. It is seeing the world on a small field with little trouble."

The Commerce Club is an association of students in Commerce and Finance. The activities on which the Club is based include luncheons, tours, smokers, dances and a fall reception. As well, there is an extremely valuable exchange weekend with the University of Michigan. This programme is intended to make it possible for students to increase their knowledge and interest in realms pertaining to Commerce and Finance by offering the opportunity to hear representative speakers. At the same time, it provides for the necessary inter-relationship among the different years. Active participants receive far more than their two dollar fee.

Flying Club

The University of Toronto Flying Club is dedicated to all those with a common interest in aviation. In co-operation with Central Airways based at Toronto Island Airport, members of the Club are entitled to reduced rates while undergoing pilot training and when renting company aircraft.

With increased membership and flying activities, this year has been an active one for the Club. During the year breakfast flights were undertaken to Muskoka during the fall Colour Cavalcade; Oshawa, where some home-built "ultra-light" aircraft were inspected; and to Brantford where gliding facilities were investigated. The Club also arranged tours of the DeHaviland Aircraft Co., Downsview, and the Trans-Canada Airlines maintenance base at Malton.

Throughout the year members were kept in contact by regular meetings which featured various aviation topics. This year's meetings were highlighted by Professor T. R. Loudon, who spoke on Canada's aviation history, and Captain D. Lowry of Trans-Canada Airlines, who spoke on professional flying in Canada.

Wycliffe College is . . .

. . . steeped in tradition . . .

which the pre-theology students are destined to maintain.

Wycliffe athletes are always happy because they always win . . .

Athletic Society

Athletically speaking, good teams are about as hard to find as good spectators around Wycliffe.

The soccer team played every game and the rugger team even managed to beat Trinity, something they must never forget. As the hockey season progresses, the Blue-Blademen get sharper. Volleyball, basketball, track and squash teams vie for the members' attention along with the two aquatic sports, water-polo and water fights in the Refectory.

The College has been known to win the Reed Trophy, so watch out, world!

. . . and winning is easy with your own referee.

Wycliffe College...

... as others see it ...

Theological Society

The Wycliffe College Theological Society has provided many things for many people this year. It has provided a trip to Austin, Texas, for Doug Dittrich and Merv Everall to attend the Anglican Seminary Movement Conference, and a trip to Victoria College for Evan Walker, John Hayes and George Lemmon to attend the S.C.M. Conference.

For its members, the Society has provided program meetings with such speakers as the Rev. Gordon Baker, editor of The Canadian Churchman, and Dr. R. L. Taylor, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, as well as sponsoring Bible studies and noon-day prayers throughout the year.

... as it sees others ...

... as it sees itself.

The potent, hard-working Wycliffe student is able to participate in many musical activities . . .

. . . from serious classical studies to the exuberant Christmas Corals . . .

. . . and CHUM

The Colleges . . .

Initiated . . .

Voted . . .

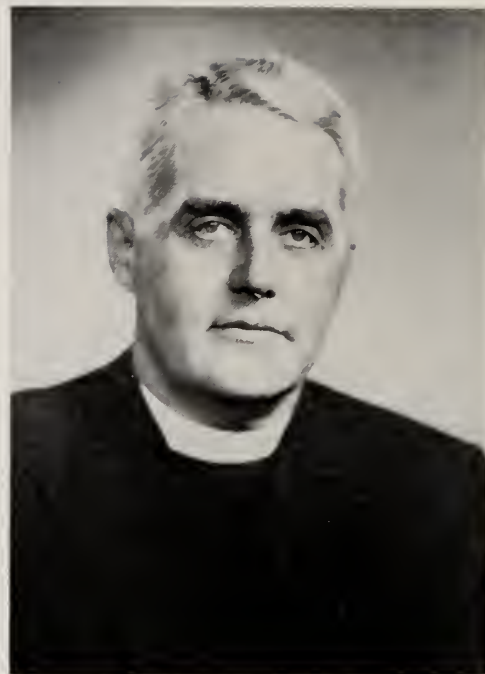

Paid tribute . . .

and finally did some studying.

At the moment of writing, the office of the Student Administrative Council of St. Michael's College contains a desk, a phone, chairs, four cases of empties, filing cabinets, and a piano. Perhaps this office, then, is representative of our function — to work and to recreate in a spirit of good faith and co-operation for the benefit of the entire student body.

Such ideals are not always achieved.

Like all efficient and self-respecting councils, we set out to reconstitute a number of by-laws originally drawn up with an equal expenditure of energy by previous councils. At the same time, we established investigating committees in order to flush Truth from her hiding place.

But it is hoped that some positive contribution to student life has been made this year. Early in the second term, the Council recommended to the President of the College that an Honour Society be formed to promote and to honour academic prowess and exemplary conduct in the College. We trust its merits are as we believe. Although unconstituted as yet, a Philosophical Journal is in the making, a publication which is to contain student material. And, of course, the "frozen funds" are unfrozen and spent with the utmost expedience and liberality.

This was the year that Boozer Brown was again caught reading the Summa — this time on the Crescent; this was the year of the trips hither and yon (and couldn't I have $50 for a tour of Islington?); of Russell and the CUCND; of the abstention, the retirement, and the innocuous statement; and, above all, it was the year of The Great Debate. To our successors, we can only offer our best wishes and the keys to our somewhat appalling Ivory Towers. It has been both a pleasure and an education!

The "Coop"

The "coop" has traditionally been the major unifying focus of life at St. Mike's — the place where day-hop meets resident and professor meets student, where the ills of the world are drowned in quarts of what passes for coffee — if one's definition of that beverage is broad.

Student operated, the coop is a notable illustration of the "dictatorship of the proletariat" theory — the "proletariat" being, in this case, those heroic comrade students who work behind the counter and at closing time introduce a combination chain-gang and torture-chamber atmosphere, marked by the brain-splitting banging of chairs, in order to drive from the precincts in terror those foolhardy souls who attempt to encroach beyond the allotted time. Despite such regular purges, however, the normal atmosphere is friendly and inviting — so inviting, in fact, that the majority of students at St. Mike's willingly risk failure to relax within its hallowed walls.

As might be expected, coop-hangers are characterized by a strongly intellectual bent, giving the coop an academic quality surpassed only by any high-school cafeteria. The coop's cultural standards have been raised this year by the introduction of a jukebox — with amplifiers to ensure that no one would be rash enough to try to speak while the works of Presley or Brubeck are being performed. We may look forward to further improvements along these lines in the future — perhaps in the form of a lending library for Classic Comics.

Seriously, though — we love it.

The Board of Stewards

As a civilizing influence on student government in this University, the Board has succeeded in floating through another year of "Spirited" administration. Based on an aristocratic rather than thoroughly democratic belief that the interested minority (more or less) provides the most stable and, when needed, most efficient means of ministering to the needs of an enlarged student body, the Board attacked its duties with a rather detached realism this year and has, in consequence, we think, managed to establish a somewhat firmer basis of financial and communicative method without destroying irrevocably the traditional mysteries of our student organization.

One of the pressing problems of a small college expanding by almost twenty-five per cent, is that of communication between students and the college administration. It is this Board's great hope that perhaps it has brought this problem to a head and that at least a partial solution is gradually being formulated; no small factor in this was the sherry prelude to each meeting which presented the members with political realities in a more delicate and soothing fashion. In addition, as some Men of College realize, the Discipline Committee has seen some limited action, though its duties remained somewhat less than monumental owing to the diocesan resurrection of a vital un-Anglican Affairs Committee.

In closing, the Board wishes to express its appreciation and sincere best wishes to its departing chairman, Professor G. A. B. Watson, who somehow saved even a discussion on carbon copies with his unquenchable wit, and provided most helpful direction in a critical time in the Board's development.

For yet another year, the "Lit" sustained its ancient tradition as a forum for the eloquent debate of weighty issues. It decided that John Strachan would not denounce the game of Monopoly and charitably excused the professor from the label of "academic vending machine." It saw a government council with a life span which would have gratified even Mackenzie King. Two loyal leaders of the opposition toppled from their benches before President Gordon passed the reigns of office to "one of my boys," the M/F McKechnie. The M/F Treadwell, an ardent critic of government and opposition, had his ambition to defeat the government temporarily arrested when he became leader of the opposition. The dignity of the Speaker was maintained by the M/F Wright, in spite of some doubtful constitutional decisions.

As a supplement to its literary programme, the "Lit" sponsored an organ recital and a folk-singing concert. The high point of the year's activities was the Annual Dinner. For this occasion the guest speaker was the Most Rev. H. H. Clark, Primate of All Canada.

Dramatic Society

The major production of the Trinity College Dramatic Society this year was Georg Büchner's Danton's Death. Directed by Fred Euringer, the large cast was headed by John Watts and Ramsay Derry. The production, though controversial, moved Mr. Nathan Cohen to write: "The Trinity College Dramatic Society in recent years has become the most enlightened and enterprising theatre group on the University of Toronto campus."

Another rewarding event was the production of Wrestler In Exile, an original play by Sam Ajzenstat, for the One-Act Play Festival. This work represented the University of Toronto in the Inter-Varsity Festival at McGill.

In February, Trinity presented its first musical for many years, The Urge To Emerge; the book and music were composed by Dick Howard, and represented the coming of independence to an African colony. This production provided a suitable finale to a successful year.

Le Cercle Français

The Cercle Français held two successful meetings in the fall term. The October meeting included a debate and discussion on study abroad, and the showing of films loaned by the French Embassy. In November, the French Consul-General in Toronto, M. Scalabre, was good enough to speak to the group on Algeria. The main effort of Le Cercle Français was centered toward presenting, late in November, Moliere's Le Malade Imaginaire, to a capacity audience in Cartwright Hall, St. Hilda's College.

Early in January a lecture on colonialism from M. Bulens, the Belgian Consul-General in Toronto, was held and films on Belgium were shown. A skating party in February ended the year's activities.

The Trinity Review

FRONT: Virginia Cannar, Robert Dinsmore, John Watts, Dr. Canacher (Faculty Adviser), Dick Howard, Shirley Allaway.
ABSENT: Carolyn Purden, Elizabeth Leppard.

The Trinity Review has the peculiar distinction of being the only quarterly to come out three times a year. It has received the usual criticisms of being esoteric, exclusive and select, but we know that it cannot be any of these things. Such accusations assume some kind of specific, well-defined policy, something to which no one connected with the publication of the Review even pretends. The only specifications made are toward variety in material.

In 1961-62, the magazine underwent a major change. A change of printers saw issues of over forty-four pages published, a feat rarely achieved since 1948. In addition, the editorial board claimed its work to be of higher standard than in previous years, and so it was.

Missionary Society

The Trinity College Missionary Society is an organization of men and women in Arts or Divinity, who are interested in the missionary work of the Anglican Church. Each year the Society helps a Trinity graduate who is engaged in missionary work. Members attempt to promote interest in, and to raise funds for that missionary.

This year, the Missionary Society raised funds to help two graduates who are working with the Indians of northern British Columbia at the Mission of Christ the King in Port Edward.

The Society had a very interesting programme of guest speakers and slide-showings throughout both terms, and for the first time in many years was one of the most active groups in the College.

Trinity College Athletic Association

Upon election to office last spring the present Trinity College Athletic Association Executive discovered that it had inherited quite a substantial legacy which had piled up since the war. After the usual charity doles, it was decided that the time had come to start alleviating the definitely sub-standard athletic facilities of the College. A natural ice hockey rink was planned and built and much new equipment was purchased for the football, rugger, hockey and soccer teams. However, a great deal remains to be done in this area before Trinity equipment will be up to par.

At time of writing, Trinity is leading the Reed Trophy race, emblematic of overall Intramural athletic supremacy. Trinity has benefited this year more from a high participation rate than from individual team success. The Trinity football and "A" hockey teams have actually witnessed one of their more dismal seasons; the soccer "A" team lost out in heartbreaking fashion, and the minor teams of basketball, lacrosse and track are never expected to win any records. However the rugger, squash, volleyball, water polo and swimming teams met with considerably more success. More athletes represented Trinity in Intramural athletics this year than ever before and we consider this to be a definitely encouraging sign, Reed Trophy or not. Trinity men also represented the University on Blues teams of every description, most notably football, rugger and soccer. In addition, the Trinity Athletic Dance, the social highlight of the autumn season, was once again a "smashing" success. The one dark spot of the season was the decline in activity of the Body House Amateur Athletic Association and the College Moosing Society. Such is the price of progress.

Football

What started out to be a most exciting and promising season soon crumbled, becoming a major disaster. Two days before Trinity's first game, there were doubts as to whether or not it would be worthwhile to field a team. But none other than Stan Revere, of football fame, appeared on the scene, and as head coach shaped up a tremendously eager and spirited team. Forty-eight hours later, the scoreboard read: Meds — 6, Trinity — 16. Already rumours were floating around the campus that Trinity was the team to beat. To erase all doubts, a week later, a completely baffled Forestry team succumbed 33 — nil. However, it was the beginning of the end: Quarterback Tom Hendy (I Trin.) dislocated his shoulder and Stan announced his appointment as Athletic Director of U.B.C. The loss was too much to overcome, although Mac Campbell took over as coach. Trinity went on to win 14-13 over Junior S.P.S. and 1 — 0 over Pharmacy. The league championship was thus to be decided in the final game; Dentistry was also undefeated. The tooth-pullers, however, pulled several, and crushed the hapless Panthers. Quarter-final playoff action saw Trinity swamped by S.M.C., but one consolation remained: the cheerleaders this year, headed by Astrid Luebbe, former Argonaut majorette, definitely outclassed all others. Congratulations, girls!

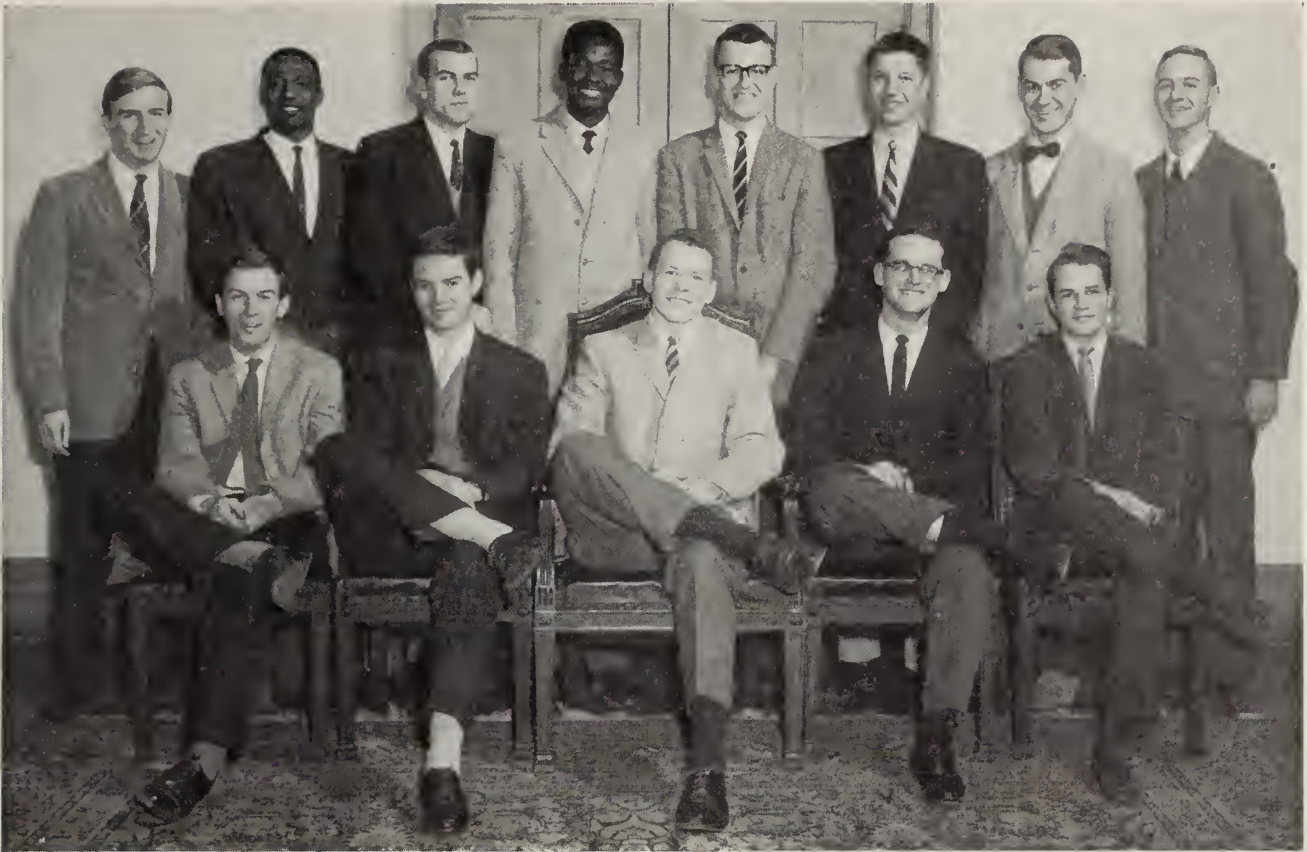

Hockey

This season the Trinity "A" hockey team was reinforced by new talent from first year, but to no avail. The team tried hard but seemed to be moved out by close scores almost every time. The team record was a little better than last year and, with the experience the first year men have gained, the team should do quite well next year. The Trinity "B" hockey team is a different story. Starting out with a loss in the first game, the "B"s remained unbeaten during the season of the league games. This team, the social club, was well represented with players from last year, and with Wilk coaching and Cass Bell in the penalty box, the team had a good year. This year, too, there was great spirit in the "C" and "D" teams and it has been rumoured that the "D" team was the best of all Trinity teams.

Rugger

In the first year of the official intramural rugger league, Trinity entered three teams. Great enthusiasm was shown, but a degree of skill was lacking; however, both the "B" and "C" teams should have benefited from this year's experience. Trinity "A" team played some fast, open rugger on occasions and got to the playoffs, but lost to a rugged Victoria team. The team suffered from injuries or otherwise might have done much better.

Soccer "A"

BACK ROW: P. Wilson, I. McFarlane, B. Rose, P. Headley, P. Wigley, A. Burt, K. Windsor, J. Mason.

FRONT: F. M. D. Witty, J. Cook, W. Fitch, P.H. Howden, M. Godfrey.

Soccer

Once again the soccer teams suffered defeat in the semi-final series of Division I. After a season in which Trinity chalked up 6 shutouts but scored only four goals, the "A"s commenced a three-game series with U.C. which, after nearly five hours of what spectators termed the most exciting soccer the league has seen in years, U.C. finally took us by a 1—0 victory in the third game. The "B"s, after winning Group 3, defeated S.M.C. in the preliminary round, but lost to the team from the Faculty of Medicine. Congratulations to U.C. on a very well-deserved championship!

Volleyball

This year Trinity entered two teams, because of a good turnout on the part of the Freshmen. The "A"s, boosted by the addition of Norm Fraser (I Arts) and M. Eksteins (I M.H.M.L.), had a good season, as most of last year's members returned in the persons of W. Ross, W. Fitch, B. Dymond and D. Doederlein. Unfortunately, the slick-fingered Black Panthers had to default the first and only game in the play-offs, U.C. being the victors. The default was due to a mix-up amongst the players as to the time and date of the game. The "B"s on the other hand showed good spirit, although losing almost all their games. Here, lack of experience was undoubtedly a major factor, but next year should prove all the more interesting.

St. Hilda's College Literary Society

BACK ROW: Patricia Healey, Ann Chudleigh, Lynn Woodruff, Mary Lou Luck, Primrose Wake.
FRONT: Moira Davidson, Shirley Alloway, Patricia Earle, Judith Ransom.

The St. Hilda's College Literary Society had a very active year. The opening meeting took the form of an inter-year debate, which saw 6T3 defeat 6T2's resolution that "a B.A. is an adequate preparation for marriage," and 6T4 pitted against 6T5's assertion that "Freshies are adequately prepared for university." Other debates were held with the Engineers and with Trinity College, and St. Hilda's emerged victorious in both. A debate with St. Michael's Senate Club, "Resolved that woman has come into more than her own and this house regrets it," provided us with much amusement as our two debaters convinced the men of the government that woman is assuming only what is rightfully hers!

Two plays were presented in the first term. 6T2's production of Archibald MacLeish's radio play, The Fall of the City, was interesting and imaginative. 6T3 chose the medieval mystery play, the Secunda Pastorum, and performed it with great enthusiasm and humour. The use of music was particularly effective in this play. The adjudicators, Dr. Parker and Mr. Pettigrew, delighted us with their witty and constructive criticisms.

In December, Mrs. Bruckmann led a discussion on "The Waste Land" and other poems by T. S. Eliot. Her remarks were most interesting and instructive. The term ended with a Nativity Play. Cider, mince pies and carol singing brought the term to a pleasant close.

Debates, during which we hosted Trinity and St. Michael's Colleges, and two more plays were among the activities of the second term. The programme was a varied one, and we thank all the students without whose support this year could not have been so successful.

House Committee

BACK ROW: Judith Ireland, Barbara Graydon, Patricia Earle, Ilse Benjamin, Elizabeth Perkins, Barbara Callier, Cynthia Thomas, Janet Graham, Ann Proctor.

SECOND: Ann Baldwin, Judith Ransom.

FRONT: Ellen Brawn, Miss Darroch, Ann Tottenham.

The whirlwind pace of Freshman Weekend got the year 1961-62 off to a good start at St. Hilda's. After that, the usual events, dubbing, dances, Episkopon, and the rest, went with incredible speed. Nearly everyone helped in the organization of special functions or with the everyday running of the College and their co-operation made things go very smoothly.

All the women students at Trinity are members of St. Hilda's College Meeting, which convenes at least once a month either to set up various committees or to discuss matters of general interest, like initiations. Most business is dealt with by the College and House Committees in their regular meetings. The College Committee is composed of the Principal, the Head of the College, the resident and non-resident heads of years, and the S.A.C. representative. The House Committee deals specifically with residence life, and is formed by the resident members of the College Committee. This form of government manages to combine the best features of a democracy with the minimum of red tape to give St. Hilda's a government that is representative and efficient.

Saint Hilda's Athletic Executive

FRONT: M. Brewin, D. Lillie, A. Baldwin, B. Armstrong, E. Brown.

The St. Hilda's Athletic Association guided its teams through another spirited season. Although only the Baseball and Hockey teams managed to reach the finals, participants on the other teams exhibited fine sportsmanship. The Football squad attained second place in the league, and the Swim team placed third in the Interfaculty meet.

St. Hilda's was well represented on Intercollegiate teams. Sue Griffin, Jan McAdams and Laurel Ball sparked action on the championship Hockey team, Ruth Nunns starred in Badminton and Di Hunt in Fencing, and Judy Ireland, Martha Brewin, and Joan Dixon added strength to the University Swim team.

An Athletic Night was held in the Benson Building, featuring inter-year competition in Volleyball, Basketball and Swimming. Hockey and Baseball games with the staff were traditional highlights of the year. In Hockey, St. Hilda's finally beat the staff 3-2 in a sudden death overtime. The staff were victorious in Baseball.

At the banquet in the spring, several silver plate awards were given to outstanding competitors. Ann Tottenham was awarded the top athletic award, the Frances Endicott Trophy, for her contribution to the athletic programme at St. Hilda's.

University College

Literary and Athletic Society

The college term now ending has further accentuated the position of leadership that U.C. holds in almost every worthwhile field of college activity. Reflecting a heightened sense of public responsibility, U.C. students contributed heavily in both time and money to the many appeals made during the year. Typically, U.C. scholars took a leading part in student politics, university debating, seminars, and cultural exchanges with other universities. Not to be outdone, the U.C. athletes piled championship upon championship.

The Literary and Athletic Society functioned this year under the able leadership of Ted Matlow and Joyce Cohen, with the guidance of David Hayne. A vigorous attempt was made to strengthen the ties binding the College together. Not a small part of the success was due to the overwhelming response given by U.C. students to such traditional activities as the Honour Banquet, the Athletic Banquets, the Graduation Banquet, the Arts Ball, the U.C. Follies, and the Gargoyle. The Gargoyle in particular distinguished itself with a vigorous, if controversial, editorial policy.

Despite its successes, the Lit. is determined not to stand still. A committee of students and staff will re-examine the basis of student government at U.C. in an attempt to make student participation more thorough still.

To those who are graduating this year, every success is wished; may future years be as happy as these university years. To those who will continue to inhabit the J.C.R. for another year, may the high standards be upheld and the fine traditions continued which will always be remembered in connection with University College.

The "Gargoyle"

More considerable already than the other college features papers, the U.C. Gargoyle added to its bulk and stature this year by publishing its first eight-page issue in a long while — a result partly due to a five-member editorial board (last year's paper was close to being a two-man effort), partly to a much increased staff and circle of contributors, and partly to a distressing lack of conservatism in our basement dungeon!

Something for everyone! It is on this principle that the Classics Club had such diverse lectures this year as "The Classics — What? and Why?" (from Professor Grube of Trinity), "The Julio-Claudians and Athens" (from Professor Thompson of the Princeton Institute of Advanced Studies), and "Three Critics of Vergil" (from Professor Dalzell of Trinity), as well as "Roman Women" (from Professor Bagnani of U.C.). The increased interest of students not actually in Classics has been most encouraging.

Le Cercle Français

Le Cercle français a eu cette année un très grand succès à University Collège. A nos réunions nous avons profité de l'occasion pour assister à des conférences variées, qui ont touché sur l'histoire de Marseille, un séjour d'été à Paris, les cours d'été à St. Pierre, et le séparatisme dans la province de Québec. Nous avons eu l'honneur de recevoir le chœur de la paroisse du Sacre-Coeur, qui a chanté des chansons folkloriques françaises sous direction de l'Abbé Jobin. Nous sommes reconnaissants aussi envers Mlle Sandra Wainberg, qui a chanté deux fois pour nous et envers M. Eugène Joliat, qui reste toujours le fidèle en jouant du piano à chacune de nos réunions mensuelles. En mars nous avons présenté La Paix chez soi de Georges Courteline: mise en scène par M. Rod MacGregor. Mille remerciements à M. Ross Curtis, notre président d'honneur, à Mme Sylvia Huidsten, secrétaire de la faculté française, et à l'exécutif qui a travaillé si fort pour le Cercle français de 1961-62.

Une réunion pas tout à fait typique.

Philosophical Society

The Thinker.

Owing to the pernicious solipsism of the president, this year's Philosophical Society had a late start. At its first meeting in November, Professor Dray spoke on "Value Judgments in History." Two weeks later we held a panel discussion with Professors Macomber, Gauthier, Gallop and Webb on the topic, "Is There a Conflict Between Metaphysics and Linguistic Analysis?" In January, Dr. Dewart spoke on "Christian Philosophy and the Cold War"; and in March, Mr. Brodeur on "Philosophy, Psychology, and Experiment."

Besides these four public meetings, the Philosophical Society, in a never-ending pursuit of Truth and Controversy, held uninhibited, informal discussions led, in turn, by Helier Robinson, Dr. Dewart, Mr. Dray and Dr. Webb. The last of these culminated in the singing of those Appalachian folk-songs having metaphysical messages.

Now what (you may ask) is the Philosophical Society? Well, without entering into esoteric abstractions, it might be specified (dialectically) as an organization — unique in this era of the twist, mosaics-by-number, and officially stamped posters — with no organization, no minutes, no membership, no bureaucracy nor, indeed, money, but which, paradoxically, does things. It has an executive, we suppose. Unity is maintained through spontaneous adherence to our motto, "Se Non è Vero Ben Trovato" — or, to translate . . . "Neurotics Tend to Gravitare Together."

It is encouraging to note that although most philosophy students do not rabidly crave extracurricular philosophy, some of those "other" people are definitely interested. In fact, one engineering student came to four meetings; Q.E.D.

University College Players' Guild

The activities of the University College Players' Guild got under way with an open meeting designed to acquaint freshmen with the format and programme of the organization, and a reading by some of the veteran members of the guild of Sean O'Casey's Bedtime Story. Under the guidance of Mr. Foakes of the U.C. English Department, there followed a series of play-readings ably supervised by Mr. Proudfoot and Mr. Rump, also of the Department of English. These readings included Beaumont and Fletcher's The Wild Goose Chase, Sheridan's The Critic, and Strindberg's The Stronger.

The big project of the season, however, was the three-act co-production with St. Michael's College in Hart House Theatre. The two drama guilds fortunately continued their admirable policy, initiated last year with the production of Brecht's Good Woman of Setzuan, of presenting ambitious and unusual plays, not for the sake of being avant-garde, but rather to give students an opportunity to see works which would rarely be performed in the legitimate commercial theatres.

The groups were extremely fortunate in obtaining the services of Warren Wilson as director, a choice well-founded on the artistic calibre and success of Warren's previous productions for the Players' Guild — Beckett's Endgame and Ionesco's Bald Soprano.

PATRICK ARNOLDI
as General MacBoom

DAVID HARRIMAN
as Pantagleize

Pantagleize, one of the major plays of Belgian author Michel de Ghelderode, was the final choice. The author of Pantagleize, a contemporary of Brecht, born in 1898, has only recently been performed, even in Europe, where he made his first major and rather sensational break-through with a production of his Chronicles of Hell in 1949. Ghelderode is somewhat of an enigma, part enfant-terrible, part recluse, part invalid, who shuns publicity and the public, and wrote many of his plays for puppet-theatre. Pantagleize, written in 1928, and hitherto performed in North America only in French by the Theatre du Nouveau Monde, concerns a sort of quixotic Parsifal-cum-Chaplin, a divine fool, who stumbles into, and inadvertently triggers off, a revolution without ever realizing the consequences.

Despite pathetically poor student attendance, which presumably was due for the most part to the attractions of the Winter Carnival, the production, in the estimation of the critics (and the cast of course) was well received, and indeed highly praised.

The cast included, among many, David Harriman, Patrick Arnoldi, Judith Urban, and even a guest-appearance by David Humphreys, of Agamemnon fame.

With these frustrating, but in the end-result always rewarding experiences freshly under its belt, the Guild hopes to carry on its policy to create, not necessarily bigger and better, but certainly equally as good productions next year.

The Residence Council

One of the most interesting and unpublicized facets of residence life is what might loosely be termed "intellectual activity." In 1961-62, it took place on many different levels, ranging from library reading through informal discussion to the more organized evenings in the Dons' suites, the Dean's house and the Senior Common Room. All were exceedingly enjoyable and, at one time or another, attracted virtually every member of the residence.

The J. S. McLean Library provides a wide selection of books in the humanities and social sciences. It carries a complete selection of magazines ranging from Punch to The Reporter, Queen's Quarterly and Scientific American. All contain much fodder for the sort of discussion which solves all the world's problems — or at least so it seems at four o'clock in the morning. This interaction of minds and viewpoints is a valuable function of any university residence and especially of one so varied in composition as "Sir Dan's."

On a more formal basis, we were all invited at various times to Dean and Mrs. Macdonald's home for Sunday evening coffee and good conversation. The atmosphere was relaxed and the food, both intellectual and actual, delicious. The Dons of the residence more than outdid themselves in the number and variety of their house "Don's evenings." Visitors during the year ranged from hockey players to history professors and mathematicians. Certainly the crowning achievement of the year was the first residence visitor, Mr. F. H. Underhill. Professor Underhill stayed in the residence for one hectic week, holding Dons' evenings, informal discussions and a well-attended group evening in the Senior Common Room. The topic was "Canadianism" — the discussion involved nuclear disarmament, Edward Blake, Quebec separatism, and virtually everything in between. Two other welcome visitors were Maclean's magazine editor, Blair Fraser, and Ontario New Democratic Party leader, Donald C. MacDonald. Both brought fresh ideas and perceptive viewpoints to the old pastime of "talking politics." Thus, intellectual conversation and activity on its many levels made an important contribution to the residence pattern in 1961-62.

Wilson Residence

Sir Dan Athletics

The Residence has shown an increased interest in athletics this year. The programme had three main sections:

The first term was highlighted by a ping-pong tournament which climaxed two months of practice in the individual houses. McCaul House won the House Championship, and Hank Reitsma of Hutton House won the Individual Championship.

The second term athletic programme consisted largely of hockey. An inter-House competition was held on the U.C. outdoor rink with the final game in Varsity Arena. Hutton House emerged victorious to win the H. I. Macdonald trophy.

The third section, although more informal, was perhaps the most interesting. It consisted of inter-House challenge soccer games, or hockey matches, and two gatherings, with outstanding N.H.L. players as guests. This portion of the athletic programme, although not officially sponsored by the Residence Council, was certainly encouraged as part of the Residence activity schedule.

It is to be hoped that this highly successful year, the first to be organized by a separate committee of the Council, will be followed by as enjoyable years in future.

There it is.

Fast action on the back campus.

It's more strenuous than it looks.

Women's Athletic Board

On looking back, the Women's Athletic Board can see that this has been a most successful year "sports-wise" in U.C., judging by the many girls who enjoyed themselves in the various sports activities, and by the number of well-earned victories.

This year, the Jr.-Sr. Basketball team took the Interfaculty Championship. The first of two Hockey teams won their league as well as the first round in the semi-finals. And the Volleyball team almost became Interfaculty Champions — it was only after a long, hard battle that Phys. Ed. skimmed through on top.

In the various U.C. tournaments a number of girls showed exceptional ability: Libby Barnes, in first year, proved the top tennis player; Viiu Kanep became the badminton champion; Susan Deyman was tops in golf, and Sheila Craig in swimming. Along with all these U.C. had football players and softball players, skiers and curlers, bowlers and archers — all active, enthusiastic, and having a great deal of fun.

The sports year ended with a flourish at the Annual Banquet, held in the West Hall of U.C. This year, the Athletic Board announced at the Banquet a new improved point system, along with new awards to take the place of the crests used in previous years. The Board urges all U.C. girls to take advantage of this new system that has been worked out very carefully, and to make the most of the whole athletic programme offered them. Remember those wise Athenians: "a healthy mind in a healthy body" . . . that's our motto!

U.C.-P.H.E. teams have been consistently among the University's best so far in 1961-62.

The track team started the year in winning fashion, capturing the laurels in both the Intramural and University track meets. The latter meet was highlighted by the running of Bruce Kidd, who won both the mile and three-mile races, turning in record-breaking times. Juri Sutt, who dominated the sprints and the broad jump, and Ray Kosn who walked away with the weight events, also contributed greatly to victory.

U.C. in the spring battled it out with St. Mike's and S.P.S. for the indoor track championship. A pleasant surprise for U.C. came in the form of Rudrique Shinter, a student from Northern Rhodesia, who has been a consistent winner in the middle distance races.

The brilliant play of Don Arthurs, coupled with the amazing goal tending of Al Kingstone, led U.C. to the lacrosse championships. The soccer championship also came U.C.'s way, with veteran Nick Roussanoff and Dave Lang and Radcliffe Yearwood coming up with the big plays. It was by no means an easy victory, as the team battled St. Mike's for nearly three hours of overtime before it emerged with the glory of a hard-fought victory.

U.C. also showed surprisingly well in football. When the Redmen came up with victories in their first two games, it appeared that they were prepared to rewrite Mulock Cup history. They shocked the eventual champions of Victoria, winning both games against Vic. during the regular season. U.C. finished in a four-way tie for first place, but were forced to go into the playoffs without the leadership of quarterback Mike Wright. As a consequence, the Redmen were edged out of the playoffs, losing a heartbreaker to St. Michael's.

U.C. also challenged St. Michael's for the lead in major league basketball and hoped to repeat its victory of 1960-61. Whether they do or not, U.C. will have had a very successful season in the won and lost column.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker officiates at the opening of the modern and spacious Victoria Library.

The new Victoria College Library was opened officially by the Prime Minister of Canada, the Right Honourable John Diefenbaker, on September 21, 1961.

The building consists of four floors and a mezzanine floor. There is a Stack Room on the basement level with accommodation for 150,000 volumes and 57 study carrels, a Reading Room on the main floor accommodating 200 readers and 7,000 volumes, and a Periodicals Room on the mezzanine floor with adjoining stacks.

The sub-basement houses the Language Laboratory of Victoria College and the Archives of the United Church. The top floor consists of rooms for special collections, seminars, and offices for members of the teaching staff of Victoria College.

The past term on the Old Ontario Strand has been one of the most memorable in Victoria's history. There was a sense of newness and challenge. Newest of all was the Victoria College Library, opened by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in early October. And the challenge? — a fifteen minute walk or run from Victoria to the new Sidney Smith Hall for university lectures.

In student extracurricular life, the newest challenge was the Victoria College Union Council of twenty members, which this year replaced the unwieldy Assembly of forty-five members. With a smaller executive of five, the twenty members of the V.C.U.C. met the challenge of a closer control over student activities and a more tightly knit form of student government.

A new approach to freshman and Vic initiations announced the change in heart. The Bob Apple Battle was replaced with seminars for freshmen on "Why Go to University?" During the summer, several members of the V.C.U.C. produced the Victoria Student's Handbook with a complete guide to Vic activities.

There was a new bolstering of the creative arts by the V.C.U.C. A Contemporary Club with 100 members was instituted to explore and appreciate the arts in Toronto. The Productions Committee of the V.C.U.C. established a Creative Writer's Fellowship, to enable worthy students at Vic to spend part of their summers writing for the theatre.

In November the V.C.U.C. gave birth to one of the most outstanding contributions to the cultural life of U. of T., the Victoria Conference on the Arts in Canada. Eighty delegates from the colleges and faculties of U. of T. visited Victoria one weekend in February for three days of seminars and panel discussions on "The Creative Arts in Society." The Conference should become an annual event.

1961-62 was another exciting year for Vic stage productions. Mushroom Malady, the Bob Revue show in the fall, delighted capacity audiences. It was awarded the trophy for the best student-written musical production on campus. Student enthusiasm gave evidence of the quality of the Music Club's production of Brigadoon. The Drama Club's Cymbeline did well at the box-office, and displayed a wealth of acting talent in the first-year class.

The athletes at Victoria also had a proud year. To the chagrin of the men of Skule, the Scarlet and Gold machine carried away the Mulock Cup for an unprecedented fourth straight win.

Again, Vic's "Howdy Hop" proved the favourite reunion dance in the fall. Other social highlights of the year were The Scarlet and Gold in November, and the Victoria College Formal in January, held again in Hart House Great Hall.

Many members of Victoria's graduating class were involved in key university-wide activities. Vic provided the President and Vice-President of the Students' Administrative Council, both Co-Editors of the Varsity, the Editor of Torontonensis, and the Co-Editor of Jargon.

As 6T2 graduates, Victoria's members are grateful for many vital memories. May the following years be as successful as the preceding ones have been happy.

The Class of 6T2 has had a very successful stay at Victoria College, and it is with a heartfelt twinge of sadness that we realize our remaining days at Vic have drawn to a close. When we first entered the College, 1962 seemed very far ahead of us, and yet the interim has passed so swiftly we know not where.

But Victoria will not soon forget us, for we have left behind a varied and colourful career. Right from our freshman year in 1958-59, it became evident that 6T2 was bound for success, for ours was a spirited class with plenty of enthusiasm for College activities. This year 6T2 organized the "Howdy Hop" in September, and held a very well-attended Folk Singing Party in December. The gala graduation banquet, in Hart House on March 1, 1962, proved a fitting conclusion to a wonderful stay at Victoria College for the Class of 6T2.

The Class of 6T3 has had a very enjoyable year. It started off the fall social season with a theatre party, preceded by dinner at the Kwong Chow Restaurant. The executive then concerned themselves with the organization of the Vic Blood Campaign, and did the background work for the Scarlet and Gold, helping to make the evening a success. At the Class Banquet Dr. J. Robson of the College English staff spoke to the group assembled in Burwash Hall.

Early in the spring term, 6T3 of Trinity and Vic combined for a skating party, followed by refreshments at the Buttery. A relaxed weekend with the Class of 6T4 was held at the Caledon Farm, followed by another Blood Campaign just before students turned to their individual studies. Although each went his separate way after exams, 6T3 was still a unit in spirit, remembering a wonderful third year at Vic.

The Class of 6T4 had the pleasure of welcoming the freshmen by initiating them. 6T4 attempted to make it a real introduction to college life. The Bob-Apple-Battle was replaced by less strenuous and dangerous (for the Sophs., that is) events, such as the Hounds 'n' Hares Chase and the intercollegiate Tug-of-War. Despite intermittent drizzling rain, the trip to Camp Bolton was well attended. In the evening, hot food and square dancing awaited the starving, overworked frosh.

The 6T4 class party was a square dance and pizza party, held in Wymilwood. Everyone who went agreed that it was a most enjoyable evening. Hart House was the scene for the formal, a black-tie affair, which 6T4 helped sponsor. The Caledon weekend was February 17 and 18.

The Class of 6T5 of Victoria College established itself on the Freshman Weekend of September 15-17. Here their potential began to show. A successful beginning continued on into the initiation week and the daily routine. Under the direction of a capable executive, the first class activity was a weekend at the Caledon Hills farm. This was followed by a second trip to the farm during Christmas week. Both excursions were very successful. A class party on February 9 was the biggest smash of the year. The theme was Vagabond Valentine. Hobo sweethearts started the evening by skating in the Vic rink. This was followed by dancing to the music of Greg Peters and his band. If this year was any indication of things to come, much will be contributed to the University by 6T5.

Debating Parliament

This was a banner year for the Victoria College Debating Parliament. Increased attendance, wide participation and noted guest speakers, all contributed to make this one of the best seasons yet. Topics ranged in scope from "A Pub on Campus" to "Nuclear Arms for Canada."

In addition to the eight regular debates every second Tuesday night, Vic debating teams sallied forth to ravage other campus clubs in their own territory and even managed to defeat the well-known St. Mike's Senate Club. In addition to these local successes, the Club burst forth into international fame by doing exceptionally well in the Rochester I.T. Canadian-American Debating Tournament.

A highlight of the year was the impromptu debating. So popular was the activity that sessions were increased from one to three a week. The Faculty Debate and impromptu finals rounded out the successful programme for the year.

French Club

"Vive le Club Français" was the cry at Victoria College this year, thanks to four well-planned meetings and a record attendance.

Mr. Roy Schatz of the Mendelssohn Choir and Miss Lorraine Jackson of the Conservatory provided us with two musical evenings during the fall term.

The New Year opened with a Victoria-Trinity reunion at Trinity and was so successful that future reunions have been planned.

The final "coup de grace" was The French Club banquet at La Maison Doree. Judging by the attendance the Club should hold all its future meetings there. The motto? "Vive la cuisine francaise!"

Contemporary Club

Professor Buitenhuis, Poulaine Thompson, Poul Wilson, Sondy Burnett.

Any report on the activities of a club as new as the Contemporary Club, and with a name as singularly obscure, should be prefaced with a brief statement of its aims and purposes. This Club exists for the students who are interested in the seven lively arts and the many opportunities in Toronto to learn more about them. The Club not only makes available group bookings, but also invites speakers who are authorities in their particular field to address the members.

This year the Contemporary Club attended: the memorable double bill at the Crest, Beckett's Krapp's Last Tape and Albee's The Zoo Story; Berlioz' The Damnation of Faust at Massey Hall; the National Ballet at the Royal Alexandra Theatre; and toured the Heritage de France exhibition at the Art Gallery and the C.B.C. television studios.

What does V.C.C.S.U. stand for? Why, the Victoria College Church Students' Union! It is a group of young people who are struggling with the problems of youth on campus. In the weekly meetings, speakers and discussions seek to shed new light on group and personal problems. The fellowship of the group stimulates comment and argument on various topics, from basic theology to the challenge of agnosticism. Fellowship was evident this fall in a wiener roast at Dr. Joblin's, a weekend at Five Oaks Christian Workers' Centre, and a day spent with the students at Emmanuel College.

It is felt that the greatest assets of the groups are a respect for opinions and a real Christian concern to understand each person's search for truth and meaning in life.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is a member of the International Fellowship of Evangelical Students; a movement whose purpose is "to know Christ and to make Him known." By far the most important of the I.V.C.F. activities in Vic are the Bible Study groups, in which students must come to grips with the ever-increasing challenge to the authority of Scripture. Social events, informal discussions and conferences provide excellent opportunities for meeting fellow students and for sharing the experiences of the Christian life. Lecture series are also an integral part of the I.V.C.F. programme. It is the desire of students in Inter-Varsity to face candidly the question of the relevance of the Christian faith to the twentieth century world.

Student Christian Movement

The Victoria College S.C.M. is open to all students. It tries to provide an opportunity for those of different beliefs to discuss their problems.

Included in the year's programme were study groups on such topics as "Primitive Christianity" and "Obstacles to Faith," as well as more informal discussion groups on the problems of the Christian in the world today.

It is sincerely hoped that the S.C.M. has provided and will continue to provide an opportunity for consideration of the importance and relevance of the Christian gospel to this scientific era.

The Victoria Conference on the Arts in Canada

The first annual Victoria Conference on the Arts in Canada was the outstanding success of the University cultural scene this year.

Approximately eighty students, from every college and faculty in the U. of T., met to discuss the general theme, "The Creative Arts in Society." Over a three-day period of panel discussions, round-table seminars, and informal dinners and gatherings, the problems of the artist and his relation to his media, his audience and himself, were investigated.

The first panel, moderated by Alan Jarvis, saw writer Kildare Dobbs, director Leon Major, composer Harvey Olnick, and painter John Gould debate "The Arts and the Artist." The second panel dealt mainly with the social arts, and, under Dr. Peter Buitenhuis' direction, saw Marshall McLuhan, Allan Fleming, Robert Weaver and Irving Grossman discuss "The Arts and the Man in the Street."

The Conference reached a climax with an address by Victoria's Principal Northrop Frye on "The Arts and the Student." Other highlights were: a talk on the Canada Council's work by President Bissell; a visit to the art collection of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Zacks; and an exhibition of contemporary Canadian painting and sculpture in Alumni Hall.

The Victoria College Music Club, one of the most active groups on campus, has this year expanded to include a Folksinging Group, a Record Room, and a Student Orchestra. For the first time it abandoned Gilbert and Sullivan operettas and presented, as its major production, the Lerner and Loewe musical Brigadoon. Its great success promises further endeavours in the Broadway field in the future.

Talented students perform in a series of Sunday Evening and Tuesday Noon-Hour Concerts; the Chapel Choir, another branch of the Club, makes a valuable contribution to Victoria Chapel services. Social functions such as the annual Formal, Cast Party, and Skating Party give the members of all groups a chance to become acquainted.

Offering opportunities for appreciation and personal expression in this complete range of musical classifications and interests, the Music Club plays a vital role in the life of Victoria students.

Dramatic Society

1961-62 was another successful season for the Victoria College Dramatic Society. The Club's major production was Cymbeline, a story of pride and passion in early Britain, which brought Shakespeare back to university theatre after an interval of five years. The U.T.D.C. this year emphasized the production of original plays by student writers, and the Vic Dramatic Society contributed to this a one-act play by Randy Howard. Four one-act plays were presented during the year; one each by Shaw and Chekov in the first term, and two in the second. Under the executive leadership of Terry Cox, David Crampton and Gordon Albright, the Victoria College Dramatic Society has become an established and vital group in campus life, and looks forward to another year of production in 1962-63.

The Bob '61, Mushroom Malady, marked a daring departure in campus theatre. Combining non-representational settings with a jazz-oriented musical score, Mushroom Malady emerged as a delightful fantasy. The book, by Dennis Lee, blended biting satire on the cold war with the lyricism of poetry, to create a powerful appeal for a return to child-like hope and understanding of beauty.

The show was produced by Stephen Halperin, who made it a resounding financial success. Bob Hamlin was the imaginative stage director, with Peter Grant doing double duty as composer and musical director.

Joanne Chong starred as the fey, who creates a world in her search for companionship. Her performance was met with universal critical acclaim. As her friend, the singing "Yummy Man," Gary Duke was both hilarious and touching. The romantic leads were well portrayed by two freshman discoveries, Darlene Smith and Tony Reynolds.

The Bob continues to grow as one of the major theatrical events of the college season. Mushroom Malady earned its place among the upper echelon of campus musical comedy. Bob '62 has a proud tradition to uphold.

In the belief that a thicker Acta less frequently published would result in a more attractive format than formerly, the staff of Acta decided to publish two issues per year instead of the usual four. As a result, Acta has almost taken on the appearance of a book. The new office in the Victoria College basement was the scene of frenzied activity in the preparations for these mammoth editions, until the staff with unusual unanimity decided to hold further meetings in the more genial atmosphere of the coffee shop.

Acta provides both a training ground for budding literary talent at Victoria and a permanent vehicle of expression for the more experienced writers of the college. To stimulate contributors of the former type, Acta has initiated a contest with a prize of $50 for the best essay submitted, be it literary, discursive, or humorous. It is hoped that this will attract new writers to take their courage in hand, and display their talents to an eager reading public of 13,000, both within the college and outside.

"The Strand"

The Victoria College Strand, published by the Victoria College Union Council, is issued every two weeks. The Strand's announcement sheet, the Bulletin, is issued weekly.

The Strand is a highly complex organization which includes the witty and informative writers, the editor, who edits, editorializes and worries, and the managing editor, who is responsible for the physical make-up of the Strand. To these we must add the proofreader, the delivery man, and the paperboy, otherwise known as the business manager.

Besides moulding public opinion and keeping Vic students up-to-date on dramatic and athletic activities, the Strand offers a splendid opportunity every two weeks for germinating journalists to show their germinating journalistic skills.

The first meeting of the Victoria College Classics Club, held in October, took the form of a lively debate. It was resolved that Greece had contributed more to the modern world than had Rome. Don McNeill and Dr. Grant spoke for the affirmative and Jennifer Payne and Dr. Keyes for the negative. The next month, Professor Thompson spoke on "Hesiod and the Sea-farers," a topic which also provoked an interesting discussion. The Christmas meeting was a real success, with Latin carols, skits with vaguely classical themes, and refreshments.

In January Professor De Montmollin spoke on "Homer and Oral Poetry," and members of the Club discovered that the professors had widely diversified opinions about the oral tradition.

In March a joint meeting of all the Classics Clubs in the University was held, and the year ended with a banquet.

In disciplinary matters, the Council acts as a court of appeal. An individual may appeal a decision of an individual house caput or the Senior Tutor may appeal a decision of the house caputs.

Enjoyment for 200 others they do seek.

Victoria College Women's Athletic Association

Once more, women's athletics at Victoria have posted a highly successful year. The Vic Amazons (football variety) started the season off on the right foot by retaining the interfaculty championship for the fifth straight year. Coached by Dave Hobbs, Graham Foss and Don White, the girls took on all comers and finished the season undefeated. The softball team was not quite as successful, but, nevertheless, enjoyed a season that was not without its exciting games. In basketball the freshies proved themselves to be Vic's powerhouse. They finished their schedule on top of their league, and only lost out in the semi-finals.

Pat Wilson, the badminton and tennis curator, exhibited her skills by capturing the badminton singles crown, and then teaming up with Louise Goranson to take the doubles. President Eleanor Christie became the new tennis champion.

Vic's swimming team placed a close second in the finals of this year's interfaculty swim meet. Joan Tait swept all categories of the synchronized division, and speed swimmers Sara Barber and Gill Fisher established new records in their individual events. They then went on to lead relay teams, including Barb Shute, Barb McPherson and Carolyn Evans, to very close seconds. Joan, Gill, Sara and Carolyn all placed on the Intercollegiate swim team.

In their traditional stronghold, Vic hockey teams made their mark again. Both teams, the firsts coached by "Bear" Kennedy and the seconds by Mike Anderson, enjoyed a winning season, and the firsts were destined for the top spot once again.

All in all, it was another good year for women's sports at Victoria, and those who participated enjoyed themselves, win, lose or draw.

1961-62 saw Victoria College retain a great deal of its affinity for the words "Champion" and "Championship." Perhaps even more important from the standpoint of the aims of the intramural programme, the College also experienced quite a dramatic and satisfying increase in participation. It is to be hoped that the trend will continue in the years to come.

The fall term held two records for Vic as the football team walked off with an unprecedented fourth consecutive Mulock Cup, and the newly formed rugger team captured the Nankivell Cup in the first year of competition.

The football team, perhaps not as strong as in the three previous championship years, finished the regular season in a four-way tie for first place. Receiving a first round bye on the basis of points scored, the Scarlet and Gold rolled over Jr. Skule and Dentistry to the final with Senior Skule. Giving away a six-point lead in the first quarter, the team rallied to gain a hard-fought 20-9 victory.

Rugger, a new sport on the interfaculty level, proved to be extremely popular at Victoria. Victoria, ignorant of the calibre of play in the new league, entered a team in the third division. The early games turned into lessons for the inexperienced Vic squad, but their eventual victory after an undefeated season was proof enough that the schooling was adequate.

Hockey too provided a pleasant surprise as four of the five teams finished in first place in their respective groups. The second team continued its domination right through to the finals. This year's Jennings Cup series was, as far as can be readily discerned, the first all-Vic final in history. The First Team, as was expected, captured the silverware for the second consecutive year.

Indoor track saw the Victoria runners finish a close second over the season.

Alan Brereton was voted the outstanding athlete at the College in recognition of his fine performance as a halfback with the Varsity Blues Football team, and his great contribution in both University and Interfaculty track. The award was certainly richly deserved by Mr. Brereton.

This year was a very satisfying one, from the point of view of both championships and participation, and it appears, from the enthusiasm displayed this year, that Victoria will continue to be very prominent in athletics in the University in the future.

FACULTY OF FORESTRY

Foresters' Club Executive

FRONT: Ron Chopowick, Peter Rice, Norm Oldfield.

With the end of the 1961-2 academic year, foresters can look back with pride on their achievements in various fields, both within the faculty and about the campus. For the Foresters' Club, this past year was a milestone in that it marked the advent of the long-awaited new constitution. The Foresters' Club, which during the past year was under the presidency of Peter Rice, is the official student government in the faculty. This body, along with the Athletic Association (President, Ralph Tippet), was largely responsible for the success of so many of the events which took place.

The initiations in the fall, following forestry tradition, were of the constructive type, and involved the planting of a large number of trees at Caledon Farm.

One disappointment was on Homecoming Weekend and involved the float for the parade. Forestry's effort into which a great deal of work had gone (and which was felt by all to be a shoo-in for top prize) literally had the wheels pulled from it at the last moment.

In the fall term, foresters again topped the campus (in percentage participation) in the Red Cross blood drive.

The two big social events of the year were the Woodchoppers' Ball held in October at the Old Mill, and the Forestry Athletic Association Banquet and Dance in February at the Rosedale Golf Club. Both were most successful and much of the credit for making them so must go to the Social Director and all those who helped him.

The Foresters' Club proudly boasts two official publications. The first is the yearbook, The Annual Ring, which is one of the finest publications of its kind on campus. The other is the somewhat irregular newspaper, Slabs and Edgings, the staff of which doubled over the past year (now two instead of one).

In intramural athletics, Forestry again proved to be one of the "fightin'est" faculties on campus. What the "Green Machine" lacked in numbers, it made up in willingness to play. In some cases foresters were successful, in others not so successful, but in all cases they were in there fighting.

Hey, guys, come here and see what I see . .

. . . I wonder if there's a girl in that canoe!"

If you think all Foresters are men, you're wrong.

Forestry has recently become co-educational.

RICHARD JOHNSTON
B.M., M.M., Ph.D.
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR

Musical Profile

Dr. Richard Johnston, a well-known figure of the Toronto musical world, is Associate Professor in the Faculty of Music. Completing his undergraduate studies in composition at Northwestern University, he spent the next two years teaching at Luther College, Wahoo, Neb. During this time, he studied composition with Nadia Boulanger and later they gave the world premiere performance of Stravinsky's Sonata for Two Pianos. In 1944, after attending the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, he obtained a Master's degree and later a Ph.D.

The University of Toronto first met Dr. Johnston in 1947, when he became an Assistant Professor of the Faculty of Music. Director of the University Chorus from 1953-59, he conducted the singers in their first official representation at the Inter-Varsity Choral Festival. An active member in many organizations, Dr. Johnston served on the senate from 1954-58 and is a Director of the Canadian Opera Company. Along with the late Dr. Leslie Bell, he helped to found the Canadian Music Educator's Association and, while President of the Ontario branch, began their magazine The Recorder and "classroom-teacher; choral-reading workshops."

Symphony Number 1 served as his Ph.D. thesis in 1951 and has been performed by the C.B.C. under Dr. Mazzoleni and Boyd Neel, by Howard Hanson in Rochester, and in London by the B.B.C. again under Boyd Neel.

Dr. Johnston is perhaps best known for his work in the realm of folk songs. As a founder of the Canadian Folk Music Society he has contributed several books: Folk Songs of Quebec, and Folk Songs of Canada, the only comprehensive collection of its kind in print. He also instituted the Folk Music Library at the Waterloo Music Company and as editor-in-chief is producing a series of graded elementary books, Songs for Today.

His latest works include: a composition for narrator and orchestra based on a children's story from Dr. Scuss; two sets of piano pieces for his children; and a setting of The Canticle of the Sun, by St. Francis of Assisi, first performed on April 20, 1962.

Successful in the realms of conducting, composing, arranging and teaching, Dr. Johnston stands as one of the foremost figures in the musical life of Canada.

Highlights of Events 1961-1962

SPRING 1961

February: The Phys. Ed. Formal held at the Old Mill was a smashing success!

The annual Athletic Night sponsored by the P.E. Alumni Association, consisting of the usual basketball games, wrestling and swimming was sparked by a square dance demonstration put on during the intermission between basketball games by P.E. students.

March: The women's Athletic Banquet was held in the Great Hall at Hart House. Sue Fountain won the coveted Beverly Vickers Trophy. The skits at the end provided much amusement and insight as to what we think of our educators!

May: The Graduating Banquet and dance was held at the Old Mill.

AUTUMN 1961

November: For the first time a Phys. Ed. Alumni Party was held at Cody Hall. There was an excellent turnout and great fun was had by all. There was square dancing and a demonstration of Caribbean Dancing, skits and a huge buffet. Let's hope this becomes an annual event!

The closing of the K.C.R. was bemoaned by all!

This will be the last year that the men of The School of Physical Education and those of U.C. will be playing on the same teams. Next year our men will be on their own.

The R. Tait McKenzie Honour Society held four meetings during the year. Members are chosen from the top six of each year. The meetings are preceded by dinner and then discussions follow.

Dents girls may be few, but those who participated in athletics showed remarkable enthusiasm. As far as getting into championship games "we goofed," but outstanding sportsmanship was visible at all times. They say "dynamite comes in small packages." Well, we have the small package and we hope to fill it with dynamite in the coming years.

This year's edition of the Dents football team was by far the best of the past five years. In league play the Garnet and Blue had a perfect record of five wins and no defeats.

The tooth pullers' offensive averaged two hundred yards per game. Credit for this goes to the stars of the offensive team, Bigger, Corigan, Levant, Zosky, Gordon, Buckspan, Fairleigh, Kondracki, Jalsky and Morgan. Backing up the striking punch of Dentistry was a defense that allowed a net loss of only ninety-five yards, blocked five kicks, and held the opposition to six points during the entire season. Reid, Tolsky, Zosky, Greenbaum, Tevible, Campbell and Homenuck were mainly responsible for this defensive record.

In the semi-finals the Dents lost to Victoria, who went on to win the Mulock Cup. The score was close, and had Dentistry not been without the services of both quarterbacks for this crucial game the results would have been different.

THE MEDICAL SOCIETY

The Medical Assembly, consisting of elected representatives from the medical society, has met every two weeks throughout the school year under the chairmanship of Dr. Charles Bull. In the main the assembly has devoted its attention to the investigation of certain problems for the benefit of the younger years and future classes in the faculty of medicine.

The assembly has strongly supported CAMSI in their attempt to have the intern wages standardized throughout the teaching hospitals of Toronto at a rate agreed to by the Ontario Medical Association.

The staff student committee has been very enthusiastic and conscientious in suggesting to the committee of curriculum changes those aspects of medical training which could be altered in the best interests to the students of the future.

The Medical Assembly has suggested that a library be installed in the medical building. This will enable medical students to have library facilities available to them at lunchtime and off hours. The hiring of a secretary for the assembly to handle office load was a welcomed innovation. It is hoped that with the advent of the library the secretary could assume part-time librarian duties.

In September the society welcomed and entertained the Freshmen at a banquet in Hart House. Warden McCully delivered an inspiring speech to the students who were just beginning their university way of life. The welcoming ceremonies stressed the importance of the pre-medical students to our faculty. The contributions of the present pre-medical students have been significant indeed.

Probe has published two magazines this year. The quality of the articles and layout has received very favourable comments. The Medical Journal has been most successful in publishing a journal of high calibre with a substantially enlarged subscription circulation. The Arts and Letters club once again had only a small following. The club hopes that by concentrating on fewer activities in the future more active interest will be aroused. The great success of the Daffydil production justified the effort and time spent by the students of the society. The Duncan Room continued to be a very popular eating and gathering spot for the students. This year, due to the lack of room for persons outside the faculty, a "strong arm" was placed at the entrance to the room to check ATL cards. The athletic teams have played hard and with spirit but had to wait another year to get sight of the Mulock cup. A notable increase in interest was shown in the commendable work performed by N.F.C.U.S. and W.U.S.

Water Polo I

FRONT: Bob Richards, Warren Allen, Walter Unger, Roger Ball.

This year will see the graduation of Meds students who have been very active in University Athletic activities. Joe Anderson (the perennial Varsity Tennis Champion), Barry Cutler, Gerry Zadiyko, Bob Richards and others have contributed throughout their university years in organizing sports, in executive positions, and in playing on various teams.

The Meds I Basketball team again proved to be a strong contender, along with the Premeds team, in the major league. In Hockey action, Stu McNeil's Meds I team began to pick up speed after a slow start, and finished on a winning streak. Peter Kopplin, Barry Cutler, Larry Langlois, Will Cawkell, Glen Grohome and Peter Strachov were among the veteran standouts.

The Meds Golf Tournament held at Tam O'Shanter Golf Course, September 27, 1961, was attended by 105 golfers. This annual event, with such enthusiastic support, is assured of future success. A championship for Medicine is certain in Water Polo. Led by Captain Walter Unger and veterans Harvey Armstrong, Peter Kopplin, Roger Ball, Jim Graham, the team is enjoying a wide margin in their league.

The Canadian Association of Medical Students and Internes was founded in 1937 with the aims of promoting the exchange of ideas among medical students and internes; promoting the investigation and attack of common problems on a national basis, and of helping prepare the members for national medical citizenship.

C.A.M.S.I. today includes all medical students and internes across Canada. Its accomplishments in the past have been many. In regard to student health, these include the tuberculin test and annual chest X-ray of all university students. There has been established a C.A.M.S.I. life assurance programme to suit medical students' and graduates' needs. Examination reprints are available for all years throughout the various medical schools.

At present national C.A.M.S.I. has involved itself in the establishment of functioning interne committees in the various teaching hospitals. Also a brief is being prepared for presentation to the Royal Commission on health, expressing the medical students' viewpoint.

The Canadian Interne Placement Service, established in 1949, operates from Toronto and represents an efficient link between the medical graduate and the hospitals in the placement of internes. Another major service is the Trans-

Atlantic Student Exchange Programme established in Toronto four years ago for the purpose of placing students in European hospitals during the summer months.

The Preceptorship programme instituted in Toronto five years ago is increasing in popularity. Seventy-five students this year applied to be placed for a period of two weeks with a general practitioner, either in rural or urban Ontario, to study the aspects of such a practice.

The cost of medical instruments for students has been greatly reduced through C.A.M.S.I. by means of bulk orders. Last year approximately $12,000 was spent in purchasing instruments for the students in Toronto. Plans have been completed recently for the establishment of a C.A.M.S.I. Foundation to provide medical students and graduates with financial assistance through insured endowments and accumulated central funds.

Presently local C.A.M.S.I. is concerned with the establishment of a programme which would sponsor students from developing countries to attend our medical school.

These represent a few of the many projects with which C.A.M.S.I. is presently concerned. Their success will benefit the medical student and interne, as well as extend further the aim of serving and representing its members.

Volleyball

During the 1961-62 season, the Faculty of Medicine entered teams for intramural competition in basketball, volleyball and hockey. Entrants from Medicine also participated in tennis, archery, swimming and badminton. Medicine was also represented in the Inter-collegiate archery and volleyball teams.

Medicine won no title in basketball or individual sports, but the outlook for both hockey and volleyball was good.

The annual Athletic Banquet was held in the second week of March and was well attended.

The 1961-62 Probe magazine of the Medical Society is the latest stage in a transition of "non-medical" writing which has taken place over the last four years.

Probe was at first an instrument for solidifying Meds' extracurricular interests and strengthening support for Medical Society events in pulp-paper form. Steering a rocky course, it slowly grew from eight pages to twelve, then to four dozen. Now published less frequently (only twice a school year), it contains, besides a decreasing quantity of strictly "medical" subjects, a tossed-salad novelette, corny monologue, campus excelling photography and, unfortunately, just plain hash.

In the present editions, the staff has attempted to steer the Probe clear of all restraining currents, with the result that a serious, stimulating, truly literary publication has been produced, bringing hidden talent to light. It offers a creative communication in magazine form, a type of communicating that is a rare phenomenon in a large depersonalized professional faculty.

It is understandable that the pseudo-apathy and lack of literary response is prevalent in a student body numbed by a huge course of study. However, it will be a sad day when a medical student will be forced to stand up and stammer that he had time for only his studies. Authors' names like Chekhov and Maugham flit through the memory, each personality bruised by medical school and yet. . . .

The Probe in spite of all obstacles has finally become a literary magazine. It is hoped that this evolution will continue and that The Probe will remain a literary publication representative of the creative expression of the medical student.

the medical society presents . . . Daffydil 1961

Daffydil '61, depicting the evolution of medicine from creation to the present, proved to be a fascinating formula of fun and fancy. Dave MacGregor as chairman, John Balfour and John Brebner as co-directors, Bas Johnston as producer, and Irv Lipton as business manager comprised this year's general directorate. The dancing, under the directorship of Nadine Hradsky, with choreography by Syd Vousden, took the audience through a graceful creation ballet to a scorching Hawaiian war-dance. Rand Simpson as music director and Bill Karr as glee club director provided an imaginative musical facet to the show.

Again Daffydil was fortunate to have the outstanding services of Lavina Lickley, who bedecked the cast in a superb set of costumes. In keeping with Daffydil tradition, medical humour featured such well-known personalities as Roy Shoichet, Joey Starr and Brian McGrath as France's foremost travelling surgeons, Lynn Fredericks as the first female applicant to medicine, and Jim Buchan as Young Dr. McGoeydare. This year Medsmen can be proud of one of the best shows on the campus.

SCOOP:

As a complete reversal of form, next year's show will feature an evening of chamber music interspersed with the year's ten best Physiology lectures.

Undergraduate Pharmaceutical Society

The Central Executive of the Undergraduate Pharmaceutical Society acted this year with the main aim of uniting the students of this faculty, increasing their awareness of professionalism and arousing their interest in outside events. With first and second years mainly on campus, third and fourth years in the faculty building, and little actual contact between them, it has been difficult to fulfill this aim. It is hoped that future executives will continue to attempt to do so.

This year the Executive stressed events such as the Creative Writers' Conference, the NFCUS seminars, and Pharmacy's own Professional Evenings. Various exchange weekends, such as the Carabin and North Carolina weekends, were also brought to the attention of the students.

To promote unity within the faculty, intramural hockey games were started by the social director. These were played at 12.30 a.m. in Varsity Arena, and were intended, also, to increase class spirit. The students also united in the Blood Campaign to exceed the quota and in the Share Campaign to donate twice as much as last year.

One particularly noteworthy event was the Freshman Orientation Banquet, initiated to acquaint the freshmen with the University in general and the Faculty of Pharmacy in particular.

Once again an attempt was made to revise the constitution, with more being accomplished this year than in previous years.

Many thanks to Dr. Kennedy, who acted as Staff Advisor and did much to aid in the successful fight for a coffee machine and a new lunchroom.

The Professional Committee

The Professional Evenings, sponsored by the U.P.S., are organized to present an opportunity for increased understanding, through discussion, of various phases of Professional activity. The need for such a forum is increased by the scattered nature of the undergraduate programme which hinders contact between students of various years.

At the Professional Committee meetings, prominent pharmacists in many fields have spoken to members on their special interests. Mr. T. Ross of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association was the first speaker, with a very timely review of the current government investigations into Pharmacy and Health Care. At the second meeting Mr. R. McKim of the Department of Health and Welfare spoke concerning narcotics and narcotic control. The film, "Face of an Addict" was also shown. The subject of the final meeting was recent development in retailing methods and its possible effect on the practice of pharmacy. Mr. C. Gould, the president of Drug Trading, was the speaker at that time.

At all of these meetings, the keen discussions, both at the meeting and for days after, were evidence of the interest in this activity and the profit which attendance and participation can yield.

"The Script"

The Script is the Pharmacy bi-monthly newspaper, a completely undergraduate project. Each of the four years of Pharmacy contribute their class news, and there are men and women's sports columns as well as a Town and Campus column. Occasionally a professor is asked to contribute an article for the paper. The Script serves to unite Pharmacy students of all four years who are so widely separated between those in their first years on campus and the senior students at the college on Gerrard Street.

"The Pharmakon"

Every year the Undergraduate Pharmaceutical Society puts out its yearbook covering the activities of the previous academic year. Although the title Pharmakon comes from a Greek word originally meaning a charm, then a poison and finally a drug, the yearbook is not intended to be magic, toxic or medicating. Contributions may be made by all undergraduates. The book is co-edited by two students in their graduating year with the help of a staff of assistant editors.

Women's

Team participation this year was good and Pharmacy was well represented in softball, basketball, volleyball and hockey.

Epinephrine circulated through the veins of the dauntless Pharmacy femmes bedecked in their bright yellow sweaters as they eagerly awaited participation in football. Unfortunately, in spite of the efforts of the athletic association, this pig-skinned sport did not become a reality, but only a promise of better things to come.

Enthusiasm was high as the female "pill-pushers" turned out in full force for softball and basketball in the first term. After several scheduled games, and finding no opponents on the field, the excitement dwindled until finally the girls defaulted from the softball league. Despite a desperate struggle to combat previous disappointments, the Pharmacy girls lost their first basketball game. In the following games they made a comeback, dribbling their way to victory. In spite of their efforts and determination to top the league, the league championship was carried off by the undefeated P.H.E. team.

Much effort was put into minor sports, and, although there were no earth-shaking developments, the roads have been opened and will encourage others in the next school year. Pharmacy was represented in the U. of T. Swim Club, in the tennis tournament, and in archery. This year saw formed the nucleus of a bowling league; although small in number, it provided many hours of fun for those who attended.

1961-62 did not prove to be a year of championships for the Pharmacy femmes, yet it can be termed a success. Without any championships, the girls have brought the Faculty of Pharmacy to the campus by making it known through sports.

Pharmacy Men's Athletics

In general, Pharmacy athletes this year have been very similar to former years with one or two exceptions. In the fall term the football team opened the season with two successive wins, then lost the next three games, two by only a single point. This represented quite a change from the preceding year in which there were registered no wins. The lacrosse, soccer and volleyball teams had only fair showings, mostly because of a lack of support.

In the late fall Pharmacy's hockey and basketball teams, traditional powerhouses in their respective divisions, began their seasons. In hockey two teams, A and B, entered competition. Both teams played good hockey and stood excellent chances of gaining the playoffs. In basketball six teams made up of two major and four minor teams were fielded. In contrast to former years, the A team moved up to a higher division and encountered much success. The B team and minor league teams have been very successful in their respective leagues.

Departing for a moment from interfaculty athletics, this year Pharmacy has two representatives in sports on the intercollegiate level. They are Bill Crothers in track, who, with Bruce Kidd, is co-holder of the Hec Phillips Memorial Trophy, and Ken Walker, a member of the Varsity Blues basketball team. Participation in the major sports has been good, but in the less publicized team sports such as soccer, water polo and volleyball, the performances have been greatly hampered by lack of support.

But with the end of the year approaching, support from the first and second years has greatly increased and the future both this year and in the following years promises to be both exciting and rewarding for Pharmacy in athletics.

Bill Crothers

Bill Crothers is Pharmacy's one-man track team and indeed the faculty is proud of him. Bill has been very active in his school, was president of his class this year, displaying leadership in organizing several of the minor sports such as soccer and track and field at the Faculty of Pharmacy.

In all activities he has shown himself to be beyond reproach as far as fairness and sportsmanship are concerned. His performance this year in athletics is truly remarkable.

As a result of his efforts at the intercollegiate meet last September, when he clipped three seconds off the record in the 880-yard event, Bill was awarded the Fred Tees Memorial Trophy.

This past season Bill Crothers ranked first on the North American indoor circuit for the 500-600 yard distance. In Boston, Bill won the 1,000-yard event and a week later he bettered the world record in the event while coming in a pace behind Peter Snell, who set a new world record.

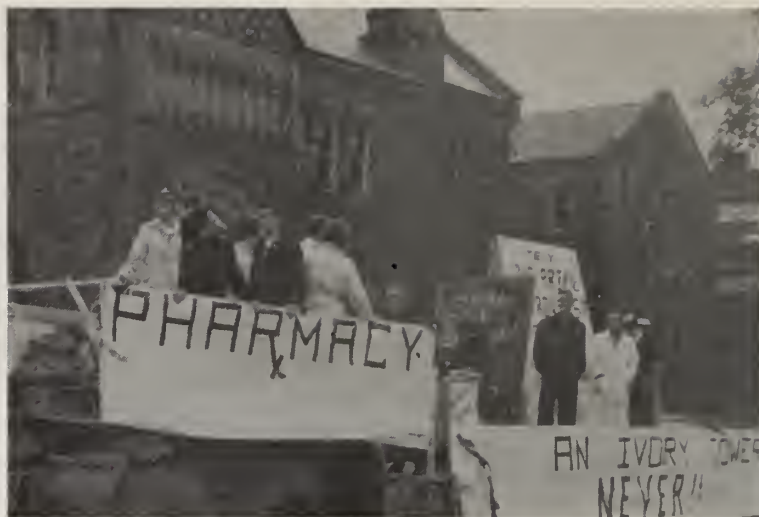

Bill plans to attend the British Empire Games in November 1962, and with him go our best wishes.

Events of 1961-62 in Nursing

The School of Nursing's Undergraduate Association has initiated some very energetic projects this year and the enthusiasm of "the few" has inspired many more of our students to participate in extracurricular activities. A very successful Freshie Tea started the 1961-62 session rolling, and this was followed shortly by Freshie initiation, which was enthusiastically looked after by our "not quite so lowly" Degree II class. It took the foresight, initiative and sheer ingenuity of the "illustrious" Degree class III to produce the much-needed bi-weekly edition of the Pulse. The object of this little missal is to improve communications in the School, and hence build up interest in both school-wide and campus-wide activities.

In November of '61, the Undergraduate Association Council hosted a dinner for the School of Nursing Council from McMaster University. Dinner was followed by a discussion of health problems and the role of the nurse in underdeveloped countries, with Dr. LaRuhe as guest speaker. In December, our staff provided a very enjoyable Christmas Party for the students, who in turn showed their appreciation with after-dinner entertainment. The School's Social Committee has kept us all busy with the usual run of dances, including the Commerce and Finance dance, the fall party, and annual formal. Once again we held the controversial Engineering-Nursing debate which turned out to be a draw, an innocuous decision on our part so as not to disappoint our engineering guests!! Plans for our own year-book are progressing very well and things seem to be moving smoother since the difficulties of introducing it last year are gone. Perhaps the biggest highlight of the year was our Drama Club's production of Graham Greene's Living Room. This is the first year that the School has attempted to produce a play, and its great success was made obvious by both its audience and the reports in Toronto's local newspapers.

This year we regret not only the departure of our "sanctified" Degree IV class, that of 6T2, but also the departure of the Honorary President of our Undergraduate Association Council and Director of the School of Nursing, Miss N. D. Fidler. Miss Fidler is greatly respected for her work at the School of Nursing and we wish her the very best in the future.

This year, drama at the School of Nursing received a healthy shot in the arm. Well, after all, it is the School of Nursing.

The major innovation which was undertaken was the series of special meetings. "The Critic" was discussed, as indeed he was discussed all across campus this year. At Nursing he was dissected in a panel discussion entitled "What We Should Expect from Critics of Drama."

The point of view of the actor was given in a talk by Larry Mann, of TV's "Midnight Zone." Bill Butler, from the C.B.C., discussed production in another meeting for those of us who cannot bear to trod the boards.

And speaking of trodding the boards, The Drama Club presented two shows this year. At the Annual Christmas Party, Colleen Spalding-Martin and Catherine Berry directed a pantomime version of that great Christmas classic, The Littlest Angel.

Shortly after, on January 25 and 26, the club did The Living Room at the Women's Union Theatre.

Skule Dinner

The 72nd Annual School Dinner was held in Hart House in mid-October. This occasion affords the students and staff of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering an opportunity to dine informally in the pleasant atmosphere of the Great Hall. It is also on this occasion that the scholarship winners of the previous term receive their certificates of achievement, presented this year by Colonel Wilson of the Faculty.

The highlight of the evening was the address to the students by Mr. Cyrus Eaton, entitled "The Engineer as Philosopher and Citizen." Mrs. Eaton's presence at the dinner lent dignity and grace to the occasion, helping to make it a great success.

... Cyrus Eaton speaks ...

This year on November 8 we were honoured to have Dr. O. M. Solandt, Vice-President of Research and Development for the Canadian National Railways, present the tenth lecture of the Wallberg Memorial Lecture Series. The topic he chose was "The Responsibilities of Engineers In the Space Age"; it was very well received.

A graduate of The University of Toronto in Biological and Medical Sciences, Dr. Solandt joined the staff of the department of Physiology at Cambridge. During World War II, he served in the Armed Forces and founded the Armoured Fighting Vehicle section of the Army Operational Research Group. After a distinguished career in the Canadian Army as a Lieutenant-Colonel and later an acting Colonel, he returned to Canada and helped form the Defense Research Board. In 1956 he resigned from the Board in order to become the Assistant Vice-President, Research and Development Canadian National Railways, and on May 1, 1957, was appointed Vice-President.

This series of lectures was initiated to keep alive the memory of Emil Andrew Wallberg, who achieved notable success as an engineer, and also as President of the Lake St. John Power and Paper Company, and the Canada Wire and Cable Company Limited. The lectures are designed to give to the undergraduates and practising engineers the opportunity of hearing the views and opinions of eminent men.

The Wallberg Memorial building is another tribute to this man. It is built from part of the Wallberg estate, all of which was donated to the University by Mr. Wallberg's sister. The remainder of the estate was retained as an endowment fund for the benefit of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering. The Wallberg lectures are only one of the activities provided by the income derived from this fund.

We look forward to future lectures, which we are confident will be delivered by men of equal stature and experience and which will unquestionably be as well received and appreciated.

... Dr. O. M. Solandt ...

Debates Club

ABSENT: Ran Evons.

The Engineering Debates Club has had a wide and active range of activities this year. After a preliminary inter-Engineering Debate, St. Hilda's, Trinity, and St. Michael's were challenged early in the year, with the Engineers defeating only Trinity, in the familiar surroundings of Room T-102. Victoria College split a home-and-home series with the Engineers, who then invaded the Nursing Building to arrive at a draw on the topic "Equality of Sexes is a Myth."

Perhaps the most spectacular debate of the year involved campus politics, when the Engineers were called upon to defend their views in a debate against C.U.C.N.D. Skulemen successfully demanded that "The Ban-the-Bombers Get Out of Their Ivory Tower" and, later, heavily condemned the Varsity for misrepresentation.

The Sedgewick Cup trials, held early in March, will determine the best speaker for Engineering. These trials will culminate a lively season of debating.

Mechanical Club

FRONT: P. G. LoFlair, B. R. Darrah, N. P. Nightingale, G. Fawler.

The Mechanical Engineering course for the session 1961-62 had a low enrolment because a freshman class of 35 replaced a graduation class of 81. This meant that participation at club functions was at a minimum, but those who did attend were indeed the benefactors.

The Boulevard Club was the choice for the Annual Club Dance, at which several worthwhile prizes were given. The "Best Mural Award" was again presented to the Mechanicals for the Cannon Ball entry. Field trips took fourth year to Ottawa, third year to St. Catharines, and second year to Hamilton. One Smoker was held in December, with intentions of having a second during the last term. The first Smoker was a Student-Staff Panel Show.

Some of the year's biggest events are in the late spring. For most the "At Home" is a big affair; but for fourth year — of course — it is the "Grad Ball." I will see you there with my top hat!

Industrial Engineering Club

This year the Industrial Engineering Club held two very successful Smokers. The first, held in the fall term, featured a panel represented by members of the staff and practising Industrial Engineers. Their topic of discussion was "What Should the Industrial Engineers do upon Graduation." In the spring term at the second Smoker, a panel representing the executive of the Systems and Procedures Association discussed "A Career in Systems." The high attendance and the late hour at which discussion terminated, to say nothing of the food and refreshments consumed, were indicative of the success of the evening.

Because of frugal management of the Club's treasury, the club was able to subsidize heavily the cost of the annual Industrial Dinner. The low price of tickets helped ensure the success of this traditional termination of the Club's activities. All in all it was a very successful year.

FRONT: Fred Brown, Bob Harmer.

ABSENT: Dave Jefferson, Stew McCowan.

Electrical Club

FRONT: Bernie Dillliott, Vic Mikenas, Bob Shaw.

ABSENT: Don Studney, Peter Benedict, George Vonos.

With smiling faces and tired feet, the Electrical Club Executive has pulled through with a very successful and enjoyable year. From Freshman Orientation to the Grad Ball, the Club at all times has had its hands full.

The Friday morning meetings, held in conjunction with the A.I.E.E. and the I.R.E., provided many excellent speakers and produced good turn-outs. Under the capable supervision of George Vonas, Electrical Club movies proved to be a real attraction. The money man, Bob Shaw, helped keep Vic Mikenas, the Chairman, on his toes at all times. Helping out in the greatest and most successful social event of the School Year, the Fall Brawl, which was held at the Oak Room, Bernie Dillliott and Don Studney, Vice-Chairman, did an excellent job. Accounting for the excellent turnout of members of the Electrical Club at school functions, Paul Dodgson, Peter Benedict, John Goodanetz, along with Bill Patton from first to fourth year respectively, deserve much credit. The third year went to Hamilton to see Westinghouse and the Steel Company; the fourth year paid a visit to the heart of the country, Ottawa, to inspect N.R.C., and then the Atomic Energy Research Plant at Chalk River.

With faint memories of the School At Home and the Grad Ball, the Club will remember 1962 for many years to come.

Chemical Engineering Club

FRONT: Fred Fedosoff, Bob Betty, Ed Rygiel, Warren Baker, Dave Curry.

The Chemical Engineering Club is one of the largest and most active clubs in the Faculty of Engineering. The Chemical Club organizes many annual, bi-annual, and weekly events that are often enthusiastically supported not only by Chemical Engineers, but also by members of all Engineering Courses.

The annual Fall Dinner was held at the Faculty Club this year and the customary after-dinner speaker was dispensed with in favour of a Smoker, at which ideas and opinions were freely traded between Faculty members, Undergraduates, and Demonstrators.

Typifying the vitality of the Chemical Club was the display presented by the Chemicals in the "Inter-Course" competition at the Engineering Cannon Ball. This display was of such merit and originality that it was singled out and highly praised by the judges.

Mining and Metallurgical Club

FRONT: Pete Patersan, Michael Pullen, Jahn Lumb, Bruce Longmare, Dave Jalley.
ABSENT: Doug McCulloch.

The Mining and Metallurgical Club had an active programme during the 1961-62 season. It was fortunate to acquire Mr. John Beattie, the Executive Director of the Ontario Mining Association, as Honorary Chairman; he was an invaluable aid to the Club. Noon-hour movies returned this year, and the varied subject material was received with enthusiasm by the members. The General Meetings of the Club, held every month in Hart House, consisted of a speaker, film, and question period. These gatherings were well supported and proved to be very interesting and informative for the group.

The Annual Dance, held at the Embassy Club, proved to be a festive occasion and, to wind up the activities, the Annual Dinner in March was an apt conclusion to a successful year. It is hoped that the Mining and Metallurgical Club will have increased membership in future years in order that the organization can grow and serve its members more fully.

Civil Club

After a slow beginning the Civil Club gained momentum shortly before Christmas and swung into peak form in the spring term; first and second year, particularly, have been more active than ever before with full attendance at four excellent film hours. The Civil Club Dance, held for the first time at the Oak Room of Union Station, proved a social and financial success, with both the proximity and the grandeur of the location adding to the appeal of the most exhilarating dance of the year. Following closely behind, the Civil Dinner, thanks to the co-operation of the Civil Department as a whole, was a great success (co-operation from the Department has been readily offered throughout the year and their personal support of Club functions has indeed been appreciated).

Athletically, Civils were prominent, having leading figures on both interfaculty and intercollegiate levels, with a new sports-car auto rally being an innovation we would like to see continued. Remember—you can mix extra-curricular activities and academic work successfully!

Engineering Physics Club

FRONT: Alex Grenzbach, Ed Hinchley, Alfred Aho, Tibor Szondtner, Brian Dobie.

This year the Engineering Physics Club has concluded a glorious history—this being the last of the Engineering Physics Clubs. Amid all the rumours that the name of the course was being changed to Engineering Science, the Club set itself to work to make this last season one of its best.

Its first major concern was the mighty fourth year field trip, this year extending into the U.S. as well as the traditional excursion to Eastern Canada. Soon following these excursions was the annual Engineering Physics wiener roast. Then came the annual dance of the Club—this year called the “Physical Frolic.”

Planned for the late spring are an evening open meeting to be held at Hart House, featuring a renowned speaker, and the Engineering Club Dinner which proved to be so popular last year.

As the year draws to a close, it marks the end of an era—the end of the Eng. Phys. Club and the birth of the Engineering Science Club.

Biggs and Copp Trophy

Doug Boyd of Varsity Football Blues climaxed a brilliant sports career at the University of Toronto this year by winning both the Johnny Copp Memorial Trophy and the George M. Biggs Trophy. The Copp Trophy is awarded to the member of the Senior Football Team adjudged "most worthy" by his teammates, and the Biggs Trophy is the highest sports award at Varsity, going to the undergraduate who has contributed the most to University athletics from the standpoint of "leadership, sportsmanship, and performance."

Graduating from Engineering Physics, Boyd has played on three senior football teams and was co-captain this past season, in addition to being named an all-star at defensive halfback for the second year in a row. He also played intermediate football in his freshman year and was a member of the University Athletic Directorate for 1961-62. Not to go unnoticed also is the fact that, while partaking to a great extent in extracurricular activities, he has maintained an honour standing in his four years at U. of T.

Although he plans to continue his education, the Fonthill, Ont. resident will have an opportunity to play professional football next season, as he was drafted by the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League.

A. Dalton White

Dalt White began his sixth year as Head Coach of the senior football team with the same tireless enthusiasm and effort that has characterized him throughout his eleven years as a member of the staff at Toronto.

He has had moments of elation and of despair at the helm of the Blues, but he has always maintained his quiet, thoughtful manner. His players respect him for treating them as adults, and those who know him well recognize his abilities as an educator.

When the Varsity Blues arrived at Lake Couchiching for their pre-season camp, hopes ran high for the coaches, the players and the fans. Although the team was young and inexperienced in many positions, spirit and determination showed itself to be present in large quantities.

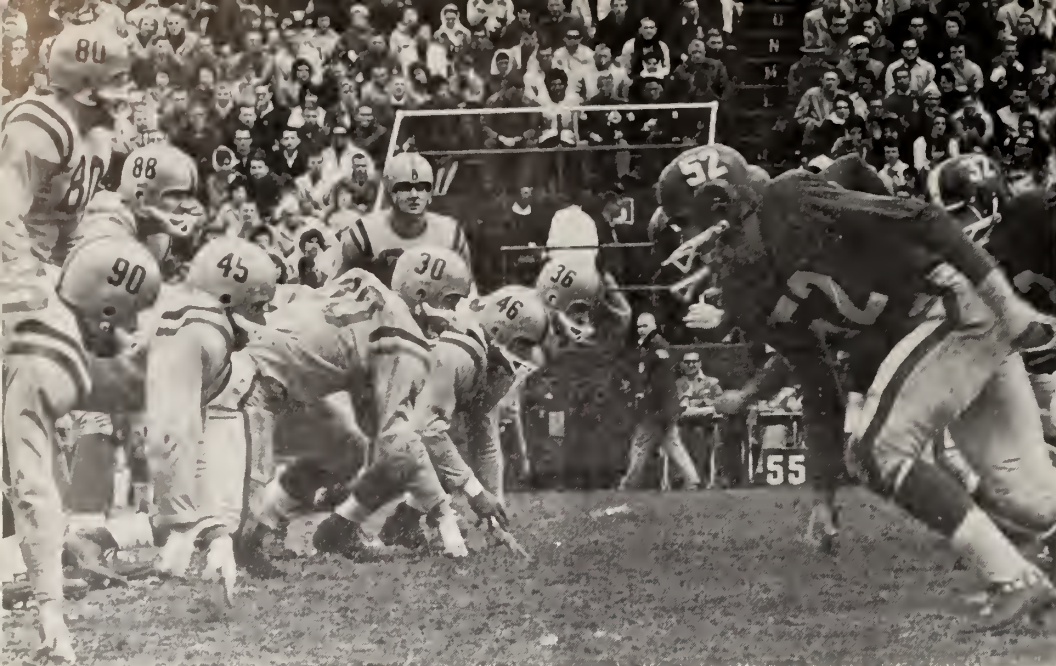

After returning to the city, the Blues opened the season with an encouraging display against East York Argos (Toronto 26 — East York 0) and another exhibition contest against University of Western Ontario (Western 20 — Toronto 15).

In the first league game the Blues played a sparkling defensive game to defeat Western 6 — 3 right in London. At this point, plagued by injuries, the fortunes of the team suddenly changed. The squad still showed the spirit and determination of the early season, but, unable to bridge the gap left by the loss of so many key players, the Blues lost their remaining games of league play. The most heartbreaking loss was the game in Toronto against McGill. After a tremendous display against the champion Redmen, the Blues lost in the last few minutes of play, 24 — 21. The other scores during the season were: Queen's 29, Toronto 0 at home; McGill 30, Toronto 0 at Montreal; Queen's 58, Toronto 6 in Kingston; and Western 21, Toronto 14 in the final game in Toronto.

The Varsity team did produce two all-stars in Doug Boyd at halfback and Hugh Cooke at end. Other players such as Ron Crawford and Ranny Parker were ranked high in the all-star selections.

With the many rookies now having a season of experience behind them, the Blues are looking forward to next season and expect great things of such players as Al Brereton, Jim Israel, Mike Meredith, Harold Hall and Mike Hollett, to mention only a few.

This was the year of the "new look" for the Baby Blues who became, for the first time in a decade, a junior team competing in the Ontario Junior Conference of the C.R.U. This meant joining a league in October that had already been operating for several months and playing only four five-point games during the regular season. We could not possibly enter the playoffs with more than one loss.

In the league opener, experience prevailed over inexperience and a determined Balmy Beach team won the game in the last minute of play, erasing a 1-0 lead the Blues had maintained from the first half. The team bounced back with two lopsided victories in the next two outings, setting the stage for the final contest with Burlington. This produced the finest game of football played all season — the Blues taking it 22-21 with a superb team effort.

After a hardy semi-final victory over the same Burlington team, the Baby Blues faced Scarboro Rams in the finals in a two-game, total-point series. The first was a 38-13 gift to the Rams that left an almost insurmountable twenty-five point deficit to be made up. Fine spirit and excellent direction by Coaches Chykaliuk and Creswell carried us to a 26-0 halftime lead. Scarboro, however, came back strongly in the second half to take the round 52-45 and ended the season for the Blues.

Several of the Juniors, Harold Hall, Bill Watters and Jim Rhodes, were called up to the Senior team for the remaining games of their schedule.

University of Toronto Rugger Blues have had their most successful season in many years, both as a team and as a club. The 1961-62 season saw the Blues win the Gilbert Turner Trophy as intercollegiate champions for the third consecutive year (this time in an expanded league of Toronto, McGill and Queen's) and win 8 out of a total of 11 games.

During their eleven games the Blues, led by Captain Bill Nelems (IV SPS), piled up a total of 144 points against their opponents' 64. There were 17 individual scores — a real team effort — while the highest scorer was Paul Wilson (II Trin.) with 45 points. The three losses, sustained against Ontario Agricultural College, McGill, and University of Michigan, were vindicated by Blues' winning the return matches by even higher scores. The great number of injuries sustained did have a good aspect however, showing the reserve strength, since 22 players turned out at one time or another for the fifteen-man team.

The future looks promising. Although about seven experienced Blues players will be graduating, there are good substitutes waiting to step into their boots with a sound nucleus remaining.

All in all there is no doubt that 1962 will be even more successful for the U. of T. Rugger team.

The graduation of most of the 1960 soccer team showed its effect as the 1961 soccer Blues had to content themselves with third place, two points behind champion OAC Aggies.

The team's weakness was evident in the season's opener, when they surrendered a 3-0 lead to return from McMaster with only a single point. In the subsequent four games, Varsity was able to salvage only two of the possible eight points. In most games, even though they dominated most of midfield play, Blues seemed unable to find the opponent's net and frequent lapses by the defence allowed the opposition to capitalize. In addition to a mostly new team, Toronto was riddled throughout the year by frequent injuries, among them Jeff Mahon, last year's leading scorer.

In spite of a bad start, however, the team did not lose its spirit. A sudden turning point occurred in Montreal, where Varsity was forced to play without a goaltender. These duties were taken over by Keith Murphy, because he was too injured to play in his regular forward position. Even though they dropped the game 2-1, McGill was held to two shots on goal throughout the first 45 minutes of play.

Having this game as an inspiration, and having a new competent goaltender in Claus Bauer, Blues came back to life but too late to be contenders for first place. They tied McGill 3-3 in Toronto and went on to defeat Ryerson 2-0 and OAC 3-1 and ended the season with a 10-1 victory over Western. Leading scorers for the team were Lou Mayhanovich (8) and Murphy (5). Newcomers Peter Haynes and Bob Lewis played quite impressively.

The sudden improvement in the latter part of the season, and the fact that all players except veteran Jim Watson will be back next year, make prospects for next year's team quite bright. We expect to see Toronto soccer up to its par of previous years and in contention for both the Eastern and Western titles.

Game results were:

Toronto at Hamilton	tied 3-3
Toronto at London	won 4-1
Ryerson at Toronto	lost 3-0
Toronto at OAC	lost 6-3
Hamilton at Toronto	lost 5-3
Toronto at Montreal	lost 2-1

John McManus

John McManus, the handsome, jovial, well-dressed young man around Hart House, is the Head Coach of the University of Toronto Senior Intercollegiate basketball team. John in recent years has not had too much to cheer about concerning the talent of his players, which has left much to be desired especially in comparison to the American standard. But, when belittled by players of more fortunate University of Toronto teams, he can still manage a snile and a retort of "wait till next year."

John spends the fall months assisting Dalt White with the football team, the winter months with the basketball team, the summer months with the Air Force and still has enough time to spend with his wife and family at home and at his summer cottage in Kingston.

We wish for John in the near future a team which, when a game is over, won't cause him to remark "there's another gym which will need a fumigator."

The 1961-62 Varsity Blues played a 22-game schedule. Included were games with New York University, St. Peter's, Iona, Buffalo, Buffalo State, Rochester Tech, and Detroit Tech. In Intercollegiate play the Blues ended up with a 5-7 record.

The highlight of the season was a 68-67 victory over the first place and until then undefeated Assumption Lancers.

The Blues, who had six rookies in the line-up, showed up very well and posted wins over McGill, Queen's, McMaster and OAVC.

Captain Paul Dignan was awarded the Dr. W. A. Potter trophy for his leadership and inspired play. With the possibility of the return of Jim Maguire, Ed Bordas and Dave West, the future of the 1962-63 Blues is very bright.

Jack Kennedy

Once again the call of "come on, guys, think hockey" resounds throughout the Bloor Street hockey emporium as the Blues take to the ice for their daily workout.

Every weekday night from 5.30 to 6.30 the Blues practise shooting, checking and play-making, besides participating in inter-squad scrimmage, ably directed by their coach, Jack Kennedy. Usually an easy-going fellow, "Snake" is all business when it comes to hockey; unlike most coaches, Jack sets up many passing patterns and tactical positions in practices.

His method cannot be argued with because it produces results; his teams have topped the league five times in the last seven years. Off the ice as well as on, Jack is remarkably easy to get along with; as a result, he is well-liked by his players. It is with deep regret that we say good-bye to Jack. We know that at Loyola he will be just as popular as he was in Toronto.

This year the Varsity Blues, with fine performances in league and playoff competition, have regained the Queen's Cup for Toronto.

The Blues compiled a nine and two win-loss record in league play, losing only one game to each of Laval and McGill and handily defeating Montreal in all encounters. In doing so, Blues outscored their opponents by a three-to-one ratio, and placed five players in the league's top ten scorers, including Bill Kennedy, tied for top position.

In their exhibition series earlier in the season, Blues did not do so well, although they performed creditably against some of the top college teams on the continent, scoring wins against R.P.I. and the University of Manitoba.

For the first time this year, Toronto, the winner of the eastern division of the league, played off against the McMaster Marlins, champions of the western division, for the Queen's Cup; the Blues won, after losing the first game of the total-point series 5-3 in Dundas, by overpowering Marlins 10-5 in an overtime game in Toronto.

George Deratnay led the league with the best goal average and Toronto can well lay claim to both the best defensive and offensive squads, including such players as Ian Sinclair, Dave Chambers, Mike Elik, Bill Kennedy, George Hicken, Steve Monteith, Sonny Osborne and Jesse Weller, all of whom were named to the all-star team. Ian Sinclair was also awarded the Dafoe Trophy as the team's most valuable player, and Steve Monteith was voted the league's rookie of the year.

All in all, the entire team contributed to the effort which brought coach Jack Kennedy his sixth Queen's Cup in the ten years he has mentored the Blues. With this fine record behind him, Jack moves next year to Loyola College in Montreal, as Athletic Director.

Harrier Champions

This was a busy and successful year for U. of T. in cross-country running, with a decided increase in numbers and calibre of participants. A series of five dual and invitational meets were held; climaxed by the Intercollegiate Championships, which Toronto won.

Toronto won the first dual meet with Wayne State University at Detroit, with Freshman Bruce Kidd placing first. His time for the four miles narrowly missed the course record. The following weekend, the team minus three of the top men was defeated (at Alfred University, New York). With the absence of Kidd and Bill Mills, one of last year's standouts, there were Tony Black, a transfer from O.A.C., and Al Claremont of O.C.E.

The next meet was held with O.A.C. at Toronto which Kidd won, setting a new record for the High Park course. In the Canisius College Invitational Meet at Buffalo, Toronto placed first of 13 colleges, with five men finishing in the first eleven places of the 120 men who ran the race.

Bruce Kidd again won with a new course record, with Bill Mills placing fourth. The other members of the winning team were Black, Mike Turk, and Bob Kaill, a promising freshman. The next dual meet was at Niagara University, where Toronto easily achieved a shutout. Kidd again led the way, setting a new record for the 3.8-mile course.

Other members of the Varsity squad that participated in these cross-country meets were Bill Crothers, Bob Carmichael, Bill Thompson, Nelles Van Loon and Frank Felkai.

In the Intercollegiate championships on November 11, Toronto scored an impressive victory with their five runners completing the 4.7-mile course in the first 11 of the 29 runners from 6 colleges. Kidd won individual honours with a record-shattering time of 21:57.8. The old record was 23:35. Second to Toronto's team point total of 21 was McGill with 30. For Toronto, Black placed 5th, Mills 6th, Kaill 9th, and Turk 11th.

This year witnessed a strong upsurge in Indoor Track in Intercollegiate achievement.

In the first meet of the season, at Boston, Bill Crothers won the 1000 with a time of 2:12.1, and Bruce Kidd placed third in the two miles, in 9:03. At Winnipeg, Bill ran the 500 yds. in the new Canadian record of 56.9 (one-half second off the world record), and Bruce won the 3 miles in 14:08. In New York Crothers placed second in the 880. At Boston the following week, in the A.A. meet, he won the 1000 in 2:08.6 (.7 secs. off the world record), while Kidd placed third in the 2 miles (8.54). At Los Angeles, Crothers placed second to New Zealander Snell's world record breaking run in the 1000, breaking the world record himself with a clocking of 2:07.4. Kidd placed third in the 2-mile run. In the New York A.C. meet, Crothers won the 500 (56.8) and anchored the victorious 2-mile relay team, while Kidd won the 2 miles in 8:54.2. In the U.S. National A.A.U. Championships, Bill won the 600 in 1:10.8, while Bruce won the 3 miles in 13:48.8. Both competed in New York again and in Chicago. On the latter jaunt they were accompanied by a mile relay team from Toronto, composed of Paul Gaudet, Rod Chintu, Brian Michez and Bob Carmichael. This was the first college relay sent from the University this season, Bruce and Bill having run for an independent club. Two weeks later Toronto's team competed in Hamilton.

Toronto scored an impressive victory in this year's Intercollegiate track and field meet, amassing 63 points to defeat McMaster by eight. The victory was doubtful until the final events, the relays. Paul Gaudet placed second in the 100 and 220 sprints; Bob Kaill placed third in the 440 hurdles, and Dave Cook third in the 120, with McMaster winning the event. Crothers won the 880 in the record-breaking time of 1:52.5, after which he completed the 440 in 47.8 seconds. Kidd, a freshman already internationally known, won the mile in a record 4:14 and finished the three-mile run in 14:31.1, 13 seconds better than the old record.

Bill Mills placed fourth in the three miles, Nelles Van Loon finished fourth in the 880, and Gaudet placed third in the 440, to round out the points garnered by Coach

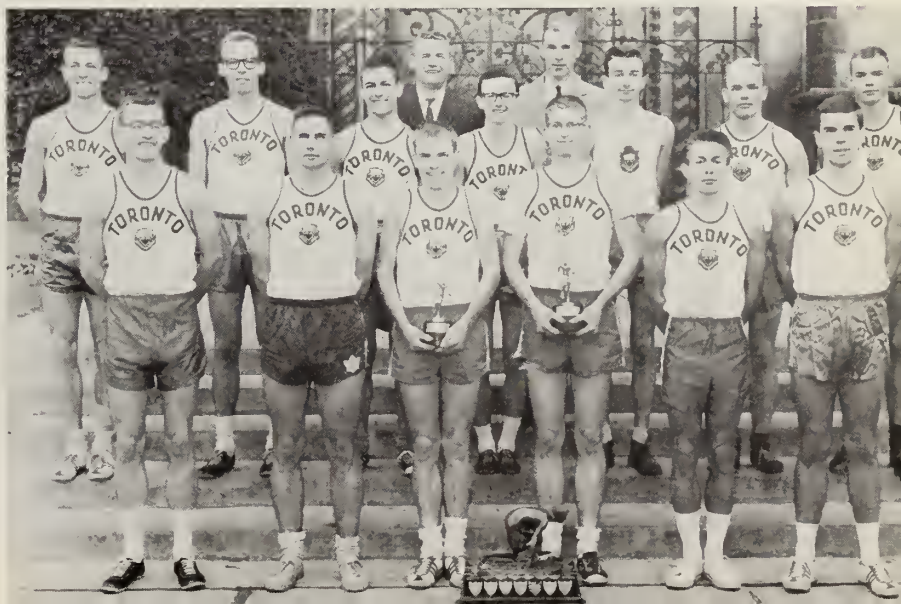

Fred Foot's track contingent.

The field team, coached by Hal Brown, collected unexpected points for the team title. Juri Sutt placed second in the broad jump; Ray Koson won a second in the shot put and third in the discus; Craig Cook repeated his last year's victory in the high jump; and in the javelin, Gary Kozak placed second, with Cam Watson third.

Toronto trailed behind in total points until the newly instituted 440 relay event, in which the team of Brown, Cook and Gaudet placed first in an extremely close finish. In the mile relay, Toronto again triumphed, with Van Loon, Kidd, Carmichael and Crothers beating McMaster convincingly.

University of Toronto retained team honours in the nine-University tournament held at the Cataraqui Golf Club, Kingston. The Blue and White team recorded a 626 total in 36 holes of medal play, beating runner-up McGill by 19 points. Hugh Paterson (Meds. II) lost his individual championship to Mike Whitney, who represented the newest member of the O.Q.A.A., Waterloo University.

A consistent team effort was responsible for Toronto's success. In the individual placing Hugh Paterson was second; John Booth of Dents and Larry Johnson of Trinity tied for third. Norm Goldman of University College who, along with Hugh Paterson, was a member of last year's championship team, placed eighth.

McGill, the 1960 championship team, reverted to the runner-up spot as a powerful University of Montreal team earned the team championship, the singles championship (Francois Godbaut) and the doubles championship (Godbaut and André Toupin). The University finished a strong third.

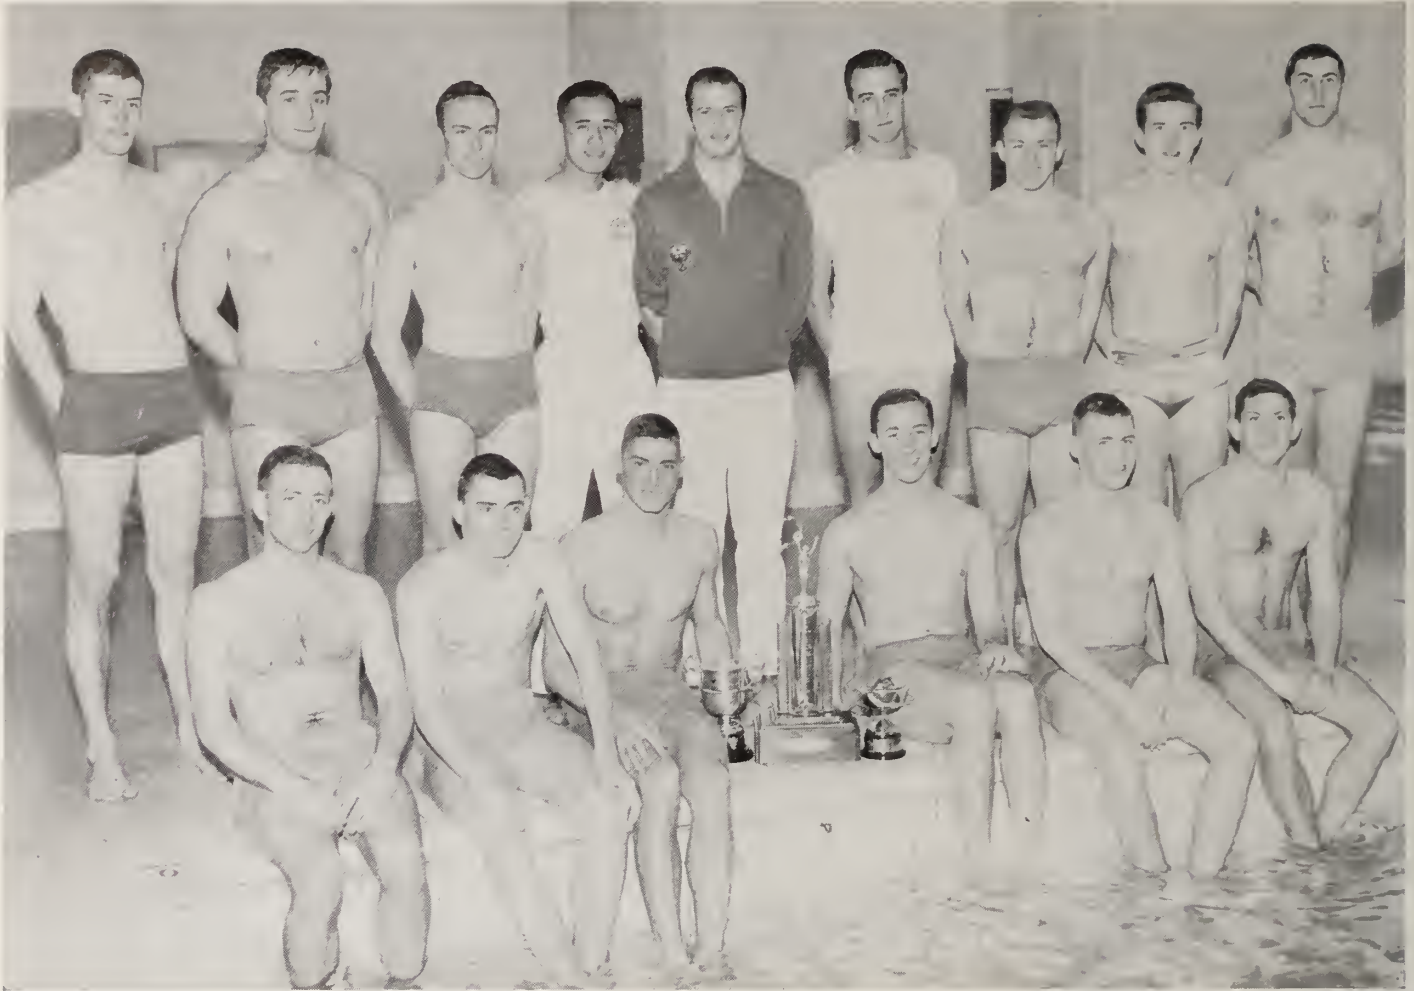

Six universities competed, thus necessitating a single elimination draw which did not favour the Toronto entry. Gus Reinach of Grad. Studies, playing in the number one singles spot, reached the semi-finals by virtue of three wins, but was eliminated by the Montreal champion. Hugh Parker of Trinity was eliminated in the third round, John Moore of Dentistry in the second round, and Barry Fine of Meds, in the first round. Reinach and Parker, Toronto's number one doubles team, reached the finals; however, Moore and Fine were eliminated in the first round by Laval University.

The Blue and White team was truly international: Gus Reinach came to Toronto from Pretoria University, South Africa, and John Moore from the University of Dublin, Ireland. Parker and Fine are both Ontario products.

This year the Swim team was coached by the former Varsity Swim Star (1957-58), ex-Western swimmer (1959-61) Larry Freeman. The team consisted of veteran swimmers such as freestylers M. Chapelle, A. Ashenhurst, P. Richardson, L. Bell, breaststroker H. Armstrong, backstrokers F. R. Fisher and D. Clemons, all-round swimmer W. Unger, top divers G. Huovenin and R. Smagala, and promising rookies such as G. Barber and W. Pigott. The team is a well-balanced one and shows a lot of depth. They won the Intercollegiate title by a fine team effort. This year the team almost had another undefeated season. Their record was spoiled only by a loss to Bowling Green in the Triangular Meet, in which Bowling Green came first with 70, Toronto second with 63, and McGill last with 34. During this season the team defeated Western twice (52-43 and 60-35), downed O.A.C. by 73-22, and humbled Niagara University 69-26. Besides a successful defence of the Intercollegiate Swim Title they also captured the Telegram Relay Trophy. Certainly the Swim team enjoyed a very successful year and maintained the traditional high team spirit.

Varsity Waterpolo Blues, coached by Alex Slavnic and captained by Alex Benedek, won the Hershorn Cup and the Intercollegiate Championship for the second consecutive year when they defeated the McGill Redmen in a two-game, total point series by the score of 12-9. Varsity won the first game at McGill, coming from behind to win 4-3. This game featured the strong play of the defense, as Varsity played shorthanded for at least one-half of the game. In the second game Varsity fought off a closing McGill rush to win 8-6. The goal scorers over the two games were Ed Szaracs with 5, Peter Rollason with 3, and Nick Aplin, Paul Richards, Walter Unger and George Watkin, with one each.

Varsity was strengthened this year with the additions of Ed Szaracs, from the University of Budapest in Hungary; Paul Richards, a graduate student who played for the Blues several years ago; Tom Murani, and Goalie Greg Colman.

In a pre-championship exhibition game, the Blues trounced McMaster 10-1. This was McMaster's first year in Intercollegiate Water Polo. In the Ontario Championships, the Toronto Water Polo Club defeated Varsity twice by the scores 14-8 and 8-4.

Returning next year will be Greg Colman, Paul Richards, Tom Murani, Walter Unger, Larry Bell and George Watkin.

Gymnastic Champions

Toronto fielded its strongest team in several years to take the Carson Trophy, which is the symbol of Intercollegiate gymnastic supremacy. Toronto easily took the title by winning all of the six gymnastic events and first and third places individually by Barry Brooker and Gabriel Pal. The team strength lay in all its members: Bill Whitelaw, Chuck Cansfield, Les Filotas and Bob Smagala also accounted for the easy victory over McGill and Royal Military College. In exhibition competition the team was defeated by Syracuse University, but showed strongly in several events. Coach Frank Gormek expects the return of most of this year's team for next spring's championships, when several of the other universities are expected to enter. Gymnastics appears to be on the upgrade in Ontario high schools recently, and many prospective freshmen will be trying out for the Varsity Gymnastic Team, which will be competing more and demonstrating more, both on and off campus, in 1962-63.

Skiing Team

Aiming for the Intercollegiate Championships in February at St. Sauveur de Monts in Quebec, the U. of T. ski team began training in the late fall. At Beaver Valley the alpine contingent placed third in the Ontario open team races. The team met many of the other intercollegiate racers at the Carlton Invitational meet. Here the team began to jell into a solid, well-balanced unit.

The Intercollegiate Championships began with the slalom on a treacherous course but Peter Hamilton, Don Lecocq, Roger Dunkin and Tom Leegaard stayed with powerful Laval and McGill. U. of T. swept the first two places in the long, gruelling, fifteen-kilometre race. Tireless Raimo Repo placed first for the third year in a row, followed by close second place George Torrance. Peter Barton came ninth. Poor conditions forced the downhill to be changed to a giant slalom. Toronto strayed to fourth place in this event.

Moving to the U. de Montreal jumping hill, Tom Leegaard placed second with beautiful style, Roger Dunkin fourth, George Torrance sixth, and Raimo Repo eighth. This jumping power clinched the Nordic Championship for the team, and individual first and second place honours for Raimo Repo and George Torrance respectively. Tom Leegaard won the coveted "Skimeister Championship" for best individual performance.

U. of T. lost the team victory by five points to McGill, the perennial victor.

To Bill Beck again the accolades for a job well done. Next year the ski team should crown his efforts with a victory.

Fencing Champions

BACK ROW: R. G. Rice, D. M. Jackson, R. F. Shurb, J. J. Grodziszewski, H. Microys.
FRONT: Imre Hennyey (Fencing Master), J. Gell (Captain).

The U. of T. Fencing team this year succeeded in recapturing the Intercollegiate Championship in a close meet held here on February 10. Led by the expert fencing of Ron Rice (SPS. IV), Toronto scored 50 wins, defeating McGill and U. of M. each with 46 wins, and McMaster with only 20 wins. Rice was justly rewarded by receiving the Charles Walters Trophy for the individual championship in foil, and the George Tully Trophy for style, sportsmanship and skill.

The Intercollegiate Championship was only the climax of a highly successful year. Of their 6 meets, Toronto won 5. The one loss was to Rochester Institute of Technology in Rochester on December 9; when R.I.T. came to Toronto on January 27, they were defeated 16-11. On January 13 we won a double meet against both Gannon College and Royal Military College, and R.M.C. were again defeated in the return match at Kingston on February 3.

The Fencing Club's annual Novice Tournament was won by Andy Divorak (Pre-Med. I), while Helmut Herrmann (U.C. I) placed second.

Throughout the year, Rice was by far Toronto's best fencer; besides the two trophies he won at the Intercollegiate, Rice also won the U. of T. Foil Championship and did well in the O.F.A. Tournaments. He will be missed next year. John Gell (Trin. IV), who was president of the Fencing Club and captain of the team, was Toronto's second best fencer, scoring 12 wins in the Intercollegiate. Mike Jackson (Trin. IV) did consistently well in epee, as did Ron Shurb (SPS. IV) in foil and sabre. Helmut Microys (SPS. III) showed good sportsmanship and coolness in his epee fencing, and Julius Grodziszewski (SPS. IV) was a valuable last-minute addition to our sabre team. Our coach and teacher was Mr. Imre Hennyey, who was ultimately responsible for our victories, and to whom we extend our thanks. In spite of the fact that five members of the team are graduating this year, this adroit swordsman will probably produce a winning team again next year.

Boxing Team

FRONT: J. Duff (Manager), J. G. McGahey, R. F. Reed, A. W. Anderson (135 lb. Champion), A. Canzana (Caach).

The Gibson Trophy was taken from the defending University of Toronto team by Royal Military College in a hard-fought tournament at Queen's University. Toronto won three individual championships to finish in second place. R.M.C. won four final bouts and Queen's the remaining two. The Varsity winners were Allan Anderson (135 lb.), Jim McManus (150 lb.), and Ron Brooks (165 lb.).

Vince Chapin (140 lb.), Bob Reed (145 lb.) and Bob Turner (175 lb.) were runners-up in their divisions, while Vic Niemela (130 lb.) and John McGoey (155 lb.) lost in elimination bouts. The Varsity heavyweight, Lou Simon, was unable to attend the meet because of illness. The sixteen-ounce gloves used this year seemed to cause a decrease in the number of knockouts.

Prospects for 1963 look excellent as promising rookies in every weight division come out to practise regularly. Anyone who wants to make next year's team will have to defeat tough opposition to do so.

Wrestling Champions

BACK ROW: D. C. Clements, D. S. Merker, J. L. Amos (Coach), H. Cooke, W. Watters. SECOND: J. Keystone, E. Keystone (Co-Managers).
FRONT: C. N. Good, J. P. Stephenson, M. Houston (Captain), J. D. Holt, A. R. Black.

To sum up this year, one can only say that it has been a very hectic but a successful season for the Senior Wrestling team. Although brought to its knees many times at the hands of more experienced American clubs, the University of Toronto team benefitted in the long run from the stiff competition. Meets were held in Niagara Falls, O.A.C. in Guelph, University of Buffalo, and the University of Rochester. The home meets were highlighted by tournaments against Hazel Park, from Detroit, Michigan, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute from Troy, New York. The team's only win in 5 starts against American clubs came with the stunning defeat of the University of Rochester on their own campus. In these preparatory bouts, the Varsity squad ended with a record of 3 wins and 4 losses.

With a tremendous team effort the U. of T. Wrestling Blues finished the season in fine style by successfully defending their Intercollegiate Championship to retain the Porter Trophy another year. Varsity placed every man in the finals and 5 individual championships were captured. John Stephenson, Mickey Houston, John Holt, Ron Merker and Hughie Cooke were Toronto champions in the 130, 137, 147, 177 and 191 lbs. classes respectively. Clive N. Good, Tony Black, Ron Clements and Bill Watters were runners-up in the 123, 157, 167 lbs. and heavyweight classes, respectively. John Holt, muscular captain of the Blues, clearly established himself as top wrestler in the Tournament by winning the "Outstanding Wrestler Award." John Stephenson was runner-up for this trophy.

For the first time in several years, a freshman won a championship. Rookie Ron Merker took the honours in the 177-lb. class, firmly establishing himself as a threat for many years. A highlight of the evening finals was John Stephenson's successful bid for revenge when he pinned the "elusive" Tom Parker from Western. With the patient guidance of Coach Jack Amos, who was somewhat assisted by his two anti-authoritarian co-managers, Ed and Jay Keystone, the squad maintained its sportsman-like spirit and concentrated energy to face this year's severe competition. Next year the team is looking forward to recapturing the title won this year, and with a coach like Jack Amos to guide them how can they lose?

Badminton Team

T. G. Phillips, E. McCullough, D. E. Laird.
ABSENT: G. Wade

The Varsity Badminton team, hampered by lack of practice space, was surprised by a powerful Queen's contingent that had been dormant since their last successful safari into the Championships in 1958-59.

Queen's went through the tournament held at McGill undefeated, winning their 24 matches. Toronto finished second with 18 wins, followed by Western with 10, McGill with 8, and Assumption who failed to win a match.

The highlight of the Championships was the Queen's-Toronto battle in the four singles and two doubles events. Although Varsity failed to win a match, the games were extremely tight and could have gone either way.

Although the Varsity squad lost three of last year's winning squad, including Singles and Doubles Champion Ross Lundy and Doubles Champ Casey Wood, the squad was not weak. The number one player, Gord Wade, was Ontario Junior Champion for four years. Ernie McCullough played considerable badminton in Western Canada. Don Laird was playing on the squad for the third year and Tim Phillips had seen Intercollegiate competition before. Each man won all his matches save these with Queen's.

Sailing Team

SECOND: J. P. Jolly, W. S. Gornall, J. G. Baird, A. R. Coles.
FRONT: B. A. Moyle, D. A. Crate, A. H. Crosbie, P. C. Beamish, H. J. Lammers.
ABSENT: C. D. Grant, M. H. Wood.

Arrangements were made for the University of Toronto Sailing Club to use the boats of the Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club last fall, for elimination and practice races. The U. of T. Club is most grateful for the kindness of the T.S. and C. Club, as, with no boats of its own, it was the only possible way to hold any elimination races.

At the Intercollegiate Regatta held at the Royal Military College on October 7, Varsity placed fourth, behind R.M.C., Queen's and Western. A spectacular show by R.M.C. allowed them to win the Grant Trophy for the first time since 1937. A regatta at Rochester produced a first-place tie against several well-known American Universities, and at Cornell the U. of T. freshmen proved very adept, coming home with a second-place finish. At Detroit the team also placed second.

Charlie Grant, Peter Jolly, Larry Smith and Mark Wood competed at the R.M.C. regatta; Dick Coles, Murray Lister, Gord Ness and Josh Lammers made up the team at the Wayne State University regatta in Detroit; and Bruce Moyle, Al Crosbie and Al Gibson went to Rochester.

Curling Team

The Curling Club operated this year from the Avonlea Curling Club every Sunday evening from 6-8 o'clock. Ninety-six curlers participated in a 14-game schedule.

Two bonspiels were held, the first a double rink at Guelph where the U. of T. team, represented by M. Nordine (skip), J. Britton, A. Armstrong, Paul Knutson, Geo. Morissey (skip), P. A. Giroux, J. P. Stonach and J. McLeod, finished out of the running. The second speil at Kitchener was a single rink competition. The team of T. Cushing (skip), J. Creighton, J. P. Stronach, E. W. Knaack lost to McMaster in the championship game, while the other team of S. Gaillard (skip), A. Armstrong, L. A. Johnson and Dave McLeod lost in their second game.

The winter has come and gone again and with it a few more athletes have passed through to Hart House squash courts. During the season, three teams were entered in the Toronto and District City League in divisions A, B and C respectively. Results were only fair, but the competition afforded did much to improve the calibre of squash racquets for a maximum number of team players.

In the annual O.Q.A.A. Intercollegiate Championships, held this year in Toronto, what has happened too often in the past, happened once again. Of the total fifteen matches, McGill won eight, University of Toronto seven, Western merely provided cannon fodder. Two Toronto-McGill matches were very close and might have gone to U. of T.'s favour. This year's team members were John Ireton, Morley Smith, Keith Acheson, John Gorham and Bruce Robb.

Colin Adair of McGill won the individual championship in five games, from John Ireton, defending champion.

This brief resumé would be incomplete without an expression of thanks to the coach, Mr. Ralph Rimmer. His patience is to be envied, his encouragement and skill were invaluable, and his diplomacy would do a member of the United Nations well.

Tennis Champions

Hildegard Balogh, Del Roymond, Miss E. Shearer (Coach), Della Freedhoff, Veronica Holdup.

In October the Tennis Team travelled to McGill in hopes of breaking the three-way tie established last year. The team's only returnee was Del Roymond, but seeded players such as Della Freedhoff and Veronica Holdup added that desired strength. The girls had no trouble overpowering the opposition, as they won all of their matches and thus made a clean sweep of the tournament.

The bird enthusiasts migrated to Hamilton to test their skills with the other universities. Although not victorious, their smashes and clears were good enough to lift them into second place. Judy Matthews and Ruth Nunns, playing singles, overcame all opposition with ease except the more experienced Queen's squad. The doubles team ended with a similar record, winning all but their match against the tricolour.

The Volleyball Team had a most successful season. Week-night practices would find the team walking on their fingers, groaning through sit-ups or beating balls against the wall. They worked hard, most of the time, yet managed to have fun all the time. Exhibition games against McMaster, O.A.C., and Queen's were winners for Toronto and only Western presented a team stalwart enough to down them.

The Intercollegiate tournament, held at Queen's, was the final test. Again, Toronto won every match, except the one against Western. That well-played match provided the best competition of the weekend. If the spirit of this year's team can be matched, Toronto has a good chance to come up with the championship in 1962-3.

Hockey

Champions

After a lapse of ten years, intercollegiate hockey tournaments again came officially into existence. As before, Toronto was able to field a powerful and well-trained team.

The superiority in skating and shooting paid off at Guelph at the tournament. After a shaky start in the first game — a tie with O.A.C. — Toronto held its own and came up with decisive victories over Queen's, Western, and McGill, and thus won the championship.

All the games featured plenty of excitement. Ice-long rushes were made by the forward line, led by Nancy Darling and Laurel Ball. Sturdy checks were handed out at the blue line by the defense corps. Behind all this action Phyllis Hart demonstrated her skill by making fancy saves off screen shots and breakaways.

Although many will be graduating this year, we know that the able coach will come up with another strong team next year.

The Basketball Teams, under a rookie coach, completed the season with respectable records. They were successful in all of their pre-season games, except for a home-and-home series with Western.

In the intercollegiate tournament, the senior team again faced the smooth purple and white and again had to accept defeat. The tournament had a number of thrilling moments, but the most unforgettable event was Sue Fountain's set shot with less than fifteen seconds to go, that brought victory to Varsity over the Redmen (42-41). With that win Toronto climbed into second spot behind Western who won all of their games. Thus Western regained the coveted "Bronze Baby" which had a short stay at Queen's last year.

Intermediate Basketball Team

Outdoor Archery Team

Jean Hayward, Jean MacDonald, Jaan Hape, Viiu Kanep, Miss M. Berridge (Coach).

Archery came into the spotlight last fall, as Toronto played host to the Intercollegiate Outdoor Archery Tournament. The fresh breezes at Varsity Stadium on that October day were not cool enough to lower the enthusiasm or hinder the shooting ability, as the Toronto foursome placed second to the sharp-shooting Westerners. Viiu Kanep, a four-year veteran with the team, was Toronto's top scorer that day.

When archery moved indoors, there were many unfamiliar faces on the team. Jean Hayward remained as the only old-timer in midst of a group of three eager and determined freshmen. At the tournament at Western, Toronto again managed to get the runner-up spot to the host team. Lenora Beacock, a first-year student, displayed some outstanding marksmanship by placing second among the individual scorers.

JOAN TAIT

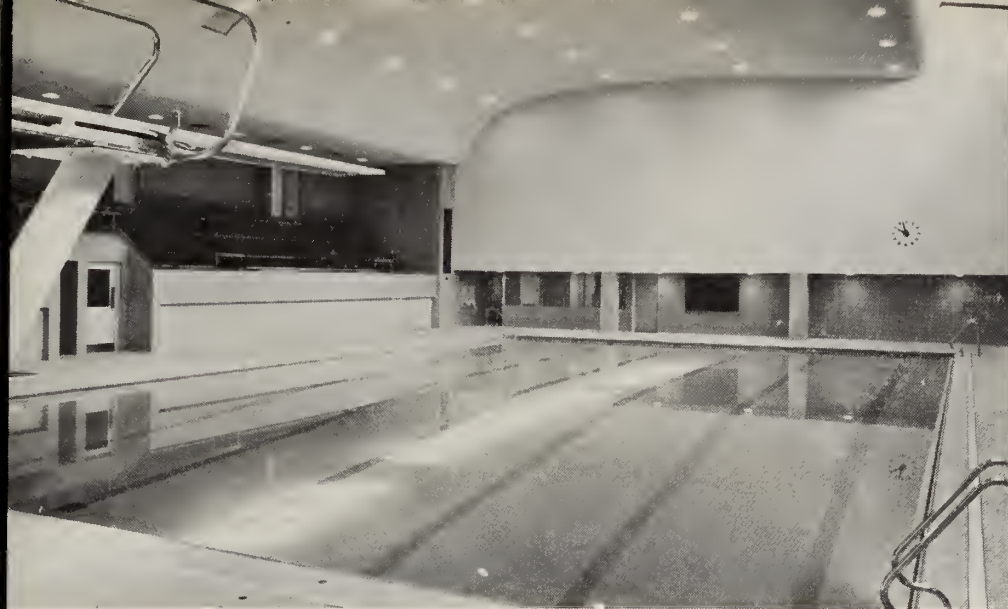

Our Swim Team this year won the intercollegiate meet and in doing so became the first recipient of the swimming trophy presented to the W.I.A.U. by Queen's. In the diving competition Toronto placed second and third to McGill. Joan Tait was successful in getting a first in the synchronized skills division. Another first was obtained in the duet and trio competitions by Martha Brewin, Tussy Fraino, and Sheila Dutrieue with a perky number entitled "Salty Sequence".

The speed team clinched Toronto's victory by winning six out of eight events—three by new intercollegiate records. The records were shattered by Sara Barber in the backstroke, by Karen Green in the butterfly, and by the medley relay team made up of the above mentioned as well as Bonnie Benson and Gill Fisher.

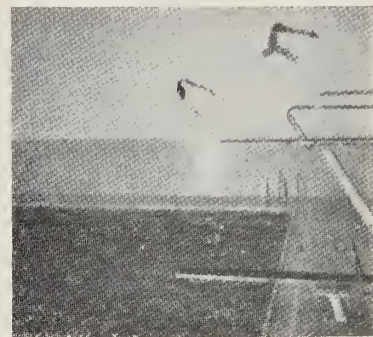

One highlight of the season was a trip to Ann Arbor, Michigan, for an exhibition meet with Michigan and Western.

College and Faculty Representatives

The Editors wish to thank the following students who were chosen by their college or faculty to organize the taking of team and club photographs and the writing of articles, and to collect pictures of campus life. The representatives, forming the essential liaison between the campus and the TORONTONENSIS, have worked closely with the layout editors to produce the book. They have also aided in preparing lists of graduates and in collecting biography cards, a formidable task in the larger faculties.

Staff

TORONTONENSIS, the all-campus yearbook of the University of Toronto, is a mammoth undertaking in the sphere of organization. Since all pages are contracted for by campus organizations, the TORONTONENSIS staff is responsible not for taking photographs and writing articles, but for processing, organizing and laying out the material submitted by faculty and club representatives. The editors wish to thank their large staff for co-operation and hard work, and to single out especially the workers on the Graduate section who have spent long hours from October to April editing hundreds of biography cards, compiling and revising lists, pasting, phoning, and finally correcting proofs and pasting pages.

Editors	Margaret Fisher, Frank Edmonds, Gwen Campbell.

The Editors wish to express their gratitude to the following people who, though not officially on the staff, played an integral part in the production of TORONTONENSIS 1962:

Miss S. L. Evans corrected all galley proofs, prepared a great deal of the material for the press, acted in an advisory capacity, and did much of the final paste-up.

Mr. J. B. Graham gave willing assistance in the initial organization of the staff, and in the final stages of the book's production.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Toll were invaluable in organizing the hundreds of graduate photographs, rushing them to the Torontonensis in the desired order, and aiding the Graduate Editor in every way possible.

Miss Phyllis Lea of the University Department of Athletics worked willingly to organize the taking of photographs and writing of articles for the large athletics section.

Margaret Daly trained many of the section editors in layout procedure and aided in the initial organization.

TORONTONENSIS 1962 has tried to live up to its name and to be truly "of Toronto". Within these covers we have attempted to draw together a University, to portray each facet of University life — the intellectual, the athletic, the social, and the organizational, and to achieve the same unity in diversity that is the essence of the University of Toronto. The life of this University is a rich one: the student grows here not only through books and instruction, but also through his exposure to a community, through his opportunity to reach out into many fields, to broaden his horizon of experience, and to form a future citizen aware of the world around him. We have attempted here to strike a compromise between the rah-rah college spirit which we on occasion show and the sedate, apathetic character of which we are often accused. We have brought to you in TORONTONENSIS 1962 a glimpse of a University and of its students. May it remain for each student a part of the library of memories of the place of the University of Toronto in his life.
